REDS ACCUSE U. N. OF "STALLING"

House Warned Of War Danger By Rep. Mahon

U. S. Europe Supply Bases Pulled Back

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — The House heard members assert today that there is "only a minimum hope" of averting world war and that the threat is so close that American military supply bases in Europe are being pulled back from natural Russian invasion routes.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee which has charge of military budgets, sounded the "minimum hope" warning at the opening of debate on a $56,062,405,800 armed services supply bill.

Rep. Sikes (D-Fla) followed up with the report on supply placement.

There was no indication, however, that their words had created any major sensation among lawmakers accustomed to grave warnings when military money bills are up for action.

At one time, Sikes said, supplies were concentrated at points "along the natural invasion route which the Russians almost certainly would follow in case of an attack."

"Invitation To Invasion"

He called that "an open invitation to invasion, with free and needed supplies."

The materials now are being assembled "in much safer areas" away from the Russian zone, Sikes said.

At the Pentagon, available military officials said they had not heard of any large scale transfer of supplies in the German occupation zone, to which Sikes apparently referred.

They pointed out, however, that it would be a responsibility of the theater commander and headquarters might not get a report immediately.

Mahon warned against complacency and said that while the United States is increasing strength day by day "the same is probably true of Russia."

Clearer Picture Due Soon

He told his colleagues that "in my judgment, there is only a minimum hope that our difficulties with Russia can and will be resolved short of war. Trends from cold to hot war, from little wars to big wars, do not have a tendency to reverse themselves short of an all-out explosion.

"We are not so blind that we fail to realize that an all-out shooting war might last for a decade and might very well destroy much of civilization as we know it on this planet."

However, he said war "is not inevitable." He said the world picture should be somewhat clearer this fall, which will be "the time of decision."

"Unless there is a decided change for the better," Mahon continued, "more money will be needed later this year to build up the Air Force and strengthen the Navy's air arm — and to increase this country's military forces beyond the presently planned 3,500,000 men."

Truman Favors Aid For Chiang

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman wants to invest $307,000,000 in Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist Chinese on Formosa, it was learned from Senate sources today.

The Senate's Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees have been asked to approve $217,000,000 in military aid for the Nationalists and $90,000,000 in economic assistance during fiscal 1952, which started July 1.

The administration has included the amounts in its $8,500,000,000 military and economic aid program now being considered by the committees. Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), who favors the idea, said the money would be used to strengthen strategic Formosa's defenses rather than to prepare the Nationalists for an aggressive war against the Communists who have taken over China proper.

Smith said Mr. Truman's decision to help the Nationalists represents "quite a change in the administration's thinking from the time, 18 months ago, when the President announced there would be no more military aid for Chiang Kai-Shek's forces."

At that time the administration had disassociated itself from Chiang. The Korean war changed the picture, bringing renewed demands from Republicans and others that Chiang be aided.

Last Rites For Air Crash Victims

Brief memorial services were held Monday on Mt. Moran, one of the lofty Tetons near Yellowstone Park, for the 21 persons who perished when a chartered plane smashed into the peak last November. The rites were conducted by Dr. J. Ruskin Garber (left), director of the New Tribes Mission of Chico, Calif., which had chartered the plane. The mission decided to leave the bodies at the crash scene.

Temporary Rail Freight Rate Hike Approved By ICC

9 Per Cent Increase In East Is Granted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The railroads today got authority to increase freight rates again, by about $548,000,000 a year—but only for a limited period.

Rejecting an industry plea for a permanent, general 15 per cent increase in charges, the Interstate Commerce Commission instead granted a nine per cent hike within the East and six per cent within the South and West.

It stipulated that on all freight moving between these three territories, the increase may not exceed the six per cent applied to the major portion of the country.

15 Days' Notice Required

The changes may be made on 15 days' notice to the public and may also be adopted by water carriers subject to ICC jurisdiction.

The authority for the higher rates will expire Feb. 28, 1953, and ICC reserved the right to re-examine its action any time between now and then.

The six to nine per cent increases will replace the temporary increases of four per cent in the East and two per cent elsewhere which ICC authorized last March when the railroads said emergency action was required to meet mounting wage and materials costs.

OPS Advice Ignored

The ICC acted then, and again today, over the advice of the Office of Price Stabilization that new rail rate hikes would necessarily be reflected in general pricing and make more difficult the government's task of "holding the line."

One OPS official commented after after the latest action that "somebody will have to pay for these higher transportation costs — in most cases it undoubtedly will be the consumer."

On the other hand, the commission said it had carefully considered the effect on the cost of living, but had concluded that the railroads must have enough revenues to maintain " a transportation system adequate to meet the needs of national defense."

Polio Strikes Six Of Eight Children Of Calif. Family

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (AP) — Six children of one family are in the Los Angeles County General Hospital today with polio.

The first was stricken with the disease a week ago and the sixth was admitted to the hospital yesterday.

They are six of the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Demars of Van Nuys. Demars is a brick mason tender.

The family's plight was disclosed today by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which has offered to provide the full cost of treatment.

Pleven Becomes French Premier

PARIS, Aug. 8 (AP)—The French National Assembly today confirmed Rene Pleven as premier, a job he held for seven months last year.

The vote was 391 to 102.

Pleven's investiture opens the way for an end to the political crisis which has gripped France since Premier Henri Queuille resigned July 10. Queuille's resignation was an automatic consequence of the national parliamentary elections June 17.

Only the Communists voted against Pleven. Members of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) abstained. His support came from the wide range of middle-of-the-road parties that have controlled the French government for the past four years. One of these is his own small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance (UDSR).

Pleven succeeded today where two previous candidates lost out. Rene Mayer, outgoing minister of justice, and Maurice Petsche, outgoing minister of finance, failed to get the required absolute majority of 314 votes when they asked for investiture.

Army Grid Coach Admits Athletes Were Recruited

Defends Practice As "Perfectly Proper"

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Army Football Coach Earl Blaik conceded today that West Point recruited five to 11 high school football players a year and defended the practice as "perfectly proper."

He defined the recruiting as inviting the athletes to the academy for a "cram course" to help them pass entrance examinations— with their expenses during the course paid by "interested civilian alumni."

"If we did not do that, we would be unable to have any athletes in West Point able to play a normal schedule," Blaik said.

Seven Of 24 Passed Exams

Fifteen of the 45 players on last year's football squad entered the academy with this help, he said.

Blaik issued his statement in the midst of a nationwide controversy over the threatened dismissal of 90 cadets, including a number of football stars, for cheating in classroom examinations.

The coach said 24 athletic prospects invited to the academy this year studied for several weeks from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. but only seven succeeded in passing the stiff exams and only five finally entered the academy.

"The whole procedure was perfectly proper and correct and not contrary to the rules of the associations to which we belong," Blaik said.

No "Pressure" Used

He gave his statement after the Chicago Tribune quoted Duncan MacDonald, a Flint, Mich., high school football star, as saying he and other potential Army players had a six-week expense-paid vacation at the academy this summer.

MacDonald later said the story was a "misrepresentation of facts."

Blaik said no high school players were "high-pressured" to enter the academy and declared some were invited to the cram course after asking for the opportunity.

The coach said all 24 boys invited to the cram course already had or were assured of the required congressional appointments to the academy—subject to their ability to cope with the entrance examinations.

Tax Collections Last Year Average $360 Per Person

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Tax payments to federal, state and local governments came to an average of $360 last year for every man, woman and child in the country, the Census Bureau reported today.

This $30-a-month average showed the per-person tax burden as more than doubled in a period of eight years. The annual average was $171 as late as 1942, the bureau said.

Of the $360 per-person collections of 1950, the federal government got $248, or about 70 per cent of the total. The states got $59, local government $53.

Overall collections of the federal, state and local governments set a record high of $54,626,000 in 1950, the bureau said, nosing above 1948's previous record of $54,495,000,000.

But not even that all-governments total will hold a candle to collections of the federal government alone in the present fiscal year, which began July 1. Estimates for federal receipts in this period range up to $61,000,000,000.

The Census Bureau said the two per cent gain in tax collections in 1950 as compared with 1949 resulted from a seven per cent gain in state taxes (from $8,349,000,000 to $8,940,000,000) and an eight per cent gain in local taxes (from $7,417,000,000 to $8,002,000,000).

Federal collections in that period, it observed, "decreased slightly from $37,810,000,000 to $37,684,000,000."

Australia, New Zealand And U. S. To Sign Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States, Australia and New Zealand will formally sign a mutual security treaty in San Francisco Sept. 1.

Secretary of State Acheson will head a 10-man American delegation to the signing ceremonies.

The treaty pledges each nation to consider an armed attack against either of the others as "dangerous to its own peace and safety."

In announcing the final signing plans, the State Department said "in due course" the treaty will be followed by other steps looking toward "the development of a more comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

Acheson Sees Anti-Jap Pact Drive By Reds

Russia May Attempt To Disrupt Meeting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of tate Acheson said today he is sure Russia will wage a propaganda campaign during the next four weeks to disrupt the Japanese peace conference of San Francisco.

The conference is scheduled to meet September 4 to sign a treaty sponsored by the United States and Britain. Some countries such as India and the Philippines have objected to various provisions and one speculation here is that Russia may try to play on their objections to make trouble at the conference.

The Kremlin has been invited to attend along with other nations which were at war with Japan, but Acheson told his news conference that he did not know whether the Russians would do so.

Expresses "Satisfaction"

Acheson expresses "satisfaction" over publication inside Russia this week of a congressional resolution expressing friendship for the Soviet people and a letter from President Truman on the same theme. The Soviets also published answers from Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik and the Presidium of the Soviet Union.

Commenting on Shvernik's letter, which talked about preserving peace, prohibiting an arms race, and banning atomic weapons, Acheson challenged the Soviets to back up their words with deeds in the United Nations.

He said Shvernik had ignored the United Nations in his letter and declared: "If the Soviet Union now wants to reach concrete realistic agreements, all of these objectives can be realized within the United Nations."

Penetration Of Iron Curtain

Acheson described the publication of the President's letter and the congressional resolution as the penetration of the iron curtain by "a ray of truth." But he declared that the curtain "remains a basic obstacle" to the attainment of world peace and said that it must someday cease to exist.

In response to questions Acheson also said:

1. The present situation between Pakistan and India is one of tension and danger and the United States has expressed to both countries its concern over their differences.

2. The State Department is continuing to seek the release from a Czechoslovak prison of Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis who is serving a 10-year sentence on charges of "espionage."

3. Acheson is optimistic about the chances for an Anglo-Iranian agreement to end the present Iranian oil crisis, though great problems remain to be solved.

Truman Warns Of Red Dangers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman said today "we must maintain large armed forces for along time to come if we are to protect our freedom and prevent World War Three."

Communism, he said, presents "terrible dangers."

He spoke at the dedication of the presidential lounge at Washington's Union Station. Service men and women use the lounge, under auspices of the United Service Organization's Travelers' Aid.

"We have to give up profits and wage increases—do without things we would like to have," Mr. Truman said. "But the greatest sacrifices are made by our young men and women who have the job of manning defenses in the cause of world peace."

The USO program, he said, is one in which "all of us ought to share." The USO, among other things, maintains lounges, clubs, and information centers for service personnel.

Italian Premier Wins Vote Of Confidence

ROME, Aug. 8 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi's new government won a half-hearted vote of confidence from the Senate today, 151 to 101. It faces a vote tomorrow in the Chamber of Deputies.

Despite mounting opposition within the ranks of De Gasperi's own Christian Democrat Party, chamber approval appears insured.

The tests follow a week of sharp debate in both chambers. Even De Gasperi's followers have criticized the government for a do-nothing attitude toward high prices, agrarian reform and the nation's unemployed, who total more than 2,000,000.

Oust-McCarthy Move Goes To Senate Group Which Hit Maryland Election Tactics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Senate committee which denounced some of the tactics in the 1950 Maryland senatorial contest as "despicable" was assigned today to pass on a move to oust Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) from the Senate for his part in the campaign.

It got the job shortly after Sen. Wherry (Neb), the Senate Republican leader, had charged—and the Democratic National Committee had denied—that the move against McCarthy was an attempt by the Democratic organization to take the heat off its own chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr.

Only yesterday an Expenditures Investigating subcommittee had agreed to look into charges that Boyle attempted to influence government loans or contracts. Boyle has denied the accusation.

Election Report Goes To Senate

The Senate Rules Committee, by a vote of 9 to 3, today approved, for transmission to the Senate itself, a report from a Privileges and Elections subcommittee which said a "despicable, 'back street' type of campaign" was put on for Republican John Marshall Butler in Maryland. The report noted that McCarthy was active in Butler's behalf in the campaign which cost the veteran Democrat Millard Tydings his Senate seat.

At the same time the full Privileges and Elections Committee, headed by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz), turned over to the subcommittee the resolution by Sen. Benton (D-Conn) calling for expulsion of McCarthy.

The full committee approved the subcommittee report and also endorsed its vote to refer the document to the Justice Department.

Benton Seeks Quick Hearings

Benton is pressing for quick public hearings but Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa), chairman of the subcommittee, told reporters it will be "considerable time" before his group can do anything about it.

Two Republicans on the Rules Committee—Sens. Hendrickson (N-J) and Margaret Chase Smith (ME)—voted with the Democrats to pass the Maryland election report along to the Senate. The Democrats with whom they aligned themselves were Hayden, Gillette, Benton, Green (RI), Clements (Ky), Monroney (Okla) and Hennings (Mo).

The three republicans in opposition were McCarthy, Wherry and Jenner (Ind).

McCarthy was given "not more than ten days" to file a minority report from the Rules group. He expressed hope that Wherry and Jenner would join him in it.

RECOVERING—Sen. Charles W. Tobey (above), 71, New Hampshire Republican, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage July 15 but his family reported yesterday he is recovering "slowly but surely."

17 Accused Red Leaders To Get New Attorneys

Government Agrees; More Arrests Seen

[By The Associated Press]

The government yesterday paid heed to the plea of 17 accused Communist leaders and agreed to appointment of new attorneys for their defense.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, one of the defendants and acting spokesman for her fellow accused, asked dismissal of eight lawyers appointed by the court for their defense. She said they would "feed the prejudice already generated against us."

Apparently her references was to the fact that some of the lawyers previously had been identified with Communist cases.

Hoover Sees More Arrests

This was the principal development of the day in the government's anti-subversive drive which FBI Chief J .Edgar Hoover says is to net more American reds.

In Baltimore FBI agents early yesterday grabbed Maurice L. Braverman, 35, alleged official attorney for the Communists' Baltimore headquarters, as he arrived by plane from New York.

Braverman brought to 51 the number of American Communists charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. Government. He was ordered held in $75,000 bail.

Judge Sylvester A. Ryan agreed in Federal Court in New York to appointment of new attorneys for the 17 accused second-string Communists. He relieved the lawyers originally assigned to the case.

New Panel Submitted

Ryan submitted a new panel of 10 possible defense attorneys, including George Wolf, counsel for Gambler Frank Costello, and O. John Rogge, former assistant U. S. attorney general.

The judge said he got the names of the 10 from four bar associations and that each of them was regarded an experienced lawyer in the courts.

Wolf, in a statement issued shortly after the court's action, said he would "consider it an honor" to take the case.

It was not disclosed immediately whether the Communists would regard any of the proposed 10 as acceptable.

McCarthy Asserts He'll Reveal Names Of 29 "Suspects"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he intends to give the Senate the names of 29 past or present employes of the State Department whose loyalty has been questioned.

He told a news conference he will disclose the names in a speech on the Senate floor tomorrow.

"Some very high officials" are on the list, McCarthy said. He reported most of the employes are under investigation on charges ranging from association with Communists to Communist affiliation.

The Wisconsin Republican said he thinks all employes whose loyalty is in doubt should be suspended, on the reasoning that "if an employe is charged with embezzling from a bank, you don't let him still have access to the till."

Cathedral, Theater Burn At San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Metropolitan Cathedral and the National Theater were destroyed today by a fire that flashed out of the theater's film storages and swept across the main square of this Central American capital.

First reports said 40 persons were injured in the theater.

The fire started in late afternoon presumably when a short-circuited wire threw sparks on a movie film.

Russians Warned Not To Be Deceived By U. S. Messages

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (AP) — Izvestia led off the Soviet press today in telling the Russian people not to be deceived by the friendship messages of the United States Congress and President Truman.

It seemed clear that the Soviet government has made its proposed five-power peace pact the cornerstone for bettering relations with the United States, and that American rejection of the proposal is going to be interpreted here as rejection of real friendship for the Soviet Union.

All Moscow papers gave a big play to the exchange of messages between the American President and Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik, and the U. S. Congress' resolution declaring Americans want friendly relations with the Russians.

Izvestia, the government newspaper; Pravda, the Communist paper; Red Star and Red Fleet, the organs of the Soviet army and navy, and even the Teachers Gazette carried the full message of peace from Washington.

Coming on top of British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison's statement published in four top Soviet papers last week that the Russian people are being misinformed that the British people are warmongers, it was obvious the Washington communications would arouse much interest here.

Enemy's Top Leaders Play Waiting Game

Ridgway's Demand Still Unanswered

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Communist top command played a waiting game on the interrupted Korean cease-fire talks today while accusing the United Nations of "stalling" tactics.

There still was no official response to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Tuesday night demand for new Red assurances that the neutrality of Kaesong would be scrupulously observed.

The Peiping radio, however, quoted a "special correspondent" as saying Ridgway's failure to send his delegates to Kaesong on such a "pretext" caused "the people of the world to doubt the basic sincerity of the American side." It was the first Communist reaction to Ridgway's Tuesday message.

Allied Team Awaits Signal

The broadcast complained that "the Korean armistice negotiations were suspended for another day as a result of the delegates of the American side failing, without any justification, to come to Kaesong."

The Allied negotiating team waited in Korea for a signal to proceed with the talks but there was little likelihood of this today.

Communist propaganda organs, particularly the Peiping and Pyongyang radios, harped on the Allied supreme commander's "unreasonable" attitude. They said Ridgway was making a "mountain out of a molehill" over the appearance of combat-armed Red troops at Kaesong five days ago.

It was the Red atempt to minimize the importance of the neutrality violation that led Ridgway to reject an official Communist explanation of the incident last Monday.

The Chinese Red radio at Peiping reiterated that Ridgway was attempting to "torpedo" the Kaesong talks by seizing on "trifling" reasons to suspend the negotiations.

Truce Line Deadlocks Talks

The last nine sessions of the suspended talks had been deadlocked over a basic issue—where to draw a line for a buffer zone between opposing Red and U. N. forces.

The Allies sought a line along the present fighting front while the Reds insisted it be drawn along the 38th parallel. Neither side appeared willing to compromise on the point, when 140 Red troops suddenly appeared within 100 yards of the truce meeting last Saturday. The Allied negotiators then were withdrawn.

However, Ridgway sent four ceasefire delegates back to Korea Wednesday after secret conferences in Tokyo. They were to resume the talks on one condition. That was "complete compliance" by the Communists "with your guarantee of neutralization of the Kaesong area."

Ridgway asked North Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, the top Communists, to acknowledge his condition.

His support came from the wide range of middle-of-the-road parties that have controlled the French government for the past four years. One of these is his own small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance (UDSR).

Pleven succeeded today where two previous candidates lost out. Rene Mayer, outgoing minister of justice, and Maurice Petsche, outgoing minister of finance, failed to get the required absolute majority of 314 votes when they asked for investiture.

Army Grid Coach Admits Athletes Were Recruited

Defends Practice As "Perfectly Proper"

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Army Football Coach Earl Blaik conceded today that West Point recruited five to 11 high school football players a year and defended the practice as "perfectly proper."

He defined the recruiting as inviting the athletes to the academy for a "cram course" to help them pass entrance examinations— with their expenses during the course paid by "interested civilian alumni."

"If we did not do that, we would be unable to have any athletes in West Point able to play a normal schedule," Blaik said.

Seven Of 24 Passed Exams

Fifteen of the 45 players on last year's football squad entered the academy with this help, he said.

Blaik issued his statement in the midst of a nationwide controversy over the threatened dismissal of 90 cadets, including a number of football stars, for cheating in classroom examinations.

The coach said 24 athletic prospects invited to the academy this year studied for several weeks from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. but only seven succeeded in passing the stiff exams and only five finally entered the academy.

"The whole procedure was perfectly proper and correct and not contrary to the rules of the associations to which we belong," Blaik said.

No "Pressure" Used

He gave his statement after the Chicago Tribune quoted Duncan MacDonald, a Flint, Mich., high school football star, as saying he and other potential Army players had a six-week expense-paid vacation at the academy this summer.

MacDonald later said the story was a "misrepresentation of facts."

Blaik said no high school players were "high-pressured" to enter the academy and declared some were invited to the cram course after asking for the opportunity.

The coach said all 24 boys invited to the cram course already had or were assured of the required congressional appointments to the academy—subject to their ability to cope with the entrance examinations.

Tax Collections Last Year Average $360 Per Person

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Tax payments to federal, state and local governments came to an average of $360 last year for every man, woman and child in the country, the Census Bureau reported today.

This $30-a-month average showed the per-person tax burden as more than doubled in a period of eight years. The annual average was $171 as late as 1942, the bureau said.

Of the $360 per-person collections of 1950, the federal government got $248, or about 70 per cent of the total. The states got $59, local government $53.

Overall collections of the federal, state and local governments set a record high of $54,626,000 in 1950, the bureau said, nosing above 1948's previous record of $54,495,000,000.

But not even that all-governments total will hold a candle to collections of the federal government alone in the present fiscal year, which began July 1. Estimates for federal receipts in this period range up to $61,000,000,000.

The Census Bureau said the two per cent gain in tax collections in 1950 as compared with 1949 resulted from a seven per cent gain in state taxes (from $8,349,000,000 to $8,940,000,000) and an eight per cent gain in local taxes (from $7,417,000,000 to $8,002,000,000).

Federal collections in that period, it observed, "decreased slightly from $37,810,000,000 to $37,684,000,000."

Australia, New Zealand And U. S. To Sign Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States, Australia and New Zealand will formally sign a mutual security treaty in San Francisco Sept. 1.

Secretary of State Acheson will head a 10-man American delegation to the signing ceremonies.

The treaty pledges each nation to consider an armed attack against either of the others as "dangerous to its own peace and safety."

In announcing the final signing plans, the State Department said "in due course" the treaty will be followed by other steps looking toward "the development of a more comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

Acheson Sees Anti-Jap Pact Drive By Reds

Russia May Attempt To Disrupt Meeting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of tate Acheson said today he is sure Russia will wage a propaganda campaign during the next four weeks to disrupt the Japanese peace conference of San Francisco.

The conference is scheduled to meet September 4 to sign a treaty sponsored by the United States and Britain. Some countries such as India and the Philippines have objected to various provisions and one speculation here is that Russia may try to play on their objections to make trouble at the conference.

The Kremlin has been invited to attend along with other nations which were at war with Japan, but Acheson told his news conference that he did not know whether the Russians would do so.

Expresses "Satisfaction"

Acheson expresses "satisfaction" over publication inside Russia this week of a congressional resolution expressing friendship for the Soviet people and a letter from President Truman on the same theme. The Soviets also published answers from Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik and the Presidium of the Soviet Union.

Commenting on Shvernik's letter, which talked about preserving peace, prohibiting an arms race, and banning atomic weapons, Acheson challenged the Soviets to back up their words with deeds in the United Nations.

He said Shvernik had ignored the United Nations in his letter and declared: "If the Soviet Union now wants to reach concrete realistic agreements, all of these objectives can be realized within the United Nations."

Penetration Of Iron Curtain

Acheson described the publication of the President's letter and the congressional resolution as the penetration of the iron curtain by "a ray of truth." But he declared that the curtain "remains a basic obstacle" to the attainment of world peace and said that it must someday cease to exist.

In response to questions Acheson also said:

1. The present situation between Pakistan and India is one of tension and danger and the United States has expressed to both countries its concern over their differences.

2. The State Department is continuing to seek the release from a Czechoslovak prison of Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis who is serving a 10-year sentence on charges of "espionage."

3. Acheson is optimistic about the chances for an Anglo-Iranian agreement to end the present Iranian oil crisis, though great problems remain to be solved.

Truman Warns Of Red Dangers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman said today "we must maintain large armed forces for along time to come if we are to protect our freedom and prevent World War Three."

Communism, he said, presents "terrible dangers."

He spoke at the dedication of the presidential lounge at Washington's Union Station. Service men and women use the lounge, under auspices of the United Service Organization's Travelers' Aid.

"We have to give up profits and wage increases—do without things we would like to have," Mr. Truman said. "But the greatest sacrifices are made by our young men and women who have the job of manning defenses in the cause of world peace."

The USO program, he said, is one in which "all of us ought to share." The USO, among other things, maintains lounges, clubs, and information centers for service personnel.

Italian Premier Wins Vote Of Confidence

ROME, Aug. 8 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi's new government won a half-hearted vote of confidence from the Senate today, 151 to 101. It faces a vote tomorrow in the Chamber of Deputies.

Despite mounting opposition within the ranks of De Gasperi's own Christian Democrat Party, chamber approval appears insured.

The tests follow a week of sharp debate in both chambers. Even De Gasperi's followers have criticized the government for a do-nothing attitude toward high prices, agrarian reform and the nation's unemployed, who total more than 2,000,000.

Oust-McCarthy Move Goes To Senate Group Which Hit Maryland Election Tactics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Senate committee which denounced some of the tactics in the 1950 Maryland senatorial contest as "despicable" was assigned today to pass on a move to oust Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) from the Senate for his part in the campaign.

It got the job shortly after Sen. Wherry (Neb), the Senate Republican leader, had charged—and the Democratic National Committee had denied—that the move against McCarthy was an attempt by the Democratic organization to take the heat off its own chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr.

Only yesterday an Expenditures Investigating subcommittee had agreed to look into charges that Boyle attempted to influence government loans or contracts. Boyle has denied the accusation.

Election Report Goes To Senate

The Senate Rules Committee, by a vote of 9 to 3, today approved, for transmission to the Senate itself, a report from a Privileges and Elections subcommittee which said a "despicable, 'back street' type of campaign" was put on for Republican John Marshall Butler in Maryland. The report noted that McCarthy was active in Butler's behalf in the campaign which cost the veteran Democrat Millard Tydings his Senate seat.

At the same time the full Privileges and Elections Committee, headed by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz), turned over to the subcommittee the resolution by Sen. Benton (D-Conn) calling for expulsion of McCarthy.

The full committee approved the subcommittee report and also endorsed its vote to refer the document to the Justice Department.

Benton Seeks Quick Hearings

Benton is pressing for quick public hearings but Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa), chairman of the subcommittee, told reporters it will be "considerable time" before his group can do anything about it.

Two Republicans on the Rules Committee—Sens. Hendrickson (N-J) and Margaret Chase Smith (ME)—voted with the Democrats to pass the Maryland election report along to the Senate. The Democrats with whom they aligned themselves were Hayden, Gillette, Benton, Green (RI), Clements (Ky), Monroney (Okla) and Hennings (Mo).

The three republicans in opposition were McCarthy, Wherry and Jenner (Ind).

McCarthy was given "not more than ten days" to file a minority report from the Rules group. He expressed hope that Wherry and Jenner would join him in it.

RECOVERING—Sen. Charles W. Tobey (above), 71, New Hampshire Republican, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage July 15 but his family reported yesterday he is recovering "slowly but surely."

17 Accused Red Leaders To Get New Attorneys

Government Agrees; More Arrests Seen

[By The Associated Press]

The government yesterday paid heed to the plea of 17 accused Communist leaders and agreed to appointment of new attorneys for their defense.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, one of the defendants and acting spokesman for her fellow accused, asked dismissal of eight lawyers appointed by the court for their defense. She said they would "feed the prejudice already generated against us."

Apparently her references was to the fact that some of the lawyers previously had been identified with Communist cases.

Hoover Sees More Arrests

This was the principal development of the day in the government's anti-subversive drive which FBI Chief J .Edgar Hoover says is to net more American reds.

In Baltimore FBI agents early yesterday grabbed Maurice L. Braverman, 35, alleged official attorney for the Communists' Baltimore headquarters, as he arrived by plane from New York.

Braverman brought to 51 the number of American Communists charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. Government. He was ordered held in $75,000 bail.

Judge Sylvester A. Ryan agreed in Federal Court in New York to appointment of new attorneys for the 17 accused second-string Communists. He relieved the lawyers originally assigned to the case.

New Panel Submitted

Ryan submitted a new panel of 10 possible defense attorneys, including George Wolf, counsel for Gambler Frank Costello, and O. John Rogge, former assistant U. S. attorney general.

The judge said he got the names of the 10 from four bar associations and that each of them was regarded an experienced lawyer in the courts.

Wolf, in a statement issued shortly after the court's action, said he would "consider it an honor" to take the case.

It was not disclosed immediately whether the Communists would regard any of the proposed 10 as acceptable.

McCarthy Asserts He'll Reveal Names Of 29 "Suspects"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he intends to give the Senate the names of 29 past or present employes of the State Department whose loyalty has been questioned.

He told a news conference he will disclose the names in a speech on the Senate floor tomorrow.

"Some very high officials" are on the list, McCarthy said. He reported most of the employes are under investigation on charges ranging from association with Communists to Communist affiliation.

The Wisconsin Republican said he thinks all employes whose loyalty is in doubt should be suspended, on the reasoning that "if an employe is charged with embezzling from a bank, you don't let him still have access to the till."

Cathedral, Theater Burn At San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Metropolitan Cathedral and the National Theater were destroyed today by a fire that flashed out of the theater's film storages and swept across the main square of this Central American capital.

First reports said 40 persons were injured in the theater.

The fire started in late afternoon presumably when a short-circuited wire threw sparks on a movie film.

Russians Warned Not To Be Deceived By U. S. Messages

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (AP) — Izvestia led off the Soviet press today in telling the Russian people not to be deceived by the friendship messages of the United States Congress and President Truman.

It seemed clear that the Soviet government has made its proposed five-power peace pact the cornerstone for bettering relations with the United States, and that American rejection of the proposal is going to be interpreted here as rejection of real friendship for the Soviet Union.

All Moscow papers gave a big play to the exchange of messages between the American President and Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik, and the U. S. Congress' resolution declaring Americans want friendly relations with the Russians.

Izvestia, the government newspaper; Pravda, the Communist paper; Red Star and Red Fleet, the organs of the Soviet army and navy, and even the Teachers Gazette carried the full message of peace from Washington.

Coming on top of British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison's statement published in four top Soviet papers last week that the Russian people are being misinformed that the British people are warmongers, it was obvious the Washington communications would arouse much interest here.

Enemy's Top Leaders Play Waiting Game

Ridgway's Demand Still Unanswered

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Communist top command played a waiting game on the interrupted Korean cease-fire talks today while accusing the United Nations of "stalling" tactics.

There still was no official response to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Tuesday night demand for new Red assurances that the neutrality of Kaesong would be scrupulously observed.

The Peiping radio, however, quoted a "special correspondent" as saying Ridgway's failure to send his delegates to Kaesong on such a "pretext" caused "the people of the world to doubt the basic sincerity of the American side." It was the first Communist reaction to Ridgway's Tuesday message.

Allied Team Awaits Signal

The broadcast complained that "the Korean armistice negotiations were suspended for another day as a result of the delegates of the American side failing, without any justification, to come to Kaesong."

The Allied negotiating team waited in Korea for a signal to proceed with the talks but there was little likelihood of this today.

Communist propaganda organs, particularly the Peiping and Pyongyang radios, harped on the Allied supreme commander's "unreasonable" attitude. They said Ridgway was making a "mountain out of a molehill" over the appearance of combat-armed Red troops at Kaesong five days ago.

It was the Red atempt to minimize the importance of the neutrality violation that led Ridgway to reject an official Communist explanation of the incident last Monday.

The Chinese Red radio at Peiping reiterated that Ridgway was attempting to "torpedo" the Kaesong talks by seizing on "trifling" reasons to suspend the negotiations.

Truce Line Deadlocks Talks

The last nine sessions of the suspended talks had been deadlocked over a basic issue—where to draw a line for a buffer zone between opposing Red and U. N. forces.

The Allies sought a line along the present fighting front while the Reds insisted it be drawn along the 38th parallel. Neither side appeared willing to compromise on the point, when 140 Red troops suddenly appeared within 100 yards of the truce meeting last Saturday. The Allied negotiators then were withdrawn.

However, Ridgway sent four ceasefire delegates back to Korea Wednesday after secret conferences in Tokyo. They were to resume the talks on one condition. That was "complete compliance" by the Communists "with your guarantee of neutralization of the Kaesong area."

Ridgway asked North Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, the top Communists, to acknowledge his condition.

Truman Appeals For Extra Flood Control Funds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today for more money to control floods, particularly in the midwest. He described as "false economy" a House cut in his previous request.

No sooner had his words reached the Capitol than several House Republicans said in a statement they "noted with amazement and regret" that the President "has tried to make a political issue of flood control." Mr. Truman said on Monday that midwestern flood control depended upon the election of more "forward-looking, liberal-minded members of Congress."

In a letter to Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the President requested that $60,355,100 be restored to his initial request for $328,365,000, and that an additional $21,800,000 be allotted.

The extra $21,800,000 would provide work on the Tuttle Creek and Toronto Dams in Kansas, the Oolagah Dam in Oklahoma, local flood protection work at Hutchinson and Wichita, Kan., bank stabilization work on the Arkansas River, and for levee work on the Mississippi River between Wood River, Ill., and East Cape Girardeau, Ill.

Talbert about 30, was spraying a cornfield. It was not known what made the plane crash.

He obtained leave of absence from the state police for a tryout with the Tyler Flying Service He was due to report back in five days.

He had been stationed at Hampstead, working out of the Randallstown barracks.

FIRST AID ON THE WING—W. D. Boudreau, 45, lies in the wreckage of a light plane at Kankakee, Ill., which crashed atop an automobile yesterday. Boudreau, writhing in pain, is being given first aid on the wing of the overturned light plane by passersby, including Deputy Sheriff Edmund LaPorte (straw hat). Boudreau's injuries were described as serious. The mishap occurred as the plane, settling down for "Flying Farmers' Day" at the county fair, struck a cable, flipped over and crashed into the car.

Cruise Resumed By "Lethargia"

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—The rafe "Lethargia," which dumped its four occupants into the Ohio River in a near-disastrous mishap 13 days ago, resumed its meandering journey to New Orleans today.

Two bachelors and two unmarried girls taking part in an experiment in cramped living shoved off from Moundsville at 3:12 p. m. (EDT) after almost entirely rebuilding their 12-by-20-foot craft.

Skipper Mary Ellin McGrady, 24-year-old sociology student from the University of Michigan, has explained she would keep detailed notes on adjustments made by the four while living aboard the raft.

The 2,000-mile voyage down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers from New Kensington, Pa., to New Orleans was halted abruptly when the raft overturned while under tow by a river boat. The only casualty was a dog mascot.

Others on the raft, which had a new eight-foot-square canvas cabin in shipshape order, were Geraldine Garcia, 23, a Boston artist; Milton Borden, 30, New Bedford, Mass., and Don Brown, another Michigan student.

Three Sought In Noble Death

DALLAS, Aug. 8 (AP)—Three Fort Worth police characters were sought today in the land-mine slaying of Gambler Herbert (The Cat) Noble.

As the search went on, Benny Binion, a gambler Noble once claimed "never liked me too much," told the Associated Press at Las Vegas, Nev.:

"I haven't any feeling one way or the other about Noble's death. I knew him just as another guy.

"I never had any cross words or business dealings with him. I never was associated either in a friendly way or any other way with Noble."

Records of an April Texas House Crime Investigation Committee hearing show Noble testified he believed Binion behind the 11th attempt on his life.

Adonis And Erickson Plead Not Guilty

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Convicted big time Gamblers Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson, brought from behind prison bars, pleaded innocent today to charges of contempt of the U. S. Senate.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock received their pleas and gave them until Sept. 10 to file pre-trial motions. Date for trial will be set at that time.

Both men are accused of refusing to answer key questions when they were witnesses before the Senate Crime Committee hearing here last March.

Kilgore Assails Academy System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Describing both West Point and Annapolis academies as educationally "third rate," Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) called today for their abolition as undergraduate schools.

Kilgore said the threatened dismissal of 90 West Point cadets for cribbing in violation of the honor code "is certainly no surprise to me."

"I have been expecting a blow-up in the academies for several years," he told a reporter. "They simply do not have competent educational systems."

"That's why the boys have to crib," he added. "We should not blame them for what has happened."

"Compared with most colleges and universities of the nation on an education level, they are third rate schools," he said.

Kilgore, senator since 1933 and a veteran National Guardsman in his home state of West Virginia, said Congress should overhaul the entire training system for Army, Navy and air officers.

Others in Congress have proposed changes in the academy systems since the cribbing scandal came out but none has gone as far as Kilgore in general criticism.

Bids On Bay Bridge Approach Sought

Bids on the road work will be opened Aug. 21, on the lighting installation Aug. 28.

The bridge, now under construction between Sandy Point and Matapeake, just above Annapolis, is scheduled for completion next July.

Pearson Says:

Case Against Sen. McCarthy Documented By Sen. Benton

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It is a grave matter for a senator to introduce a resolution aimed at unseating a fellow senator. However, Sen. Benton of Connecticut carefully documented the case against Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin before calling for his ouster. Here are the facts that led Benton to demand a Senate investigation of McCarthy "with a view toward his expulsion."

1. Sen. McCarthy has tried to intimidate his press critics — the greatest challenge to freedom of the press since the Civil War. For example, McCarthy has charged that the Washington Post is a "Communist camp follower." He has called the Milwaukee Journal the "Milwaukee Edition" and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch the "St. Louis Edition" of the Communist Daily Worker. He has repeatedly lambasted the Madison Capital-Times as pro-Communist. He has called this columnist the "voice of international Communism." On one occasion, he even accused the conservative Saturday Evening Post of following the Daily Worker line.

Significantly, McCarthy's charges have been hurled from the safety and sanctity of the Senate floor, though his critics have not been protected by senatorial immunity but have been subject to the libel laws.

2. Sen. McCarthy has hampered the FBI's legitimate investigation into Communism. For example, the FBI sent two agents to question McCarthy about some forged papers he used to support his charges. McCarthy not only refused to cooperate with the G-men, but ordered his staff not to talk to them.

3. Sen. McCarthy has succeeded where the Communists have failed—in undermining the U. S. government. Two chief targets of Communist propaganda have been Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall. Yet McCarthy's attacks on Acheson and Marshall have been more vitriolic and far more damaging than the worst the Communists could manufacture.

4. Sen. McCarthy has disregarded American principles of justice and fair play in attacking his victims. Sen. Benton has nearly 100 pages of examples of how McCarthy has deliberately lied in his pursuit of headlines instead of facts. For example, McCarthy charged that Owen Lattimore was the "chief architect of our Far Eastern policy." This was denied by all the living secretaries of state since 1933, who pointed out that Lattimore had never even worked for the State Department.

5. Sen. McCarthy's ethics, alone, are enough to disqualify him from a seat in the Senate. For example, McCarthy once boasted to Sen. Clinton Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, that he didn't pay income taxes on all his lecture fees.

"You never heard of a United States senator going to jail for income-tax violation," McCarthy shrugged.

Truman Appeals For Extra Flood Control Funds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today for more money to control floods, particularly in the midwest. He described as "false economy" a House cut in his previous request.

No sooner had his words reached the Capitol than several House Republicans said in a statement they "noted with amazement and regret" that the President "has tried to make a political issue of flood control." Mr. Truman said on Monday that midwestern flood control depended upon the election of more "forward-looking, liberal-minded members of Congress."

In a letter to Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the President requested that $60,355,100 be restored to his initial request for $328,365,000, and that an additional $21,800,000 be allotted.

The extra $21,800,000 would provide work on the Tuttle Creek and Toronto Dams in Kansas, the Oologah Dam in Oklahoma, local flood protection work at Hutchinson and Wichita, Kan., bank stabilization work on the Arkansas River, and for levee work on the Mississippi River between Wood River, Ill., and East Cape Girardeau, Ill.

State Trooper Talbert Dies In Plane Crash

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—Trooper Theodore J. Talbert, on leave from the state police to try his hand at flying, was killed tonight when his plant-spraying plane crashed on the Myers farm near here.

Talbert about 30, was spraying a cornfield. It was not known what made the plane crash.

He obtained leave of absence from the state police for a tryout with the Tyler Flying Service He was due to report back in five days.

He had been stationed at Hampstead, working out of the Randallstown barracks.

Progress Reported

TEHRAN, Aug. 8 (INS)—British and Iranian delegates reported "some progress" tonight in trying to settle the oil nationalization dispute although strained relations still were apparent.

FIRST AID ON THE WING—W. D. Boudreau, 45, lies in the wreckage of a light plane at Kankakee, Ill., which crashed atop an automobile yesterday. Boudreau, writhing in pain, is being given first aid on the wing of the overturned light plane by passersby, including Deputy Sheriff Edmund LaPorte (straw hat). Boudreau's injuries were described as serious. The mishap occurred as the plane, settling down for "Flying Farmers' Day" at the county fair, struck a cable, flipped over and crashed into the car.

Cruise Resumed By "Lethargia"

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—The rafe "Lethargia," which dumped its four occupants into the Ohio River in a near-disastrous mishap 13 days ago, resumed its meandering journey to New Orleans today.

Two bachelors and two unmarried girls taking part in an experiment in cramped living shoved off from Moundsville at 3:12 p. m. (EDT) after almost entirely rebuilding their 12-by-20-foot craft.

Skipper Mary Ellin McGrady, 24-year-old sociology student from the University of Michigan, has explained she would keep detailed notes on adjustments made by the four while living aboard the raft.

The 2,000-mile voyage down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers from New Kensington, Pa., to New Orleans was halted abruptly when the raft overturned while under tow by a river boat. The only casualty was a dog mascot.

Others on the raft, which had a new eight-foot-square canvas cabin in shipshape order, were Geraldine Garcia, 23, a Boston artist; Milton Borden, 30, New Bedford, Mass., and Don Brown, another Michigan student.

White Leads In Miss.

"Frozen Woman" Leaves Hospital

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, last winter's "frozen woman," left Michael Reese Hospital today for the Chicago Welfare Department convalescent home on Chicago's south side.

The 23-year-old negro woman will be furnished with artificial legs and counseled in rehabilitation and vocational training. Both her legs were amputated below the knee and the fingers of her right hand and several fingers on her left hand were removed.

Mrs. Stevens was found lying frozen stiff in a south side areaway Feb. 8. The outside temperature was 11 below zero. Her body temperature was recorded at 64 degrees, about 34 degrees below normal.

Will Seek Presidency

ANNISTON, Ala., Aug. 8 (AP)—Former U. S. Rep. Lafayette L. Patterson today said he would seek the Democratic nomination for President.

The 63-year-old former congressman, who served in the House from 1928 to 1932, said he is resigning from the faculty of Jacksonville State College to make the race. He said he planned to tour the nation seeking support of delegates to the national Democratic convention.

Byrd Organization Wins

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—U. S. Sen. Byrd's conservative Democratic organization retained control of the Virginia Legislature in an off-year Democratic primary yesterday.

Three Sought In Noble Death

DALLAS, Aug. 8 (AP)—Three Fort Worth police characters were sought today in the land-mine slaying of Gambler Herbert (The Cat) Noble.

As the search went on, Benny Binion, a gambler Noble once claimed "never liked me too much," told the Associated Press at Las Vegas, Nev.:

"I haven't any feeling one way or the other about Noble's death. I knew him just as another guy.

"I never had any cross words or business dealings with him. I never was associated either in a friendly way or any other way with Noble."

Records of an April Texas House Crime Investigation Committee hearing show Noble testified he believed Binion behind the 11th attempt on his life.

Adonis And Erickson Plead Not Guilty

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Convicted big time Gamblers Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson, brought from behind prison bars, pleaded innocent today to charges of contempt of the U. S. Senate.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock received their pleas and gave them until Sept. 10 to file pre-trial motions. Date for trial will be set at that time.

Both men are accused of refusing to answer key questions when they were witnesses before the Senate Crime Committee hearing here last March.

Kilgore Assails Academy System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Describing both West Point and Annapolis academies as educationally "third rate," Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) called today for their abolition as undergraduate schools.

Kilgore said the threatened dismissal of 90 West Point cadets for cribbing in violation of the honor code "is certainly no surprise to me."

"I have been expecting a blow-up in the academies for several years," he told a reporter. "They simply do not have competent educational systems."

"That's why the boys have to crib," he added. "We should not blame them for what has happened."

"Compared with most colleges and universities of the nation on an education level, they are third rate schools," he said.

Kilgore, senator since 1933 and a veteran National Guardsman in his home state of West Virginia, said Congress should overhaul the entire training system for Army, Navy and air officers.

Others in Congress have proposed changes in the academy systems since the cribbing scandal came out but none has gone as far as Kilgore in general criticism.

Bids On Bay Bridge Approach Sought

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8 (AP)—The State Roads Commission today advertised for bids on the building of the west approach to the Chesapeake Bay bridge and the installation of warning lights and fog signals on the bridge itself.

Bids on the road work will be opened Aug. 21, on the lighting installation Aug. 28.

The bridge, now under construction between Sandy Point and Matapeake, just above Annapolis, is scheduled for completion next July.

Pearson Says:

Case Against Sen. McCarthy Documented By Sen. Benton

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It is a grave matter for a senator to introduce a resolution aimed at unseating a fellow senator. However, Sen. Benton of Connecticut carefully documented the case against Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin before calling for his ouster. Here are the facts that led Benton to demand a Senate investigation of McCarthy "with a view toward his expulsion."

1. Sen. McCarthy has tried to intimidate his press critics — the greatest challenge to freedom of the press since the Civil War. For example, McCarthy has charged that the Washington Post is a "Communist camp follower." He has called the Milwaukee Journal the "Milwaukee Edition" and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch the "St. Louis Edition" of the Communist Daily Worker. He has repeatedly lambasted the Madison Capital-Times as pro-Communist. He has called this columnist the "voice of international Communism." On one occasion, he even accused the conservative Saturday Evening Post of following the Daily Worker line.

Significantly, McCarthy's charges have been hurled from the safety and sanctity of the Senate floor, though his critics have not been protected by senatorial immunity but have been subject to the libel laws.

2. Sen. McCarthy has hampered the FBI's legitimate investigation into Communism. For example, the FBI sent two agents to question McCarthy about some forged papers he used to support his charges. McCarthy not only refused to cooperate with the G-men, but ordered his staff not to talk to them.

3. Sen. McCarthy has succeeded where the Communists have failed—in undermining the U. S. government. Two chief targets of Communist propaganda have been Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall. Yet McCarthy's attacks on Acheson and Marshall have been more vitriolic and far more damaging than the worst the Communists could manufacture.

4. Sen. McCarthy has disregarded American principles of justice and fair play in attacking his victims. Sen. Benton has nearly 100 pages of examples of how McCarthy has deliberately lied in his pursuit of headlines instead of facts. For example, McCarthy charged that Owen Lattimore was the "chief architect of our Far Eastern policy." This was denied by all the living secretaries of state since 1933, who pointed out that Lattimore had never even worked for the State Department.

5. Sen. McCarthy's ethics, alone, are enough to disqualify him from a seat in the Senate. For example, McCarthy once boasted to Sen. Clinton Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, that he didn't pay income taxes on all his lecture fees.

"You never heard of a United States senator going to jail for income-tax violation," McCarthy shrugged.

Expulsion Of A Senator

Few persons expect the Senate Rules Committee to act favorably on the resolution of Senator Benton (D., Conn.) for an investigation to determine whether Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) should be expelled from the Senate. Even fewer persons expect McCarthy to follow Benton's suggestion that he refrain from participation in the business of the Senate until the Rules Committee has acted; none expects him to take Benton's alternative suggestion that he now resign.

Benton's resolution was based upon a paragraph in the unanimous report August 3 of the Monroney (D., Okla.) subcommittee on the 1950 senatorial campaign in Maryland. The report said McCarthy had been a "leading and potent force" in the "despicable 'backstreet' type" campaign that had defeated former Senator Tydings. It did not recommend that Senator Butler, the successful candidate, be unseated, but did say that:

"The question of unseating a senator for acts committed in a senatorial election should not be limited to the candidates in such elections. Any sitting senator . . . . should be subject to expulsion by action of the Senate if it finds such senator engaged in practices and behavior that make him . . . unfit to hold the position of United States senator."

This report has not yet been acted upon by the full Rules Committee. Attention now centers on how many of the eight members of Rules who were not members of the five-man subcommittee will give their endorsement to the paragraph quoted above. Benton is one of them.

The last previous case in which the Senate was asked to expel a senator for questioned behavior in a political campaign was that of Senator Bilbo who was charged with having incited the white population of Mississippi to acts of violence against Negro voters when running for renomination and re-election in 1946. Subsidiary charges were that Bilbo had accepted money payments in return for favors to war contractors early in World War II.

An inquiry was begun by the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee late in 1946 and things looked black for Bilbo when the Republicans took over control of Congress in 1947, but he scorned all suggestions that he resign.

Bilbo was required to stand aside when he rose to take the oath of office for the new term. He was guaranteed a right to defend himself on the floor before the Senate should act, but did not again appear in the Senate chamber. His death on August 21, 1947, relieved his colleagues of any need to pass on his fitness to continue as a senator.

In impeachment proceedings, executive officers may be removed only for "high crimes and misdemeanors." In taking action against its own members the Senate has much broader powers. Under the Constitution either house may punish for disorderly behavior "and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member." The Supreme Court has ruled that the power to expel extends to all cases where the offense has been such, in the judgment of the Senate or House, as to be inconsistent with "the trust and duty" of a member.

Thus, while the power of the Senate to expel McCarthy is beyond question, the Senate has always been reluctant to take action against a sitting senator whatever his offense. During the Civil War, a dozen southern senators who had already withdrawn were later expelled for "treason." An early case was that of a senator expelled in 1797 for concocting a plan to seize Florida and Louisiana. In most other cases senators charged with grave offenses have chosen to resign rather than face what would amount to a trial by their colleagues.

Ghost Of McGuffey

President Truman is filling in a gap in his early experience by delving into that rich source of information and inspiration which once formed a foundation stone in the education of American youth, the McGuffey Readers.

An avowed admirer of the McGuffey tradition, although he himself largely missed its influence, the President recently received a gift of a full set of the "Eclectic Series," and he is reported busily making up for lost time.

There was a great deal of worthwhile reading in the McGuffey books, much that should prove of value even to a President turning to their pages in later life. They were truly eclectic, and the earnest educator who compiled them sought the best in literature and poetry, history and practical instruction to lay before the pupils of the day as they progressed from grade to grade.

The story of William Holmes McGuffey himself is one that would have fitted into the character of his books. His preparation of these texts was directed to supplying a need he had felt as a boy in a frontier home.

A preacher riding by the lonely spot chanced to overhear McGuffey's mother praying that her son might get an education to fit him for life. The preacher saw that the prayer was answered.

McGuffey, though licensed as a preacher, became a college teacher and served as president of two Ohio institutions. From 1845 until his death in 1873 he was professor of moral philosophy and political economy at the University of Virginia.

He lived to see his readers performing a highly useful purpose. But he who always managed to inculcate the moral values into his work could never have hoped that it would come under the purview of the nation's chief executive at a time when the moral tone of the government was so greatly in need of revival.

Truth

Perhaps the greatest menace of the Soviet Russian regime is the way it plays fast and loose with the truth. Hitherto the leading Russians have described Americans as criminal warmongers and disgusting hypocrites. Today, in the midst of a peace drive, they say: "My mind can conceive no rational excuse for the highly strained relations which have arisen." And "Rusians have always admired American efficiency, the ebullient creative energy of the American people and their democratic spirit."

When the Russians say Americans are warmongering criminals and then turn around and laud them as peaceful democrats, how are American negotiators to confer with those from Russia?

Truth is the solid foundation of international relations. In the degree that it is present peoples can get along. Where it is absent, there is nothing whatever to tie to. The Russian leaders, with all their reputed realism, should be able to see that. If they are mere propagandists for expansion purposes, anything they say about peace is a mockery.

Precautions Against Fire

Fire kills 3,075 persons annually and the majority lose their lives in the home. The only way to decrease the number of such catastrophes is to eliminate all household fire hazards. This ought to be done now because tomorrow may be too late.

Three out of four fires are caused by matches, tobacco smoking, faulty electric wiring, heating units, kerosene, and carelessness. Everyone knows that smoking in bed is dangerous yet the habit continues and many pay a high pently. Striking matches in closets, garages, or other places where inflammable materials, dust, or vapors may be ignited is the height of folly. The smallfry love matches; they must be kept out of reach. According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, "The careless discarding of lighted matches and smoking materials is responsible for nearly 30 per cent of all fires of known cause." Those who live in the country or areas where thick forests abound are keenly aware of the need for precautions because it means life, home, and livelihood. Many forest fires are traceable to city dwellers who never have been conscious of where matches and cigaret butts are thrown. Vigilance must become a habit because on slip is all that is necessary.

Faulty electrical wiring is detected only by frequent examination of the cords of lamps and other electric appliances. When fraying is observed a competent electrician should be called. Expert help is needed to extend wires; they never should be strung over hooks or under rugs because wear makes them dangerous. Furthermore, chances ought not to be taken on any old electric appliance or cord; they should bear the seal or label of Underwriters' Laboraories, Inc. The blowing of a fuse is a danger signal that a short exists or that the system is overloaded. Tampering with this safety valve by putting in fuses of larger amperage is not a smart move.

One out of every four or five fires can be laid to faulty chimneys, flues, cooking and heating stoves, furnaces, fireplaces, hot ashes, and sparks on the roof. Most houses are constructed to abide by the usual rules and regulations as to the placement of heating units and pipes. But the trouble starts when the owners neglect to clean the chimney periodically or to repair cracks or loose mortar. Unused flue holes should be closed with an noncombustible cap and not papered over or left unstopped. Overloading or forcing a furnace to get more heat is to be condemned.

The improper use of kerosene, benzene, naphtha, and other inflammable materials results in many fires each year. When these solvents are employed in the home for cleaning they vaporize on exposure to air. This produces an explosive mixture that is readily ignited by a lighted match, pilot light, or static electricity that occurs on combing the hair or rubbing textiles together. The vapors may travel to other rooms hence ventilation must be exceptionally good. The reckless use of candles, torches, and lamps has led to many tragedies.

The following is an old story well worth repeating: If your clothes catch fire do not run but lie on the floor and roll in a rug until the flames are extinguished.

PAIN AFTER EATING

B. T. writes: I develop pain in the chest after eating or drinking. It disappears after a few hours. Is this heart trouble or merely indigestion?

REPLY

Indigestion is the best possibility altho now and then distress of this nature develops in individuals who have had coronary thrombosis. In the circumstances, it represents a form of angina. But most victims of heart trouble have symptoms other than the one in question.

PARASITIC INFECTION

R. F. writes: I went on a trip to Cuba and while there had a high fever and my right leg became swollen and red. The doctor there told me I had filariasis, so I decided to return to the States immediately and consult a doctor here. After examining me he said to let nature take its course but my leg is still somewhat swollen. Is it all right to do nothing?

REPLY

If the condition is filariasis, you have had good advice. The newer remedies for this condition are of little value at this stage. Since you are away from the source of infection the condition should clear up eventually.

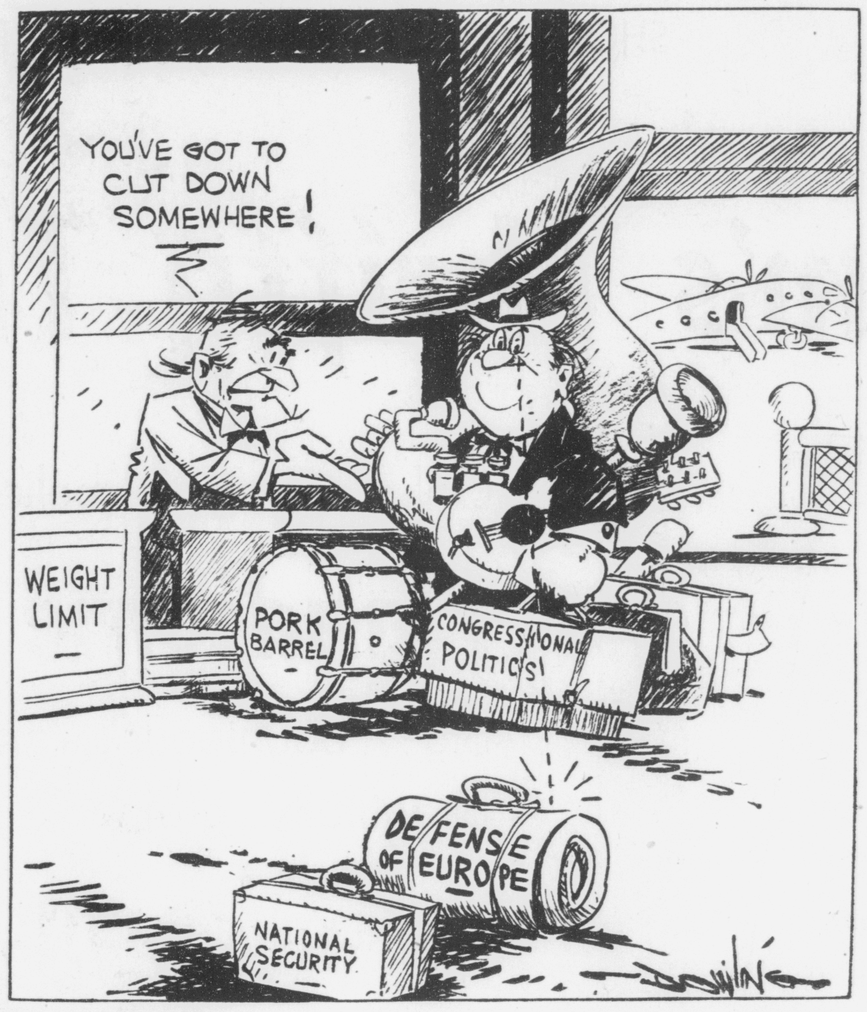
DRUGS IN TUBERCULOSIS

K. T. writes: What are some of the drugs that are being used in tuberculosis?

REPLY

The best known are streptomycin, dihydrostreptomycin, and para-aminosalicyclic acid. Among the many products in the experimental stage are neomycin, myvizone, prohizole, amithizone, mycomcyin, and smallpox vaccine.

Answering The Demand For Economy



DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Chinese Nationalist Waste Could Be Avoided; Russian Diplomats Learn To Drive; Americans Rededicate Declaration Of Independence

WASHINGTON — Much of the waste of Chinese Nationalist war supplies could be avoided if the millions of dollars worth of munitions we have sent to Formosa were handled direct by the U. S. government and supervised by us.

Instead, a peculiar system of middlemen is used, thereby permitting graft, rake-offs and comshaw to creep in. It's suspected that part of this is to help finance the China lobby which at times has had powerful influence in the U. S. Senate. Just who is getting the rake-offs remains a mystery.

Here is one illustration of how 2,956,170 gallons of aviation gasoline was ordered for the Chinese Air Force on Formosa, a purchase costing a cool million dollars.

This order was placed on Jan. 1, 1950—not during the hectic war days when the State Department White Paper tells of widespread graft in the Chinese Army.

But though conditions were relatively peaceful in January, 1950, and the Korean War had not started, this huge quantity of gasoline was handled by the Chung Foo Company, a broker in Formosa. The Chinese Air Force Procurement Office in Washington was merely informed by cable that the 2,956,170-gallon order had been placed with this broker.

This was peculiar on the face of it, because the Chinese Air Force had its own office in Washington for the specific purpose of buying these supplies. Another peculiar aspect was that the price was fixed as of September, 1949—or 33.82 cents a gallon. This actually was a higher price than the Chinese needed to pay, for, by January, 1950, the price had dropped.

San Francisco Grocer

Regardless of this, however, the Formosan government signed a final contract with the Chung Foo Company on Feb. 9, 1950, and the next day the Chinese Air Force in Washington was ordered by cable to make a million dollars availble at the Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco to South China Enterprise, Inc.

In other words the Chinese Air Force in Washington, having had nothing to do with the purchase of the gasoline, was instructed merely to pay for it.

South China Enterprise, Inc., was described as the American agent for the Chung Foo Company in Formosa. However, investigation proved it was nothing more than a hole-in-the-wall grocery store in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Patriotic Chinese, who did not want to see their country gypped, investigated further and found that the total assets of the grocery store were only a few hundred dollars. Yet it was supposed to handle a deal involving one million.

Furthermore, the grocery-store proprietor, knowing nothing about gasoline, turned the deal over to another middleman named Alexander Lindenbaum, who then contracted to buy the gas from Cities Service.

In other words, the Chinese government could have bought the gas direct from Cities Service in the first place, instead of which it went through three middlemen — the broker in Formosa, the grocery store in San Francisco's Chinatown, and Alexander Lindenbaum.

The man who placed the gasoline order was Gen. C. J. Chou, Chiang Kai-Shek's chief of staff, whose rank corresponds to that of General Bradley in the United States.

In the end, the deal was stopped when it reached the ears of conscientious Sen. William Knowland of California.

Russian Driving Licenses

There is one interesting sidelight about the plan to make Russian diplomats in Washington take the same stiff auto driver test that our diplomats are given in Moscow. American diplomats are almost forced to qualify as mechanics before getting a driver's license—which, of course, is for the purpose of making them use Russian chauffeurs in Moscow.

What the American public doesn't know, however, is that Soviet diplomats figured two months ago that we might make them take the same kind of stiff test. So, two months ago, the Russian Embassy hired several "learn-to-drive" experts to teach its staff all the technical details of auto repair.

For weeks since then, the "learn-to-drive" cars arrived in front of the Soviet Embassy, picked up a Red diplomat and went careening down 16th Street in another minor skirmish in the global cold war.

Rededicating The Declaration

The experience of two newspapers in widely separated parts of the county — New Orleans and Madison, Wis.—in having people refuse to sign the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, has started a campaign for a rededication of the Declaration.

The Sertoma Club (Service to Mankind) of Richmond, Va., has contributed $500 to pay for copies of the Declaration of Independence to be hung in school rooms. Other Virginians, the state which gave the author of the Declaration to the nation, are promoting ways and means of rededicating the Declaration, among them August Dietz of The Dietz Press, who has undertaken to print copies of the Declaration at cost, suitable for framing.

And in New York, Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, has undertaken to highlight the ideals and message of the Declaration of Independence by newsreel. Skouras, who was born in Greece, says: "When I was a boy I wasn't lucky enough to study the Declaration of Independence or have the advantage of its great freedoms. Now I do. And I want to do anything I can to help in its appreciation."

Washington Pipeline

The Senate Crime Committee's chief counsel, Richard Moser, made a secret visit last week to Mexico City to question New York's former mayor, William O'Dwyer, now ambassador to Mexico. O'Dwyer spent the time bitterly denouncing two members of the Crime Committee—Senators Kefauver of Tennessee and Tobey of New Hampshire . . . A Communist statement at the cease-fire talks caused General Ridgway to throw an American and two South Korean divisions into the present "limited offensive" on the Central front. Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist negotiator, had repeatedly complained against Allied bombings while the truce talks were in progress, then suddenly he reversed himself after the agenda was agreed upon and announced it was his understanding that the fighting would continue during the talks. This made General Ridgway suspicious, so he ordered a limited offensive to probe enemy positions and find out what the Communists are up to.

These Days

The West Point Scandal

Senator Fulbright's proposal, which amounts to shifting the West Point scandal to an investigation of intercollegiate football, is not sound. The problem is not football; it is the morals of a nation. It is not whether subsidized, paid athletics in the colleges is to be forgiven; it is rather that something has gone out of this nation when cheating is taken as lightly as fixing, which used to be called graft.

It is easy for those who think only in terms of immediate party politics or, even worse, of their personal friendships to shunt off everything that happens into the category of the usual. But those who insist upon a moral criteron cannot help asking, "Why is it usual? Why has it become usual?"

It is possible to say that the 20th Century is not the 19th Century, but that does not mean that the 20th Century is an improvement on the 19th or even on the 12th Century. What is called modern does not necessarily mean better as anyone who listens to Bach and Shostakovich on the same program knows.

If by improvement we mean that an automobile is a superior means of locomotion to a horse and buggy, or that an electrical refrigerator is superior to a bow and arrow, then we have made very great progress.

But when the morals of man are considered, we are halted by the astonishing retreat of the 20th Century with its excess of divorces, its broken homes, its emphasis on homosexuality, its acceptance of materialistic Marxism in wide areas that were so recently Christian, its avoidance of such concepts as faith, honor, dignity, sacrifice. If we assume that God is old-fashioned and that his natural law is superstition, then we must not be shocked by what happened at West Point.

These 90 men accused of cheating contend that they are not the only ones and that it has been going on for some time. Does that make it right? Is that an excuse for conduct? Because some men are dope peddlers, is dope peddling justified? The position is so illogical that the men who use it as an excuse display their unworthiness.

This is a question that Americans have to answer if they wish to preserve our nation and our civilization. It is impossible to say that "deep freezers," "mink coats," fixers close to the White House and incident after incident of loose morals in high places are usual in all governments. In our long history, such incidents have been unusual. These are the clinical evidences of a decaying civilization, just as wholesale and prolonged cribbing at West Point is a symptom of degeneracy among our armed forces. For these young men, under the circumstances of West Point education, could not have engaged in this practice without officer connivance. This undoubtedly is their real defense.

These symptoms need to be studied back to their causes. When there is such widespread degradation among the people, it means clearly two things:

1. The moral leadership of the nation is inadequate for influencing oncoming generations in decent, dignified leadership and living;

2. The religious training of youth is inadequate to sustain them through the trials of life by precept, inspiration, example and by supplying the automatic restraints of moral conduct.

The individuals involved in the West Point scandal will suffer personal indignity and a loss of great opportunity, but there is much more to this. This nation is now challenged by an incident which involves all our children. What is being done in our schools to build character? The public school ideal was designed not only to teach reading and writing, but to breed a race of decent, honest, God-loving human beings. What happens to our children in the first years of their lives? This we need to understand if we are to grasp our current apathy concerning indecencies. It may require moving deeply into the whole question of national morals, of upbringing, of education, of purely functional schooling without religion.

We need to know why our people are not outraged at the shameless corruption of our country. Something has gone terribly wrong with us and we need to know what it is and why it happened.

Nominating Truman

By MARK SULLIVAN

Even admitting that we live in a period in which to an exceptional degree new conditions change old rules, it never the less remains close to a certainty that Mr. Truman can get the Presidential nomination next year if he decided that he wants it. What goes on in Mr. Truman's mind is the decisive factor.

Within the party there is hostility to him of a kind and degree which in 1952 would normally express itself in opposition to nominating him. But so was there opposition to nominating him in 1948. Preceding his nomination at the Democratic National Convention, leaders of his party made public statements which amounted to declarations that they did not want him. The statements reflected both wings of the party. Old Guard Democratic leader Frank Hague of Jersey City declared starkly that "every leader I conferred with has informed me that if President Truman is the candidate it means landslide on the Republican side." To the same effect a group of liberals, Americans for Democratic Action, issued a formal statement that "there is so little public enthusiasm for the Truman Administration that the Democratic party would face a very difficult uphill fight if he were nominated."

Not Practical To Change

Mr. Truman, as he considers whether to run next year, undoubtedly remembers all that and remembers that in spite of it he got the nomination. Being a self-confident person he may assume that he got it by his own efforts. But the only effort on his part that counted materially was his declaration that he wanted it. Once he had gone after it, the party leaders could hardly help letting him have it. Had they nominated someone else the party would have been in the position of denying endorsement to the record which a President of their party had made. They would have been saying to voters in effect, "We have done badly with the President of our party now in office, but we have made a change and are now asking for another chance with a different candidate." That just wouldn't be practicable. What it all amounts to is that any President in office can get another nomination if he wants one.

However there are other things Mr. Truman can remember as reasons for self-confidence. He won the election, won it under handicaps which so far do not appear likely to exist next year. In the 1948 campaign there were two third parties that took large numbers of votes from Mr. Truman. One was the State's Rights party, the so-called "Dixiecrats," which carried Southern states that otherwise Mr. Truman would undoubtedly have carried. While Southern Democratic leaders, conspicuously Sen. Byrd of Virginia, have made statements strongly condemning Mr. Truman's administration, and where there is much anti-Truman sentiment in the South, there is not at this stage any organized movement that definitely protends a Southern third party in 1952. (This is not to say that a Southern third party may not yet develop before the 1952 Democratic National Convention or as a result of developments within that convention). In addition to the States' Rights party Mr. Truman in 1948 had the opposition of Mr. Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party, the great bulk of whose votes were ones which otherwise would almost certainly have gone to Mr. Truman. Today there is no Wallace third party and no apparent likelihood of one.

Peace Would Help

Mr. Truman's 1948 victory is a valid reason for self-confidence as respects 1952. His victory was due in part to the aggressiveness of his campaigning. Remembering that, he is the more likely to tend toward the aggressive course as he decided whether or not to run next year. Much of Mr. Truman's psychology could be compressed into a phrase "I'll show 'em." So far as prudence or caution or restraint have a place in Mr. Truman's temperament, they should suggest the difference between conditions as they were then and conditions as they are now or may be by the 1952 election.

Since 1948 there has come war and the threat of more. What will be the status of war and peace by the time of the 1952 election no one can foresee. Optimism on the part of Mr. Truman could lead him to assume that there will be progress toward world peace and that this would help him. Similarly, no one can foretell what will be the status of inflation by the time of the 1952 election.

Any speculation about the 1952 election, whether by Mr. Truman or anyone else, should include the possibility of a deep and widespread change in the mind of the electorate. Large numbers of voters who supported Mr. Truman in 1948 may have come to doubt whether they were wise. During the term to which they elected him they have seen the coming of war and of increased inflation. And they may feel that the head of government must bear some responsibility for these developments.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—When Congress passed a resolution expressing friendship for the Russian people, it was a good thing to do—to show that, no matter what friction prevailed between the governments, there was a basic desire for a peaceful relationship between the peoples.

Such a well-intentioned move, however, now has been met by calumny and misrepresentation by the Soviet government. The weakness of the American position from a counter-propaganda standpoint is that the United States Government still deals with the Soviet regime as if it were a respectable institution when, in fact, the hands of the Red rulers are soiled with the blood of aggression.

Everybody knows who has been supplying the Chinese Reds with munitions to kill the troops of the United Nations.

Everybody knows that the Russian government has been faithless to the charter of the United Nations.

Yet diplomatic relations are maintained with Moscow and with satellite countries which are every day inflicting insults on the governments of the free world.

Pussyfoot Diplomacy

There was a time when the great government of Great Britain and the great government of the United States would not tolerate for an instant the arrest and imprisonment of a citizen of either country on flimsy charges. But today an American newsman — William Oatis — stays in jail because of a pussyfoot diplomacy fears to make an issue of it. A fear complex prevails. The Soviet regime misconstrues this as a weakness and hence feels free to taunt the principal governments of the world with false charges.

For the latest Russian pronouncement repeats that the United States was an aggressor in Korea and that the United Nations invaded that peninsula.

The opportunity to tell the people of Russia the truth in official language is now presented to the American government. Will it take up the Kremlin's statement and give the facts about each of its charges and cite chapter and verse? Will it declare not only to the Russian people but to the people of the whole world that the Moscow regime has forfeited any right to be accepted on an equal basis with other nations?

The Russian statement makes much of its desire to be accepted as an equal. But equality presupposes fidelity to truth and likewise a willingness to give up force and coercion as a means of influencing the action of other nations.

The satellite countries furnish vivid examples of how Soviet compulsion has worked. It is a proper occasion now for the American government to outline the record of what has been happening throughout Russia and the satellite areas.

If, however, the United States and the UN are to be timid and to cherish the illusion diplomatic recognition as well as continued membership in the UN, then the Soviets will continue to have all the advantage in the propaganda exchanges.

The moral force of the world has never really been exerted effectively against the Soviet regime. The American government has never in so many words laid it on the line that the Soviet regime is an immoral government not entitled to be treated as a member of the family of nations.

Never Officially Stated

In public speeches some American officials have accused Russia of aggression, but that's mere name calling. The record is certaainly filled with evidence of what Moscow has done in the Far East and in the satellite countries of Europe. That record has never been officially stated as an expression by the United States Government to the world. The Soviet regime has never, in fact, been held up as an outlaw government.

The chance has come to make clear that only when faithless acts are abandoned and a government that really represents the aspirations of the peace-loving people of Russia arises can there be an end to the arms race and a removal of the tension that is injuring the economies of the free world and compelling more and more of the youth of all countries to mobilize for defense against sudden attack. The responsibility of the Kremlin for the chaos that fills the world has never been officially defined in so many words and transmitted to the Russian people. Logically it's the next move.

Expulsion Of A Senator

Few persons expect the Senate Rules Committee to act favorably on the resolution of Senator Benton (D., Conn.) for an investigation to determine whether Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) should be expelled from the Senate. Even fewer persons expect McCarthy to follow Benton's suggestion that he refrain from participation in the business of the Senate until the Rules Committee has acted; none expects him to take Benton's alternative suggestion that he now resign.

Benton's resolution was based upon a paragraph in the unanimous report August 3 of the Monroney (D., Okla.) subcommittee on the 1950 senatorial campaign in Maryland. The report said McCarthy had been a "leading and potent force" in the "despicable 'backstreet' type" campaign that had defeated former Senator Tydings. It did not recommend that Senator Butler, the successful candidate, be unseated, but did say that:

"The question of unseating a senator for acts committed in a senatorial election should not be limited to the candidates in such elections. Any sitting senator . . . . should be subject to expulsion by action of the Senate if it finds such senator engaged in practices and behavior that make him . . . unfit to hold the position of United States senator."

This report has not yet been acted upon by the full Rules Committee. Attention now centers on how many of the eight members of Rules who were not members of the five-man subcommittee will give their endorsement to the paragraph quoted above. Benton is one of them.

The last previous case in which the Senate was asked to expel a senator for questioned behavior in a political campaign was that of Senator Bilbo who was charged with having incited the white population of Mississippi to acts of violence against Negro voters when running for renomination and re-election in 1946. Subsidiary charges were that Bilbo had accepted money payments in return for favors to war contractors early in World War II.

An inquiry was begun by the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee late in 1946 and things looked black for Bilbo when the Republicans took over control of Congress in 1947, but he scorned all suggestions that he resign.

Bilbo was required to stand aside when he rose to take the oath of office for the new term. He was guaranteed a right to defend himself on the floor before the Senate should act, but did not again appear in the Senate chamber. His death on August 21, 1947, relieved his colleagues of any need to pass on his fitness to continue as a senator.

In impeachment proceedings, executive officers may be removed only for "high crimes and misdemeanors." In taking action against its own members the Senate has much broader powers. Under the Constitution either house may punish for disorderly behavior "and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member." The Supreme Court has ruled that the power to expel extends to all cases where the offense has been such, in the judgment of the Senate or House, as to be inconsistent with "the trust and duty" of a member.

Thus, while the power of the Senate to expel McCarthy is beyond question, the Senate has always been reluctant to take action against a sitting senator whatever his offense. During the Civil War, a dozen southern senators who had already withdrawn were later expelled for "treason." An early case was that of a senator expelled in 1797 for concocting a plan to seize Florida and Louisiana. In most other cases senators charged with grave offenses have chosen to resign rather than face what would amount to a trial by their colleagues.

Ghost Of McGuffey

President Truman is filling in a gap in his early experience by delving into that rich source of information and inspiration which once formed a foundation stone in the education of American youth, the McGuffey Readers.

An avowed admirer of the McGuffey tradition, although he himself largely missed its influence, the President recently received a gift of a full set of the "Eclectic Series," and he is reported busily making up for lost time.

There was a great deal of worthwhile reading in the McGuffey books, much that should prove of value even to a President turning to their pages in later life. They were truly eclectic, and the earnest educator who compiled them sought the best in literature and poetry, history and practical instruction to lay before the pupils of the day as they progressed from grade to grade.

The story of William Holmes McGuffey himself is one that would have fitted into the character of his books. His preparation of these texts was directed to supplying a need he had felt as a boy in a frontier home.

A preacher riding by the lonely spot chanced to overhear McGuffey's mother praying that her son might get an education to fit him for life. The preacher saw that the prayer was answered.

McGuffey, though licensed as a preacher, became a college teacher and served as president of two Ohio institutions. From 1845 until his death in 1873 he was professor of moral philosophy and political economy at the University of Virginia.

He lived to see his readers performing a highly useful purpose. But he who always managed to inculcate the moral values into his work could never have hoped that it would come under the purview of the nation's chief executive at a time when the moral tone of the government was so greatly in need of revival.

Truth

Perhaps the greatest menace of the Soviet Russian regime is the way it plays fast and loose with the truth. Hitherto the leading Russians have described Americans as criminal warmongers and disgusting hypocrites. Today, in the midst of a peace drive, they say: "My mind can conceive no rational excuse for the highly strained relations which have arisen." And "Rusians have always admired American efficiency, the ebullient creative energy of the American people and their democratic spirit."

When the Russians say Americans are warmongering criminals and then turn around and laud them as peaceful democrats, how are American negotiators to confer with those from Russia?

Truth is the solid foundation of international relations. In the degree that it is present peoples can get along. Where it is absent, there is nothing whatever to tie to. The Russian leaders, with all their reputed realism, should be able to see that. If they are mere propagandists for expansion purposes, anything they say about peace is a mockery.

How To Keep Well

Precautions Against Fire

Fire kills 3,075 persons annually and the majority lose their lives in the home. The only way to decrease the number of such catastrophes is to eliminate all household fire hazards. This ought to be done now because tomorrow may be too late.

Three out of four fires are caused by matches, tobacco smoking, faulty electric wiring, heating units, kerosene, and carelessness. Everyone knows that smoking in bed is dangerous yet the habit continues and many pay a high pently. Striking matches in closets, garages, or other places where inflammable materials, dust, or vapors may be ignited is the height of folly. The smallfry love matches; they must be kept out of reach. According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, "The careless discarding of lighted matches and smoking materials is responsible for nearly 30 per cent of all fires of known cause." Those who live in the country or areas where thick forests abound are keenly aware of the need for precautions because it means life, home, and livelihood. Many forest fires are traceable to city dwellers who never have been conscious of where matches and cigaret butts are thrown. Vigilance must become a habit because on slip is all that is necessary.

Faulty electrical wiring is detected only by frequent examination of the cords of lamps and other electric appliances. When fraying is observed a competent electrician should be called. Expert help is needed to extend wires; they never should be strung over hooks or under rugs because wear makes them dangerous. Furthermore, chances ought not to be taken on any old electric appliance or cord; they should bear the seal or label of Underwriters' Laboraories, Inc. The blowing of a fuse is a danger signal that a short exists or that the system is overloaded. Tampering with this safety valve by putting in fuses of larger amperage is not a smart move.

One out of every four or five fires can be laid to faulty chimneys, flues, cooking and heating stoves, furnaces, fireplaces, hot ashes, and sparks on the roof. Most houses are constructed to abide by the usual rules and regulations as to the placement of heating units and pipes. But the trouble starts when the owners neglect to clean the chimney periodically or to repair cracks or loose mortar. Unused flue holes should be closed with an noncombustible cap and not papered over or left unstopped. Overloading or forcing a furnace to get more heat is to be condemned.

The improper use of kerosene, benzene, naphtha, and other inflammable materials results in many fires each year. When these solvents are employed in the home for cleaning they vaporize on exposure to air. This produces an explosive mixture that is readily ignited by a lighted match, pilot light, or static electricity that occurs on combing the hair or rubbing textiles together. The vapors may travel to other rooms hence ventilation must be exceptionally good. The reckless use of candles, torches, and lamps has led to many tragedies.

The following is an old story well worth repeating: If your clothes catch fire do not run but lie on the floor and roll in a rug until the flames are extinguished.

Answering The Demand For Economy

Chinese Nationalist Waste Could Be Avoided; Russian Diplomats Learn To Drive; Americans Rededicate Declaration Of Independence

WASHINGTON — Much of the waste of Chinese Nationalist war supplies could be avoided if the millions of dollars worth of munitions we have sent to Formosa were handled direct by the U. S. government and supervised by us.

Instead, a peculiar system of middlemen is used, thereby permitting graft, rake-offs and comshaw to creep in. It's suspected that part of this is to help finance the China lobby which at times has had powerful influence in the U. S. Senate. Just who is getting the rake-offs remains a mystery.

Here is one illustration of how 2,956,170 gallons of aviation gasoline was ordered for the Chinese Air Force on Formosa, a purchase costing a cool million dollars.

This order was placed on Jan. 1, 1950—not during the hectic war days when the State Department White Paper tells of widespread graft in the Chinese Army.

But though conditions were relatively peaceful in January, 1950, and the Korean War had not started, this huge quantity of gasoline was handled by the Chung Foo Company, a broker in Formosa. The Chinese Air Force Procurement Office in Washington was merely informed by cable that the 2,956,170-gallon order had been placed with this broker.

This was peculiar on the face of it, because the Chinese Air Force had its own office in Washington for the specific purpose of buying these supplies. Another peculiar aspect was that the price was fixed as of September, 1949—or 33.82 cents a gallon. This actually was a higher price than the Chinese needed to pay, for, by January, 1950, the price had dropped.

San Francisco Grocer

Regardless of this, however, the Formosan government signed a final contract with the Chung Foo Company on Feb. 9, 1950, and the next day the Chinese Air Force in Washington was ordered by cable to make a million dollars availble at the Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco to South China Enterprise, Inc.

In other words the Chinese Air Force in Washington, having had nothing to do with the purchase of the gasoline, was instructed merely to pay for it.

South China Enterprise, Inc., was described as the American agent for the Chung Foo Company in Formosa. However, investigation proved it was nothing more than a hole-in-the-wall grocery store in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Patriotic Chinese, who did not want to see their country gypped, investigated further and found that the total assets of the grocery store were only a few hundred dollars. Yet it was supposed to handle a deal involving one million.

Furthermore, the grocery-store proprietor, knowing nothing about gasoline, turned the deal over to another middleman named Alexander Lindenbaum, who then contracted to buy the gas from Cities Service.

In other words, the Chinese government could have bought the gas direct from Cities Service in the first place, instead of which it went through three middlemen — the broker in Formosa, the grocery store in San Francisco's Chinatown, and Alexander Lindenbaum.

The man who placed the gasoline order was Gen. C. J. Chou, Chiang Kai-Shek's chief of staff, whose rank corresponds to that of General Bradley in the United States.

In the end, the deal was stopped when it reached the ears of conscientious Sen. William Knowland of California.

Russian Driving Licenses

There is one interesting sidelight about the plan to make Russian diplomats in Washington take the same stiff auto driver test that our diplomats are given in Moscow. American diplomats are almost forced to qualify as mechanics before getting a driver's license—which, of course, is for the purpose of making them use Russian chauffeurs in Moscow.

What the American public doesn't know, however, is that Soviet diplomats figured two months ago that we might make them take the same kind of stiff test. So, two months ago, the Russian Embassy hired several "learn-to-drive" experts to teach its staff all the technical details of auto repair.

For weeks since then, the "learn-to-drive" cars arrived in front of the Soviet Embassy, picked up a Red diplomat and went careening down 16th Street in another minor skirmish in the global cold war.

Rededicating The Declaration

The experience of two newspapers in widely separated parts of the county — New Orleans and Madison, Wis.—in having people refuse to sign the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, has started a campaign for a rededication of the Declaration.

The Sertoma Club (Service to Mankind) of Richmond, Va., has contributed $500 to pay for copies of the Declaration of Independence to be hung in school rooms. Other Virginians, the state which gave the author of the Declaration to the nation, are promoting ways and means of rededicating the Declaration, among them August Dietz of The Dietz Press, who has undertaken to print copies of the Declaration at cost, suitable for framing.

And in New York, Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, has undertaken to highlight the ideals and message of the Declaration of Independence by newsreel. Skouras, who was born in Greece, says: "When I was a boy I wasn't lucky enough to study the Declaration of Independence or have the advantage of its great freedoms. Now I do. And I want to do anything I can to help in its appreciation."

Washington Pipeline

The Senate Crime Committee's chief counsel, Richard Moser, made a secret visit last week to Mexico City to question New York's former mayor, William O'Dwyer, now ambassador to Mexico. O'Dwyer spent the time bitterly denouncing two members of the Crime Committee—Senators Kefauver of Tennessee and Tobey of New Hampshire . . . A Communist statement at the cease-fire talks caused General Ridgway to throw an American and two South Korean divisions into the present "limited offensive" on the Central front. Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist negotiator, had repeatedly complained against Allied bombings while the truce talks were in progress, then suddenly he reversed himself after the agenda was agreed upon and announced it was his understanding that the fighting would continue during the talks. This made General Ridgway suspicious, so he ordered a limited offensive to probe enemy positions and find out what the Communists are up to.

These Days

The West Point Scandal

Senator Fulbright's proposal, which amounts to shifting the West Point scandal to an investigation of intercollegiate football, is not sound. The problem is not football; it is the morals of a nation. It is not whether subsidized, paid athletics in the colleges is to be forgiven; it is rather that something has gone out of this nation when cheating is taken as lightly as fixing, which used to be called graft.

It is easy for those who think only in terms of immediate party politics or, even worse, of their personal friendships to shunt off everything that happens into the category of the usual. But those who insist upon a moral criteron cannot help asking, "Why is it usual? Why has it become usual?"

It is possible to say that the 20th Century is not the 19th Century, but that does not mean that the 20th Century is an improvement on the 19th or even on the 12th Century. What is called modern does not necessarily mean better as anyone who listens to Bach and Shostakovich on the same program knows.

If by improvement we mean that an automobile is a superior means of locomotion to a horse and buggy, or that an electrical refrigerator is superior to a bow and arrow, then we have made very great progress.

But when the morals of man are considered, we are halted by the astonishing retreat of the 20th Century with its excess of divorces, its broken homes, its emphasis on homosexuality, its acceptance of materialistic Marxism in wide areas that were so recently Christian, its avoidance of such concepts as faith, honor, dignity, sacrifice. If we assume that God is old-fashioned and that his natural law is superstition, then we must not be shocked by what happened at West Point.

These 90 men accused of cheating contend that they are not the only ones and that it has been going on for some time. Does that make it right? Is that an excuse for conduct? Because some men are dope peddlers, is dope peddling justified? The position is so illogical that the men who use it as an excuse display their unworthiness.

This is a question that Americans have to answer if they wish to preserve our nation and our civilization. It is impossible to say that "deep freezers," "mink coats," fixers close to the White House and incident after incident of loose morals in high places are usual in all governments. In our long history, such incidents have been unusual. These are the clinical evidences of a decaying civilization, just as wholesale and prolonged cribbing at West Point is a symptom of degeneracy among our armed forces. For these young men, under the circumstances of West Point education, could not have engaged in this practice without officer connivance. This undoubtedly is their real defense.

These symptoms need to be studied back to their causes. When there is such widespread degradation among the people, it means clearly two things:

1. The moral leadership of the nation is inadequate for influencing oncoming generations in decent, dignified leadership and living;

2. The religious training of youth is inadequate to sustain them through the trials of life by precept, inspiration, example and by supplying the automatic restraints of moral conduct.

The individuals involved in the West Point scandal will suffer personal indignity and a loss of great opportunity, but there is much more to this. This nation is now challenged b an incident which involves all our children. What is being done in our schools to build character? The public school ideal was designed not only to teach reading and writing, but to breed a race of decent, honest, God-loving human beings. What happens to our children in the first years of their lives? This we need to understand if we are to grasp our current apathy concerning indecencies. It may require moving deeply into the whole question of national morals, of upbringing, of education, of purely functional schooling without religion.

We need to know why our people are not outraged at the shameless corruption of our country. Something has gone terribly wrong with us and we need to know what it is and why it happened.

Nominating Truman

By MARK SULLIVAN

Even admitting that we live in a period in which to an exceptional degree new conditions change old rules, it never the less remains close to a certainty that Mr. Truman can get the Presidential nomination next year if he decided that he wants it. What goes on in Mr. Truman's mind is the decisive factor.

Within the party there is hostility to him of a kind and degree which in 1952 would normally express itself in opposition to nominating him. But so was there opposition to nominating him in 1948. Preceding his nomination at the Democratic National Convention, leaders of his party made public statements which amounted to declarations that they did not want him. The statements reflected both wings of the party. Old Guard Democratic leader Frank Hague of Jersey City declared starkly that "every leader I conferred with has informed me that if President Truman is the candidate it means landslide on the Republican side." To the same effect a group of liberals, Americans for Democratic Action, issued a formal statement that "there is so little public enthusiasm for the Truman Administration that the Democratic party would face a very difficult uphill fight if he were nominated."

Not Practical To Change

Mr. Truman, as he considers whether to run next year, undoubtedly remembers all that and remembers that in spite of it he got the nomination. Being a self-confident person he may assume that he got it by his own efforts. But the only effort on his part that counted materially was his declaration that he wanted it. Once he had gone after it, the party leaders could hardly help letting him have it. Had they nominated someone else the party would have been in the position of denying endorsement to the record which a President of their party had made. They would have been saying to voters in effect, "We have done badly with the President of our party now in office, but we have made a change and are now asking for another chance with a different candidate." That just wouldn't be practicable. What it all amounts to is that any President in office can get another nomination if he wants one.

However there are other things Mr. Truman can remember as reasons for self-confidence. He won the election, won it under handicaps which so far do not appear likely to exist next year. In the 1948 campaign there were two third parties that took large numbers of votes from Mr. Truman. One was the State's Rights party, the so-called "Dixiecrats," which carried Southern states that otherwise Mr. Truman would undoubtedly have carried. While Southern Democratic leaders, conspicuously Sen. Byrd of Virginia, have made statements strongly condemning Mr. Truman's administration, and where there is much anti-Truman sentiment in the South, there is not at this stage any organized movement that definitely protends a Southern third party in 1952. (This is not to say that a Southern third party may not yet develop before the 1952 Democratic National Convention or as a result of developments within that convention). In addition to the States' Rights party Mr. Truman in 1948 had the opposition of Mr. Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party, the great bulk of whose votes were ones which otherwise would almost certainly have gone to Mr. Truman. Today there is no Wallace third party and no apparent likelihood of one.

Peace Would Help

Mr. Truman's 1948 victory is a valid reason for self-confidence as respects 1952. His victory was due in part to the aggressiveness of his campaigning. Remembering that, he is the more likely to tend toward the aggressive course as he decided whether or not to run next year. Much of Mr. Truman's psychology could be compressed into a phrase "I'll show 'em." So far as prudence or caution or restraint have a place in Mr. Truman's temperament, they should suggest the difference between conditions as they were then and conditions as they are now or may be by the 1952 election.

Since 1948 there has come war and the threat of more. What will be the status of war and peace by the time of the 1952 election no one can foresee. Optimism on the part of Mr. Truman could lead him to assume that there will be progress toward world peace and that this would help him. Similarly, no one can foretell what will be the status of inflation by the time of the 1952 election.

Any speculation about the 1952 election, whether by Mr. Truman or anyone else, should include the possibility of a deep and widespread change in the mind of the electorate. Large numbers of voters who supported Mr. Truman in 1948 may have come to doubt whether they were wise. During the term to which they elected him they have seen the coming of war and of increased inflation. And they may feel that the head of government must bear some responsibility for these developments.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—When Congress passed a resolution expressing frienship for the Russian people, it was a good thing to do—to show that, no matter what friction prevailed between the governments, there was a basic desire for a peaceful relationship between the peoples.

Such a well-intentioned move, however, now has been met by calumny and misrepresentation by the Soviet government. The weakness of the American position from a counter-propaganda standpoint is that the United States Government still deals with the Soviet regime as if it were a respectable institution when, in fact, the hands of the Red rulers are soiled with the blood of aggression.

Everybody knows who has been supplying the Chinese Reds with munitions to kill the troops of the United Nations.

Everybody knows that the Russian government has been faithless to the charter of the United Nations.

Yet diplomatic relations are maintained with Moscow and with satellite countries which are every day inflicting insults on the governments of the free world.

Pussyfoot Diplomacy

There was a time when the great government of Great Britain and the great government of the United States would not tolerate for an instant the arrest and imprisonment of a citizen of either country on flimsy charges. But today an American newsman — William Oatis — stays in jail because of a pussyfoot diplomacy fears to make an issue of it. A fear complex prevails. The Soviet regime misconstrues this as a weakness and hence feels free to taunt the principal governments of the world with false charges.

For the latest Russian pronouncement repeats that the United States was an aggressor in Korea and that the United Nations invaded that peninsula.

The opportunity to tell the people of Russia the truth in official language is now presented to the American government. Will it take up the Kremlin's statement and give the facts about each of its charges and cite chapter and verse? Will it declare not only to the Russian people but to the people of the whole world that the Moscow regime has forfeited any right to be accepted on an equal basis with other nations?

The Russian statement makes much of its desire to be accepted as an equal. But equality presupposes fidelity to truth and likewise a willingness to give up force and coercion as a means of influencing the action of other nations.

The satellite countries furnish vivid examples of how Soviet compulsion has worked. It is a proper occasion now for the American government to outline the record of what has been happening throughout Russia and the satellite areas.

If, however, the United States and the UN are to be timid and to cherish the illusion diplomatic recognition as well as continued membership in the UN, then the Soviets will continue to have all the advantage in the propaganda exchanges.

The moral force of the world has never really been exerted effectively against the Soviet regime. The American government has never in so many words laid it on the line that the Soviet regime is an immoral government not entitled to be treated as a member of the family of nations.

Never Officially Stated

In public speeches some American officials have accused Russia of aggression, but that's mere name calling. The record is certaainly filled with evidence of what Moscow has done in the Far East and in the satellite countries of Europe. That record has never been officially stated as an expression by the United States Government to the world. The Soviet regime has never, in fact, been held up as an outlaw government.

The chance has come to make clear that only when faithless acts are abandoned and a government that really represents the aspirations of the peace-loving people of Russia arises can there be an end to the arms race and a removal of the tension that is injuring the economies of the free world and compelling more and more of the youth of all countries to mobilize for defense against sudden attack. The responsibility of the Kremlin for the chaos that fills the world has never been officially defined in so many words and transmitted to the Russian people. Logically it's the next move.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

Phredonia Estes, his mother, gave him his first name. . . . But never mind the family name. . . . Estes did the bestes—he got the votes! . . . Running against the powerful political machine of Tennessee Boss, Ed Crumb, Estes Kefauver got the voters to free themselves from one-man rule in his state. . . . And now, even more since his battle against crime last winter, the Tennessee voters are proud he's their senator. . . . Even when they disagree on issues with him, they like him. . . . They like his pretty Scotch wife, his character and, as they say, "that Sunday smile he can turn on seven days a week." Not only in Tennessee do you hear "he'll be in the White House before he's through." —AUSTINE

Don't Forget To Dream

By SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER

I am happy that Austine has invited me to use this space today because I want to bring you a message of hope.

Many persons in America have become confused and dejected because, having recently won a war, they can see no hope for the future. There appears to be nothing ahead but one crisis after another, and they fear that it will all end in another war.

I do not believe that this is necessarily so. I think that we have a way out. It requires that we in America recapture our ability to dream big dreams, and convert them into leadership. It requires that this leadership be given with an affirmative, positive approach.

Senator Estes Kefauver

First, let us consider the nature of the problem. We are faced with an enemy who has a philosophy and has a dream. It is a wrong one, a cockeyed one—but it is one. Along with it, the enemy has practically push-button control over all its segments. Our enemy is world-wide communism—Russia and its satellites.

Because of the control, no one knows when this enemy will strike. We do know that thousands of Soviet planes are based in Siberia and some of the islands north of Japan. We know that satellite forces are poised not far from Yugoslavian borders in Europe. We know that the revolution in Iran, in the Middle East, is composed of all the elements that invite a Communist coup. We are fighting in Korea.

This is our enemy, united behind a false philosophy, but united, able to strike at any one, or several places simultaneously, and withdraw, as its leaders deem best.

Now let us look at ourselves—the democracies of the world. We have the stuff of which real dreams are made—but too often we have forgotten to dream. We allow ourselves to be pushed on to the defensive. We deplore the enemy. We say isn't it awful, and then we argue among ourselves.

What we need is a positive program and a positive approach.

I think that we have it in the Atlantic Union Plan. One reason why I felt impelled to give up the chairmanship of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee was to have more time to devote to promoting a workable system of security and peace by law — in other words to have more time to devote to the Atlantic Union Plan. I feel deeply that it is my duty as an American to turn my principal attention to international gangsters and their threat to our security.

The Atlantic Union Resolution, which I have sponsored along with many of my colleagues in both the Senate and House, provides for exploring purposefully the possibility of moving a step beyond the present Atlantic alliances to form within the United Nations an actual federation, like the federation of the 48 American states.

We need to put the federal system —which is democracy at its highest and most organized level — on a transatlantic basis.

This federal system of delegating to a central authority power to act in the common interest is an efficient way of getting things done. Instead of the decisions of the people in the free world being made separately, they will be made together.

This, I believe, provides the answer to our problem. Like our enemy, we would be able to make our decisions quickly, and we would act together. Unlike our enemy, we would not sacrifice our freedoms to do this.

We have a world to preserve. No one nation, no one leader, is proving to be enough to do the task alone. But each free nation and each free citizen working together can do it.

If we would just pass this resolution and call the conference of nations that it proposes "to explore the possibilities of further union" we might well prevent World War III.

This is my message of hope. I hope that I have convinced you and that you will help convince my colleagues in Congress.

(Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

leisure, proposed to her. She accepted.

You see if he hadn't gotten the position on Liberty, he wouldn't have become a moving-picture critic and reached Hollywood where he found his bride-to-be. Sounds like that sequence — "For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; etc.", until finally the whole blooming battle went up in smoke. Maybe he would have gone west anyway and married her. Today Dick is acting as her manager and basking in the sunshine of the position both of them have created.

There's a good story about Mary Martin which I am going to tell at the risk of repeating what I may have already reported some time ago. Shortly after the wedding, we went to the Stork Club one night and got separated in the foyer, my wife and Dick Halliday going on ahead while Mary Martin and I were still lingering at the entrance. Now I have been prematurely grey for years. On the way out was a boisterous lady who evidently was full of something besides chocolate ice-cream sodas. She recognized my companion and made a nasty crack.

"The last time I saw you your hair was dark and now it's auburn," she said.

"Oh, I like to change it once in a while," answered Miss Martin with a smile.

Then she spotted me and my white thatch.

"Is that Daddy with you?" she asked. The actress had popularized a song called "My Heart Belongs To Daddy."

I burned up and couldn't think of anything to say until she had disappeared through the revolving door. Then it wasn't very good.

"I wish I had that dame alone in a soundproof room for about five minutes," I muttered.

Never pose for a photograph from a standing start! "Walk into it," is the secret of a professional look.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

As a model strikes a pose, the photographer on the set shouts, "Walk into it! Walk into it!" And that is one of the secrets that marks the results with professional perfection that amateurs rarely achieve except by accident.

It's this "walking into a pose" that insures fluid, flawless, body lines. It's a trade secret that you can learn to give snapshots of your self model attraction.

Trade Secret

The amateur's disappointing wooden-Indian effect is the result of standing stock still and then assuming the pose. Make up your mind now that you'll never get caught in it again.

Instead, practice posing the "walk-in" way. Pretend that some object in the room is a camera; a lamp is fine, but a full-length mirror is even better. With a strip of paper, mark a spot on the floor about five feet away and directly in front of the "camera." This is the spot on which you would pose and on which the photographer would focus, if a picture were really being made.

Now walk diagonally away from the marker to a point that is five steps behind and to the right of it. Turn and face the marker.

Starting with your left foot, take five steps toward the marker and stand still when you reach it. If you do it correctly, you will end up with your left foot touching the marker, your right foot a half step behind your body and your entire body turned slightly profile to the camera. This is all to the good since your feet, legs and hips are not only highly photogenic in this position but also because your whole body has captured the fluid line that can only result from arrested motion.

Photogenic Pose

Simultaneously, turn your shoulders toward the camera, clasp your palms together and bring them to rest on your left hip bone, tilt the top of your head slightly to the right and look as though you enjoyed the whole thing.

When you become expert, you'll be able to walk away from the marker, back to it, and arrange your body and expression without a single break in your motions. At the moment, you will be ready to display your prowess in front of a real camera. Then, of course, you will have no marker to help you locate your point of focus—you'll be able to depend on your mind's eye to tell you where the spot is. And as you walk into it, the camera's eye will find you lovely!

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Romance Of Mary Martin

In a roundabout way, I played Cupid to Mary Martin, and her late father-in-law had the same role in my case. To dispose of the matter, he introduced me to my wife, and, after that, it was up to me. Reminds me of the advice old Cy Young gave the young pitcher who came into the league and asked him how to work on the batters.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Cy, "I do the best I can up to the time the ball leaves my hand, and, after that, it's up to the hitter." There's a world of philosophy in the remark.

But to hell with Young. This is about Mary Martin, the star of South Pacific and other hits. When her husband, Dick Halliday, a handsome youth, finished college, I was toiling and struggling as the editor of Liberty magazine. He came into the office and asked me for a job. I had known him since before he put on long pants.

"I'm sorry," I told him, "but we are losing a lot of money and haven't got any jobs here."

"If you don't take me on," he answered, "I'm going to get to be an actor."

This ultimatum stirred me, and, trying to save him from such a career, although I don't know why, I compromised by hiring him at a modest salary which I figured wouldn't be the straw to break the camel's back. Being a personable young man, his beat was to visit writers, especially of the female gender, whose stories were in demand, to find out what was available. He got on friendly terms with Fannie Hurst, Edna Ferber, and many others and could drink a cocktail or a cup of tea with equal enthusiasm. His efforts produced some first-class literature.

Pretty soon I got fired by Captain Joe Patterson, the boss—not for hiring Halliday, because he made him moving picture critic, in which capacity he operated for a year or more and naturally got to know the celluloid tycoons of that day. It wasn't long before he was offered a job at much more money by Paramount and presently became story editor. He moved to Hollywood where he later went into the agency business, met Mary Martin and one day, when he had some

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

IT'S A CANNIBAL COUP

SUPPOSE you throw a defender into the lead, after preparing the hand so that his partner retains nothing except a guarded trump honor and you hold a higher honor guarded by a card higher than the opponent's guard. The partner of the trump holder —no matter what he returns — puts his mate's cards under the hammer, enabling you to take the last couple of tricks. What would you call such a play? Is "cannibal coup" descriptive enough?

	♠ A 9 7 ♥ A 10 9 2 ♦ 4 ♣ 10 9 7 6 5
♠ K J 8 6 4 2 ♥ J 8 7 4 ♦ None ♣ K 8 3	N W E S	♠ 10 5 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ 10 8 6 5 2 ♣ J 4 2
	♠ Q 3 ♥ K 5 ♦ A K Q J 9 7 3 ♣ A Q

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♦

Gaudy play pulled that contract safely into port. It was by Melville Alexander, one of New York's most brilliant all-around performers.

On the heart 4 lead, the 9 was played from dummy, the Q by East and the K by South. When the diamond A was laid down, West's spade 2 discard showed that East held all the outstanding trumps. Since a trick had to be lost in clubs or spades if West held the K in each black suit, as was probable from the bidding, no loser could be afforded in trumps. Mr. Alexander then set about depriving East of any trick with his diamonds, shortening his own trumps to the right point, then throwing West in the lead with the club Q.

To do this, he scored the diamond K and Q, and the club A, and finessed the heart 10—a pretty well marked finesse because of East's use of the Q on the first trick. On the heart A he discarded the club Q, then ruffed the club 7 with the diamond 3. He went to dummy with the spade 3 to the A and then led the club 9, ruffing with the diamond 7. He now held only the spade Q and diamond J-9, while East had the spade 10 and diamond 10-8. The spade Q now threw West in with the K. Mr. Alexander didn't care what West retained to lead, as East would have to ruff first with his 10-8 and then be topped by Mr. Alexander with the J-9, assuring the declarer the last two tricks and his small slam.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

Phredonia Estes, his mother, gave him his first name. . . . But never mind the family name. . . . Estes did the bestes—he got the votes! . . . Running against the powerful political machine of Tennessee Boss, Ed Crumb, Estes Kefauver got the voters to free themselves from one-man rule in his state. . . . And now, even more since his battle against crime last winter, the Tennessee voters are proud he's their senator. . . . Even when they disagree on issues with him, they like him. . . . They like his pretty Scotch wife, his character and, as they say, "that Sunday smile he can turn on seven days a week." Not only in Tennessee do you hear "he'll be in the White House before he's through." —AUSTINE

By SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER

I am happy that Austine has invited me to use this space today because I want to bring you a message of hope.

Many persons in America have become confused and dejected because, having recently won a war, they can see no hope for the future. There appears to be nothing ahead but one crisis after another, and they fear that it will all end in another war.

I do not believe that this is necessarily so. I think that we have a way out. It requires that we in America recapture our ability to dream big dreams, and convert them into leadership. It requires that this leadership be given with an affirmative, positive approach.

Senator Estes Kefauver

First, let us consider the nature of the problem. We are faced with an enemy who has a philosophy and has a dream. It is a wrong one, a cockeyed one—but it is one. Along with it, the enemy has practically push-button control over all its segments. Our enemy is world-wide communism—Russia and its satellites.

Because of the control, no one knows when this enemy will strike. We do know that thousands of Soviet planes are based in Siberia and some of the islands north of Japan. We know that satellite forces are poised not far from Yugoslavian borders in Europe. We know that the revolution in Iran, in the Middle East, is composed of all the elements that invite a Communist coup. We are fighting in Korea.

This is our enemy, united behind a false philosophy, but united, able to strike at any one, or several places simultaneously, and withdraw, as its leaders deem best.

Now let us look at ourselves—the democracies of the world. We have the stuff of which real dreams are made—but too often we have forgotten to dream. We allow ourselves to be pushed on to the defensive. We deplore the enemy. We say isn't it awful, and then we argue among ourselves.

What we need is a positive program and a positive approach.

I think that we have it in the Atlantic Union Plan. One reason why I felt impelled to give up the chairmanship of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee was to have more time to devote to promoting a workable system of security and peace by law — in other words to have more time to devote to the Atlantic Union Plan. I feel deeply that it is my duty as an American to turn my principal attention to international gangsters and their threat to our security.

The Atlantic Union Resolution, which I have sponsored along with many of my colleagues in both the Senate and House, provides for exploring purposefully the possibility of moving a step beyond the present Atlantic alliances to form within the United Nations an actual federation, like the federation of the 48 American states.

We need to put the federal system—which is democracy at its highest and most organized level — on a transatlantic basis.

This federal system of delegating to a central authority power to act in the common interest is an efficient way of getting things done. Instead of the decisions of the people in the free world being made separately, they will be made together.

This, I believe, provides the answer to our problem. Like our enemy, we would be able to make our decisions quickly, and we would act together. Unlike our enemy, we would not sacrifice our freedoms to do this.

We have a world to preserve. No one nation, no one leader, is proving to be enough to do the task alone. But each free nation and each free citizen working together can do it.

If we would just pass this resolution and call the conference of nations that it proposes "to explore the possibilities of further union" we might well prevent World War III.

This is my message of hope. I hope that I have convinced you and that you will help convince my colleagues in Congress.

Being a personable young man, his beat was to visit writers, especially of the female gender, whose stories were in demand, to find out what was available. He got on friendly terms with Fannie Hurst, Edna Ferber, and many others and could drink a cocktail or a cup of tea with equal enthusiasm. His efforts produced some first-class literature.

Pretty soon I got fired by Captain Joe Patterson, the boss—not for hiring Halliday, because he made him moving picture critic, in which capacity he operated for a year or more and naturally got to know the celluloid tycoons of that day. It wasn't long before he was offered a job at much more money by Paramount and presently became story editor. He moved to Hollywood where he later went into the agency business, met Mary Martin and one day, when he had some leisure, proposed to her. She accepted.

You see if he hadn't gotten the position on Liberty, he wouldn't have become a moving-picture critic and reached Hollywood where he found his bride-to-be. Sounds like that sequence — "For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; etc.", until finally the whole blooming battle went up in smoke. Maybe he would have gone west anyway and married her. Today Dick is acting as her manager and basking in the sunshine of the position both of them have created.

There's a good story about Mary Martin which I am going to tell at the risk of repeating what I may have already reported some time ago. Shortly after the wedding, we went to the Stork Club one night and got separated in the foyer, my wife and Dick Halliday going on ahead while Mary Martin and I were still lingering at the entrance. Now I have been prematurely grey for years. On the way out was a boisterous lady who evidently was full of something besides chocolate ice-cream sodas. She recognized my companion and made a nasty crack.

"The last time I saw you your hair was dark and now it's auburn," she said.

"Oh, I like to change it once in a while," answered Miss Martin with a smile.

Then she spotted me and my white thatch.

"Is that Daddy with you?" she asked. The actress had popularized a song called "My Heart Belongs To Daddy."

I burned up and couldn't think of anything to say until she had disappeared through the revolving door. Then it wasn't very good.

"I wish I had that dame alone in a soundproof room for about five minutes," I muttered.

Never pose for a photograph from a standing start! "Walk into it," is the secret of a professional look.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

As a model strikes a pose, the photographer on the set shouts, "Walk into it! Walk into it!" And that is one of the secrets that marks the results with professional perfection that amateurs rarely achieve except by accident.

It's this "walking into a pose" that insures fluid, flawless, body lines. It's a trade secret that you can learn to give snapshots of your self model attraction.

Trade Secret

The amateur's disappointing wooden-Indian effect is the result of standing stock still and then assuming the pose. Make up your mind now that you'll never get caught in it again.

Instead, practice posing the "walk-in" way. Pretend that some object in the room is a camera; a lamp is fine, but a full-length mirror is even better. With a strip of paper, mark a spot on the floor about five feet away and directly in front of the "camera." This is the spot on which you would pose and on which the photographer would focus, if a picture were really being made.

Now walk diagonally away from the marker to a point that is five steps behind and to the right of it. Turn and face the marker.

Starting with your left foot, take five steps toward the marker and stand still when you reach it. If you do it correctly, you will end up with your left foot touching the marker, your right foot a half step behind your body and your entire body turned slightly profile to the camera. This is all to the good since your feet, legs and hips are not only highly photogenic in this position but also because your whole body has captured the fluid line that can only result from arrested motion.

Photogenic Pose

Simultaneously, turn your shoulders toward the camera, clasp your palms together and bring them to rest on your left hip bone, tilt the top of your head slightly to the right and look as though you enjoyed the whole thing.

When you become expert, you'll be able to walk away from the marker, back to it, and arrange your body and expression without a single break in your motions. At the moment, you will be ready to display your prowess in front of a real camera. Then, of course, you will have no marker to help you locate your point of focus—you'll be able to depend on your mind's eye to tell you where the spot is. And as you walk into it, the camera's eye will find you lovely!

On the heart A he discarded the club Q, then ruffed the club 7 with the diamond 3. He went to dummy with the spade 3 to the A and then led the club 9, ruffing with the diamond 7. He now held only the spade Q and diamond J-9, while East had the spade 10 and diamond 10-8. The spade Q now threw West in with the K. Parole Violation Hearing Is Set

Raymond G. Everitt, 20, RFD 2, Christie Road, will receive a hearing before Associate Judge George Henderson Monday at 9:15 a. m. on a charge of violating his parole.

The hearing was scheduled after Everitt pleaded not guilty to the charge in Allegany County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Information had been filed against Everitt July 17, 1950, by the State's Attorney charging him with forgery. He pleaded guilty when arraigned July 28, 1950, and was sentenced to a period not to exceed two years in the Maryland State Reformatory. The sentence was suspended and he was paroled for two years.

In January of this year Everitt was charged in Federal District Court in Baltimore with stealing a money order out of a mail box here. He had served almost six months in the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., when he was brought to the Allegany County Jail to face the parole violation charge.

James McKee, 44, Cresaptown, also haled before Judge Henderson Tuesday as an alleged parole violator, was remanded to jail pending a decision by the judge.

The Cresaptown man was convicted in Allegany County Circuit Court last October 16 on a burglary charge. He was given one year in the Maryland House of Correction but was paroled for two years pending good behavior and abstinance from use of intoxicants. On June 28 he was charged with violating his parole. He pleaded guilty and again was paroled on condition that he refrain from all intoxicants. On July 22 he again was charged by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher with violating his parole on grounds that he had used intoxicants.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, rounding out his fourth term, said yesterday "the more I look at it the better it looks for another term."

There had been talk that he planned to retire to public life.

Parole Violation Hearing Is Set

Raymond G. Everitt, 20, RFD 2, Christie Road, will receive a hearing before Associate Judge George Henderson Monday at 9:15 a. m. on a charge of violating his parole.

The hearing was scheduled after Everitt pleaded not guilty to the charge in Allegany County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Information had been filed against Everitt July 17, 1950, by the State's Attorney charging him with forgery. He pleaded guilty when arraigned July 28, 1950, and was sentenced to a period not to exceed two years in the Maryland State Reformatory. The sentence was suspended and he was paroled for two years.

In January of this year Everitt was charged in Federal District Court in Baltimore with stealing a money order out of a mail box here. He had served almost six months in the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., when he was brought to the Allegany County Jail to face the parole violation charge.

James McKee, 44, Cresaptown, also haled before Judge Henderson Tuesday as an alleged parole violator, was remanded to jail pending a decision by the judge.

The Cresaptown man was convicted in Allegany County Circuit Court last October 16 on a burglary charge. He was given one year in the Maryland House of Correction but was paroled for two years pending good behavior and abstinance from use of intoxicants. On June 28 he was charged with violating his parole. He pleaded guilty and again was paroled on condition that he refrain from all intoxicants. On July 22 he again was charged by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher with violating his parole on grounds that he had used intoxicants.

50 Teachers Resign Posts In County School System

The General Assembly's Legislative Council fact finding commission on the teacher pay question was given yesterday a sharp example of the arguments presented here last week by county educators and officials.

It came in the form of an announcement from Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county public schools, that 12 more teachers have resigned their positions in the system so far this week.

This makes a total of 50 instructors who have left their jobs since classes adjourned for the summer vacation in June.

With the combined teaching staffs totaling approximately 500 in the county, this means that one-tenth of them have sought employment otherwise.

Eighteen have left elementary schools and 32 have left high schools, Kopp reported.

Seek Better Salaries

Most of the resignations, the superintendent of schools said, are from teachers who are going to other school systems where higher salaries are paid, while others have left the teaching profession and entered private industry.

In reference to the higher pay for teachers, the Legislative Council's sub-committee that held a hearing at West Side School with representatives of four Western Maryland counties last week, was told repeatedly about the variance in wage scales within the state.

The richer counties are paying more for their teachers and, as a result, are grabbing the better instructors.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll and Delegate Estel C. Kelley the only county legislators to attend the hearing to sound out public opinion on the wage raise for teachers, declared that it is the state's responsibility to level the salaries within Maryland in order to curb these practices.

For instance, Driscoll said, the teachers' wages depend on the county's ability to pay. As standards are set for instruction by the state in a poor county, such as St. Mary's, there is a per capita income of $465. Montgomery County has $1,749 per capita income.

Therefore, Driscoll added, it would be impossible for the poorer counties to compete in teachers wages with the richer counties. Children living in all parts of the state should have an equal opportunity for education, he concluded.

Woodson Leaves Bruce

The resignation included that of W. E. Woodson, Jr., athletic director at Bruce High School, who has received employment at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Other resignations were received from John Gravell, commercial teacher at Beall High School, Frostburg.

Sevier Baumer, social studies at Oldtown High School.

Alexander Hawkins, industrial arts at Bruce High School, Westernport.

Robert Ross, vocational agriculture at Flintstone.

Eileen Bergdoll, home economics at Barton High School.

Mrs. Corlista M. Crowe, elementary grades at Penn Avenue School.

Mrs. Jane Bowen Harris, East Side School.

Mrs. Theo Carnell Workman Flintstone School who has moved to Washington.

William Donohue, Allegany High School.

Morals Charges Added To Counts Against Trio

In addition to four charges of assault and robbery, morals counts have been placed against the two Luke men and a West Virginia woman taken back to Somerset, Pa., by police after the father of one of the men was beaten and robbed.

The trio, picked up at Romney, W. Va., last week after police of three states were alerted, had been visiting R. Paul Broadwater, of Glencoe, Somerset county.

When they got ready to leave, Broadwater claimed the men held him and the woman beat him with a poker in an effort to make him tell where he kept his money.

One of those holding the farmer was his son, James Broadwater, 18, of Luke. The other man, the farmer said, was Robert D. Wolfe, 23, of Luke. Wielding the poker, he claimed, was Mrs. Eunice Wolford, 23, of Keyser.

With the three during their visit at the Glencoe farm was a 12-year-old runaway girl from Virginia.

James Broadwater appeared before Justice of the Peace H. S. Whipperman Tuesday and was charged with statutory rape, involving the young girl.

The 12-year-old was picked up by Westernport police after the quartet had returned last week from Broadwater's farm. She was sent to her home in Virginia.

The Wolford woman and Wolfe were also held on morals counts, the man under $500 bail and Mrs. Wolford under $1,000.

All entered pleas of guilty to the morals counts before Justice of the Peace Whipperman Tuesday, but later refused to sign grand jury waivers before District Attorney Frank A. Orban, Jr.

In addition to the morals charges, the three face charges of robbery, assault with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery. They will be arraigned on those counts when the elder Broadwater is able to leave Somerset Community Hospital.

Clothing Store To Open Here

A large New York clothier will open a new store at 150 Baltimore Street in the room formerly occupied by Woolworth's.

Joseph Silvers, of New York, an official of the firm, said the store will open in about "three or four weeks." He declined to name the concern.

Remodeling of the store is well underway and it is expected to be in full operation in time for the fall season, Silvers added.

The store will offer both men's and women's wear.

Parade Winners Named

Winners of the on-wheels parade held Tuesday for the children of the Virginia Avenue Playground are prettiest, Charlotte Dyer; best decorated, Patty. Sulser; most unusual, Jackie Yarnall, and funniest, Betty Leatherman and Sandra Sulser.

GETTING READY—Workmen are busily engaged in the preliminary stages of the construction of the new Central High School at Lonaconing. Work on the $1,650,000 school, which was started May 7, is expected to be finished in time for the opening of the 1952-53 school year some 13 months from now. The picture shows the county's smallest power shovel in a trenching operation as part of the plumbing and sewer system work begins. Operating the little shovel is Conrad Miller. Walter Yoder and John Yoder of a Pinto plumbing and heating firm look on with approval. The school is being constructed on the site of the old ball park at Detmold.

Morals Charges Added To Counts Against Trio

In addition to four charges of assault and robbery, morals counts have been placed against the two Luke men and a West Virginia woman taken back to Somerset, Pa., by police after the father of one of the men was beaten and robbed.

The trio, picked up at Romney, W. Va., last week after police of three states were alerted, had been visiting R. Paul Broadwater, of Glencoe, Somerset county.

When they got ready to leave, Broadwater claimed the men held him and the woman beat him with a poker in an effort to make him tell where he kept his money.

One of those holding the farmer was his son, James Broadwater, 18, of Luke. The other man, the farmer said, was Robert D. Wolfe, 23, of Luke. Wielding the poker, he claimed, was Mrs. Eunice Wolford, 23, of Keyser.

With the three during their visit at the Glencoe farm was a 12-year-old runaway girl from Virginia.

James Broadwater appeared before Justice of the Peace H. S. Whipperman Tuesday and was charged with statutory rape, involving the young girl.

The 12-year-old was picked up by Westernport police after the quartet had returned last week from Broadwater's farm. She was sent to her home in Virginia.

The Wolford woman and Wolfe were also held on morals counts, the man under $500 bail and Mrs. Wolford under $1,000.

All entered pleas of guilty to the morals counts before Justice of the Peace Whipperman Tuesday, but later refused to sign grand jury waivers before District Attorney Frank A. Orban, Jr.

In addition to the morals charges, the three face charges of robbery, assault with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery. They will be arraigned on those counts when the elder Broadwater is able to leave Somerset Community Hospital.

Bill Catherman and Carroll Boggs, local pro, turned in the best scores for the Cumberlanders with 72 and 71 respectively but it was not enough as the home team captured eight of the 12 foursomes to pile up a commanding lead.

Blaik May Resign Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Earl (Red) Blaik, who lifted Army football to a plane unparalleled in its history, has called a press conference here tomorrow amid rumors he will resign as head football coach West Point.

The strapping, straight-backed exponent of the two platoon system, silent up to now on resignation reports, said he would outline his position at 11 a. m. (EST).

Thinks have never looked darker for the 54-year-old native of Dayton, Ohio, who himself was one of West Point's greatest all-round athletes.

His once-potent squad, preportedly is shattered by the exam-cribbing scandal at the Military Academy where 90 cadets, including the bulk of the football team, face dismissal. His son, Bob, is the team's star quarterback but 'its not known whether he's involved.

Golf's "World" Championship To Begin Today

Ben Hogan Ends Ban On Contest

CHICAGO, Aug. 8—(AP)—Golf's richest show, the $56,000 "World" championship with concurrent men's amateur and women's open competition, opens tomorrow with U. S. Open champion Ben Hogan returning to the course he scorned for four years.

Hogan joined the field of 64 hand-picked pros shooting for a lush $12,500 first prize, he said, because promoter George S. May has made his Tam O'Shanter carnival a better golf meet than it used to be.

After winning the 1947 "World," then a 36-hole winner-take-all, $5,000 event, Hogan criticized Tam's former circus aspects, including required number-wearing by players, masked marvels and other gimmicks May figured would please the crowd. "Just say that this is a golf tournament now," said Hogan in explaining why he ended his four-year boycott of Tam.

Hogan is the only addition to the pro field which was screened to 63 after last weekend's All-American tourney which had a starting field of 118.

The All-American and its $2,250 first prize was won by Cary Middlecoff, the inactive dentist from Memphis, Tenn., whose 72-hole score was 274. That was seven strokes better than the 281 at which Henry Ransom and Chick Harbert tied for first in the 1950 "World" meet. Ransom took the $10,000 top swag by shooting a 69 against Harbert's 72 in a playoff.

Ten amateurs, headed by All-American champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, will shoot along with the pros, rounding out a men's field of 74.

The $6,000 women's open will have a stream-lined field of 20, composed mostly of pros.

Favored to grab the $2,100 top feminine money is All-America Champion Mildred (Babe) Zaharias, who has won pro laurels in the "World" since that meet was started for women at Tam O'Shanter in 1948.

Rain Hampers Tennis Action

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP) — Rain washed out all the third round singles action in the Newport Casino tennis tournament today but four doubles matches were squeezed in late in the afternoon when the weather cleared.

Former national team champions Gardnar Mulloy and Bill Talbert, who are top-seeded, got out of the first round with a 6-1, 6-2 win over Ben Bishop of St. Louis, and Johnny Hernandez of San Antonio, Tex.

The two Australian pairs were able to complete their second round assignments. Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor ousted Robert Kerdasha of North Bergen, N. J., and William Van Alen of Newport, 6-2, 6-0, and Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, slammed England's Tony Mottram and Syl Levy of South Africa, for a 9-7, 6-4 triumph.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Vicc Seixas of Philadelphia, who are second seeded, ran out their second-rounder with William J. Clothier, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Jack Tuero of New Orleans, for a 6-4, 7-5 victory.

Ousted Cadets May Play Elsewhere

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Army football players facing dismissal in the West Point exam-cribbing scandal will be eligible to play at other colleges a year after enrollment, if they so choose.

"They would be treated like anybody else," Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference said today. "They can apply for admittance to other colleges. If admitted, they can play after one year.

"This transfer rule is just about universal, I think."

Heads TV Program

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Edwin S. (Red) Reynolds of New York today was named director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's experimental television program.

He will act as a liason between the colleges, the sponsor of this year's live football telecasts and the sponsor's advertising agency.

Times-News, Kiwanis Capture HSL Wins

The second-place Optimists Club lost further ground in the tight battle in the Hot Stove League as B'nai B'rith tossers turned them back 8-2 last night at Penn Avenue field.

Dorcel Kline tossed a four-hitter and failed to walk a single batter as his mates supported him with some lusty extra-base clouting that included a homerun by Galen McKenzie and two triples.

The winners put the game on ice in the top half of the initial frame with four runs. Crawford had a triple for the losers while Art Gehauf and Kline had the three-base wallops for B'nai B'rith.

In another Hot Stove League contest played yesterday the Times-News easily defeated the Exchange Club 8-2 at East Side yesterday afternoon. Page and Grimes hurled two-hit ball for the winners with Grimes striking out five of six batters to face him in a two-inning stint.

Lynn had two hits including a double for the winners while Merrill of the Exchange Club and Davis of Times-News starred in the outfield with spectacular catches.

At Penn Avenue under the lights the Kiwanis Club edged the Jaycees by a 3-2 count with Lefty Fred Ritter tossing a three-hitter for the winners. Daugherty and Bender had two hits each to pace the Kiwanians at the plate. The score:

Injury Sidelines Louise Brough

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 8 (AP) —An arm injury may accomplish something tennis players have been unable to do for nine years—unseat Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif. and Mrs. Margaret Osborn duPont of Wilmington, Del. as national doubles champions.

Miss Brough was reported today to be through with big time tennis because of an arm condition which steadily has become worse.

Hambletonian Race Postponed 24 Hours By Heavy Rain

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gloomy, rain-soaked Goshen awaited clearing weather today as hazardous track conditions caused a 24-hour postponement of the 26th Hambletonian Stake and delayed a verdict on which horse will become boss of the three-year-old trotters.

The 21 horses are ready to line up in two tiers for the first heat of the $95,264 harness derby at 2 p. m. (EST), tomorrow. The regular Hambletonian Day racing program is scheduled to start at 10 a. m., EST.

There was no change in the minds of most veterans who forecast that the powerful Hayes Fair Acres Stables entry of Mighty Fine and Spennib would remain the betting favorite at about 7 to 2. The two DuQuoin, Ill. colts are from the same stable that won the 1950 race with Lusty Song.

This was the first postponement of the Hambletonian since 1946, when Chestertown won after a one-day delay.

A pop double by Larry Doby in the fourth inning scored both Indian runs. The Tribe was held to five hits by Southpaw Tommy Byrne, but Byrne walked nine batters. Box:

Dodgers Take Twin Bill To Increase Lead

Topple Giants Twice By 7-2, 7-6 Scores

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(INS)—The pennant-bound Brooklyn Dodgers lengthened the wide open spaces in the National League to 11½ games tonight when a bases-loaded single by Billy Cox with two out in the tenth inning gave them a 7 to 6 win over the New York Giants.

The Dodgers also beat their second place Manhattan cousins, 7 to 2, in a day game to sweep a day-night doubleheader. The two wins gave the Brooks an 11-3 record against the Durochermen.

The Giants made a contest of the night game, when, trailing 6-3 against big Don Newcombe, they scored three runs in the ninth. Bobby Thomson opened the inning with his 22nd homer. Before the inning was over, Clyde King came in to relieve Newcombe and the Giants loaded the bases. Monte Irvin singled home the two runs to tie the score. Box:

Fisher Wins Game With Homer In 6th

Fisher's batting and pitching proved the deciding factor as the Giants edged the Red Sox 8-7 yesterday in a Frostburg Little League baseball game.

The tosser hurled the first three innings, allowing only one tally then returned to the hill in the sixth frame to put out the fire as the Red Sox knotted the score. Fisher's homerun in the bottom of the sixth then decided the issue. He also collected to singles in four times at bat.

Blaik May Resign Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Earl (Red) Blaik, who lifted Army football to a plane unparalleled in its history, has called a press conference here tomorrow amid rumors he will resign as head football coach at West Point.

The strapping, straight-backed exponent of the two platoon system, silent up to now on resignation reports, said he would outline his position at 11 a. m. (EST).

Thinks have never looked darker for the 54-year-old native of Dayton, Ohio, who himself was one of West Point's greatest all-round athletes.

His once-potent squad, preportedly is shattered by the examcribbing scandal at the Military Academy where 90 cadets, including the bulk of the football team, face dismissal. His son, Bob, is the team's star quarterback but 'its not known whether he's involved.

Golf's "World" Championship To Begin Today

Ben Hogan Ends Ban On Contest

CHICAGO, Aug. 8—(AP)—Golf's richest show, the $56,000 "World" championship with concurrent men's amateur and women's open competition, opens tomorrow with U. S. Open champion Ben Hogan returning to the course he scorned for four years.

Hogan joined the field of 64 hand-picked pros shooting for a lush $12,500 first prize, he said, because promoter George S. May has made his Tam O'Shanter carnival a better golf meet than it used to be.

After winning the 1947 "World," then a 36-hole winner-take-all, $5,000 event, Hogan criticized Tam's former circus aspects, including required number-wearing by players, masked marvels and other gimmicks May figured would please the crowd. "Just say that this is a golf tournament now," said Hogan in explaining why he ended his four-year boycott of Tam.

Hogan is the only addition to the pro field which was screened to 63 after last weekend's All-American tourney which had a starting field of 118.

The All-American and its $2,250 first prize was won by Cary Middlecoff, the inactive dentist from Memphis, Tenn., whose 72-hole score was 274. That was seven strokes better than the 281 at which Henry Ransom and Chick Harbert tied for first in the 1950 "World" meet, Ransom took the $10,000 top swag by shooting a 69 against Harbert's 72 in a playoff.

Ten amateurs, headed by All-American champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, will shoot along with the pros, rounding out a men's field of 74.

The $6,000 women's open will have a stream-lined field of 20, composed mostly of pros.

Favored to grab the $2,100 top feminine money is All-America Champion Mildred (Babe) Zaharias, who has won pro laurels in the "World" since that meet was started for women at Tam O'Shanter in 1948.

Rain Hampers Tennis Action

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP) — Rain washed out all the third round singles action in the Newport Casino tennis tournament today but four doubles matches were squeezed in late in the afternoon when the weather cleared.

Former national team champions Gardnar Mulloy and Bill Talbert, who are top-seeded, got out of the first round with a 6-1, 6-2 win over Ben Bishop of St. Louis, and Johnny Hernandez of San Antonio, Tex.

The two Australian pairs were able to complete their second round assignments. Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor ousted Robert Kerdasha of North Bergen, N. J., and William Van Alen of Newport, 6-2, 6-0, and Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, slammed England's Tony Mottram and Syl Levy of South Africa, for a 9-7, 6-4 triumph.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Vicc Seixas of Philadelphia, who are second seeded, ran out their second-rounder with William J. Clothier, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Jack Tuero of New Orleans, for a 6-4, 7-5 victory.

Ousted Cadets May Play Elsewhere

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Army football players facing dismissal in the West Point exam-cribbing scandal will be eligible to play at other colleges a year after enrollment, if they so choose.

"They would be treated like anybody else," Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference said today. "They can apply for admittance to other colleges. If admitted, they can play after one year.

"This transfer rule is just about universal, I think."

Heads TV Program

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Edwin S. (Red) Reynolds of New York today was named director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's experimental television program.

He will act as a liason between the colleges, the sponsor of this year's live football telecasts and the sponsor's advertising agency.

Hambletonian Race Postponed 24 Hours By Heavy Rain

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gloomy, rain-soaked Goshen awaited clearing weather today as hazardous track conditions caused a 24-hour postponement of the 26th Hambletonian Stake and delayed a verdict on which horse will become boss of the three-year-old trotters.

The 21 horses are ready to line up in two tiers for the first heat of the $95,264 harness derby at 2 p. m. (EST), tomorrow. The regular Hambletonian Day racing program is scheduled to start at 10 a. m., EST.

There was no change in the minds of most veterans who forecast that the powerful Hayes Fair Acres Stables entry of Mighty Fine and Spennib would remain the betting favorite at about 7 to 2. The two DuQuoin, Ill. colts are from the same stable that won the 1950 race with Lusty Song.

This was the first postponement of the Hambletonian since 1946, when Chestertown won after a one-day delay.

Dodgers Take Twin Bill To Increase Lead

Topple Giants Twice By 7-2, 7-6 Scores

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(INS)—The pennant-bound Brooklyn Dodgers lengthened the wide open spaces in the National League to 11½ games tonight when a bases-loaded single by Billy Cox with two out in the tenth inning gave them a 7 to 6 win over the New York Giants.

The Dodgers also beat their second place Manhattan cousins, 7 to 2, in a day game to sweep a day-night doubleheader. The two wins gave the Brooks an 11-3 record against the Durochermen.

The Giants made a contest of the night game, when, trailing 6-3 against big Don Newcombe, they scored three runs in the ninth. Bobby Thomson opened the inning with his 22nd homer. Before the inning was over, Clyde King came in to relieve Newcombe and the Giants loaded the bases. Monte Irvin singled home the two runs to tie the score. Box:

Northern Star Cops Saratoga Springs Feature

Greentree Stable Takes 3 Straight

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—The famed silks of Greentree Stable, owned by John Hay Whitney and his sister Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, again hugged the spotlight here today when Northern Star easily won the Glens Falls Handicap, feature of the stakeless program. It was the third score in as many days for the establishment, Ruddy having clicked Monday and Hall Of Fame on Tuesday in the Wilson.

Northern Star, lone 3-year-old in the small field, was the leader all the way in the overnight event of $4,000 added, crossing the line 4½ lengths clear of Mrs. Esther duPont Weir's Royal Governor, which in turn nosed out Jan Burke's Magic Words. Fourth and last was J. M. Seider's Royal Castle, which was making his first start since last November at Jamaica.

Although overnight rains had turned the course sloppy and threatening weather prevailed throughout the afternoon, the attendance, for the third straight day, showed an increase over 1950. A crowd of 10,632 braved the unfavorable conditions, while the count was only 9,268 a year back. The bad track was responsible for the small fields in the majority of the races.

Greentree Stable Takes 3 Straight

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—The famed silks of Greentree Stable, owned by John Hay Whitney and his sister Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, again hugged the spotlight here today when Northern Star easily won the Glens Falls Handicap, feature of the stakeless program. It was the third score in as many days for the establishment, Ruddy having clicked Monday and Hall Of Fame on Tuesday in the Wilson.

Northern Star, lone 3-year-old in the small field, was the leader all the way in the overnight event of $4,000 added, crossing the line 4½ lengths clear of Mrs. Esther duPont Weir's Royal Governor, which in turn nosed out Jan Burke's Magic Words. Fourth and last was J. M. Seider's Royal Castle, which was making his first start since last November at Jamaica.

Although overnight rains had turned the course sloppy and threatening weather prevailed throughout the afternoon, the attendance, for the third straight day, showed an increase over 1950. A crowd of 10,632 braved the unfavorable conditions, while the count was only 9,268 a year back. The bad track was responsible for the small fields in the majority of the races.

Committee Asks Street Paving In Frostburg

Council Declares City Lacks Funds

FROSTBURG—A committee from Centennial Street headed by Clarence F. Rephann appeared before the Mayor and City Commissioners Monday night to request repairs and paving of streets connecting Centennial Street with Main Street.

The Mayor and Council said a shortage of money was the reason these and many other streets have not been paved.

Rephann declared the Mayor and Council had promised to pave the approaches to Centennial Street when the street was paved several years ago, and added that residents would not have consented to have the work done, had they known that their street would not be accessible from Main Street by the repaving of the several approaches.

BARTON—William H. Malcolm, well-known 85-year old local resident, died yesterday morning at his home here after an illness of about one week.

Although he was born in Hampshire County, W. Va., son of the late Kenneth H. and Margaret Burkett Malcolm, he had resided in Barton about 70 years.

A piano tuner by profession, he was much interested in musical activities. He formerly directed both the Barton and Moscow bands and the drum and bugle corps of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, Piedmont, W. Va.

Choir Director

Member of Barton Methodist Church, he served there as Sunday School superintendent and had been director of the church choir for 40 years. He also had directed other choirs in the Barton area. Mr. Malcolm also was a member of the Official Board of Barton Methodist Church.

A member of Barton Lodge No. 94, Odd Fellows, for 64 years, he was a past noble grand of the lodge. In 1937 he was presented a 50-year medal by the Odd Fellows. He also belonged to Allegany Lodge No. 157, A.F.&A.M., Barton, and had been lodge treasurer for 20 years until retiring this year.

During the administration of Governor Harry W. Nice, Mr. Malcolm was trial magistrate for Barton.

His wife, the former Miss Annie Thomas, died in 1947. He was the last member of his immediate family.

Four Sons Survive

Surviving are four sons, Harry Malcolm, LaVale, woodwind instructor in the music department of Allegany County public schools; Dr. Wilbur G. Malcolm, Grand View-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., vice president of American Cyanamid Corporation and general manager of Lederle Laboratories; John W. Malcolm, Barton, manager of the American Store in Frostburg; Kenneth R. McLuckie, Lonaconing, teacher at Barton School, and Mrs. Mary Hunter, Westminster, head of the public school music department of Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The body will be brought to his home here this afternoon. It will be taken to the Barton Methodist Church at 10 a. m. Saturday, where it will lie in state until the service at 2:30 p. m. Saturday by Rev. Wendell Allen, pastor. The Allegany Lodge of Masons will participate in the service. Burial will follow in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Moscow.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Do most marriages come up to expectations?

Answer: No, though in some ways the difference may be for the better. One great source of marital conflict is the refusal of each partner to play the "role" for which the other has cast him or her. A study by Dr. Robert S. Ort of Wabash College showed that husbands found this even more true than wives and rated themselves somewhat less happy than their spouses did. An effective source of disillusionment in marriage is the tendency, especially in fiction and the movies, to encourage young men and women to expect more of their wives and husbands than is within the capacity of human nature.

Can tests measure "maladjustment"?

Answer: The so-called "projective" tests like those made with ink blots can be quite effective because they lead a person to reveal unconscious feelings which conflict with those he is aware of having. But the type of "personality tests" which are based on answers to a list of questions about the subject's emotions, tastes and preferences, reveal only the facade which he has built up to conceal his real, unconscious feelings from himself and others. Such tests may make a person seem entirely content with a type of existence against which his deepest feelings are in desperate, if secret rebellion.

May mental defectives make good workers?

Answer: Yes. The so-called "high-grade" ones, whose intelligence is only slightly below normal, may do as well as the average person of the same socio-economic level, report Drs. J. Tizard and N. O'Connor of London in the American Journal of Mental Deficiency. The defective of this type may have less emotional stability than a normal person, but he is no less persistent and no more suggestible. There is also the advantage that he is apt to be less disturbed by the monotony of a routine job than a more intelligent person would be. And of course he will be happier earning his living than if he were idle and dependent.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8—(INS)—"Three Love Stories" is the woman-baiting title Sidney Franklin gives his next at MGM—another episodic package linking seperate short stories after the fashion of "Quartet" and "Trio."

The first yarn, "Equilibrium," by Laszio Vajda, stars pretty French actress, Leslie Caron, the lovely little Italian Pier Angeli, and Fernando Lamas from South America.

"What I'm after," says Producer Franklin, "is three of the strongest published or unpublished love stories I can find—all different—but all fitting into a general theme."

Franklin hasn't yet selected the second and third stories—but top Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer players will be the stars.

Anthony Quinn plays the Portuguese ship captain in "The World In His Arms" with Gregory Peck. After that, Tony, Katherine and the three children pull up stakes in Hollywood to settle permanently on their forty-acre farm in Connecticut.

Tony fell in love with the stage when he played "Streetcar Named Desire" in Chicago and New York. He'll return to Hollywood only when a particularly juicy role tempts him.

Tony is sold on the Peck picture at Universal-International for two good reasons: He gets Raoul Walsh to direct him, and it's one of Rex Beach's best adventure stories.

Peter Lind Hayes does a funny take-off on Mario Lanza in his act with Mary Healy at Bill Miller's Riviera. This may or may not please Signor Lanza depending on how his sense of humor is holding up—and I hear it isn't holding up so well.

Pete signs a number called, "Mario Takes A Holiday" with zestful gestures and round, firm notes from the diaphram and (with the aid of a sound amplifier) sounds just like the great Lanza.

Pete got material for his parody from "The Great Caruso" and from his memories of Mario when they were both in the Army show, "Winged Pigeons."

Blonde Virginia Field, looking like an angel in a pale pink cocktail dress, knocked them cold at Ocean-house the other night puffing away on a man-sized cigar!

Waving her stogie gaily—Virginia greeted several of her pals including Billie Dove and Bob Kenaston, the Ty Powers and Otto Preminger seated in other spots in the dining room.

Willard Parker, her best fella and her escort, was just as nonchalant about the cigar as was Virginia. The darn thing kept going out and he kept lighting it for her.

Sonny Tufts is being a good boy in Europe—so far no run-ins with the gendarmes. He's on the beach at Eden Roc every day wearing vivid yellow swim trunks that match his hair.

Sylvia Sidney, whose divorce from Carleton Alsop became final last week, is getting lots of flowers from Stanley Madeiros, a Los Angeles florist.

The mother of a beautiful teenage actress is blowing her top about the telephone calls her tender flower is getting from an actor who has been out of his teens for about thirty years.

Maitre de Marcel Lamaze whipping up extra special dishes for Cesar Romera and Betty Furness at the King's.

Jane Russell has a scene in "Son of Pale Face" in which she poses as a man. Are they kidding?

Joyn Meredyth Lucas, writer-son of famed scripter, Bess Meredyth, marries Joan Winfield at the Little Catholic Church in the Valley tomorrow morning. The bride's family friend, Father Murphy, will officiate.

Bob Merrill sails August 10 for USO shows in Germany and England.

Henry King has set Hugh Marlowe for a top role in "Wait Till The Sun Shines Nellie" at 20th. Hugh's hoping his and K. T. Steven's baby will arrive before he begins the long location stint.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Blonde Virginia Field, looking like an angel in a pale pink cocktail dress, knocked them cold at Ocean-house the other night puffing away on a man-sized cigar!

Waving her stogie gaily—Virginia greeted several of her pals including Billie Dove and Bob Kenaston, the Ty Powers and Otto Preminger seated in other spots in the dining room.

Willard Parker, her best fella and her escort, was just as nonchalant about the cigar as was Virginia. The darn thing kept going out and he kept lighting it for her.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W K L H Z U H S U S T P D H T L H S U I V B L O W T F P V U — L S T N O L I O T B O.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W K L H Z U H S U S T P D H T L H S U I V B L O
W T F P V U — L S T N O L I O T B O.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: LIKE MOONLIGHT ON THE TROUBLED SEA, BRIGHTENING THE STORM IT CANNOT CALM—MOORE.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our recent bereavement, the death of our husband, and father, James Barber. We also wish to thank those who donated the use of cars, sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and Rev. Wilbur E. Grose.

WIFE & CHILDREN

The family of Rev. Oliver P. Brann, Westernport, Md., acknowledges with grateful appreciation the kind expressions of sympathy extended by the host of friends, loved ones, ministers and churches. We are indeed thankful for the many floral tributes, the help rendered in the home and the cars donated. May God bless you all.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, Sgt. James D. Kenney, who was killed 8 years ago, August 9, 1943.
Do not ask if I miss him.
There's such a vacant place.
Oft I think I hear his footsteps,
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come o're me,
Tears in silence often flow.
Memory keeps him ever near me,
Though he left me 8 years ago.
Sadly missed by
HIS MOTHER

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our recent bereavement, the death of our husband, and father, James Barber. We also wish to thank those who donated the use of cars, sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and Rev. Wilbur E. Grose.

WIFE & CHILDREN

The family of Rev. Oliver P. Brann, Westernport, Md., acknowledges with grateful appreciation the kind expressions of sympathy extended by the host of friends, loved ones, ministers and churches. We are indeed thankful for the many floral tributes, the help rendered in the home and the cars donated. May God bless you all.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, Sgt. James D. Kenney, who was killed 8 years ago, August 9, 1943.
Do not ask if I miss him,
There's such a vacant place,
Oft I think I hear his footsteps,
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come o're me,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memory keeps him ever near me,
Though he left me 8 years ago.
Sadly missed by
HIS MOTHER

Market Slips Irregularly Lower; Radio Issues Gain

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) —The stock market went through a series of mild reactions and adjustments today while slipping irregularly lower.

The moderate losses were considered only normal at this time. The usual loss ran from a few cents to between $1 and $2 a share with a handful going well beyond. Gains generally were small.

Both radio-television issues and motors nudged ahead in a labored way after the government disclosed plans to extend its controlled materials plan Oct. 1 to all manufacturers using steel, copper and aluminum. This was considered good news for makers of automobiles, refrigerators, radio and television sets, and other "hard" appliances. It means the government will try to assure they get all the metal the government thinks they need.

Rails, steel, oils, rubbers, and chemicals made major declines, and these were losses in utilities, air lines, motion pictures, metals, and distillers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $97.00 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails off 40 cents, and utilities off 10 cents.

The market was not as broad as yesterday—1,092 individual issues traded as compared with 1,122. There were 335 issues advancing and and 497 declining with 30 new highs and 10 new lows for the year.

Volume declined to 1,410,000 shares. Yesterday's volume was 1,810,000 shares.

Market Slips Irregularly Lower; Radio Issues Gain

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) —The stock market went through a series of mild reactions and adjustments today while slipping irregularly lower.

The moderate losses were considered only normal at this time. The usual loss ran from a few cents to between $1 and $2 a share with a handful going well beyond. Gains generally were small.

Both radio-television issues and motors nudged ahead in a labored way after the government disclosed plans to extend its controlled materials plan Oct. 1 to all manufacturers using steel, copper and aluminum. This was considered good news for makers of automobiles, refrigerators, radio and television sets, and other "hard" appliances. It means the government will try to assure they get all the metal the government thinks they need.

Rails, steel, oils, rubbers, and chemicals made major declines, and these were losses in utilities, air lines, motion pictures, metals, and distillers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $97.00 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails off 40 cents, and utilities off 10 cents.

The market was not as broad as yesterday—1,092 individual issues traded as compared with 1,122. There were 335 issues advancing and and 497 declining with 30 new highs and 10 new lows for the year.

Volume declined to 1,410,000 shares. Yesterday's volume was 1,810,000 shares.

Textile Union Gets 10-Cent Wage Increase

Celanese Pact Offer Accepted

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, (CIO), last night voted "overwhelmingly" to accept a 10-cent hourly wage increase included in a new offer by the Celanese Corporation.

U. S. Conciliation Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, who has been aiding negotiations this week, said a new holiday eligibility clause is another major point in the new contract, which becomes effective today.

The company made its offer as talks broke up late yesterday. The union's negotiating committee sent the proposal to a special membership meeting of the union with its unanimous endorsement.

Under terms of the new pact, hourly-paid workers will get an immediate four-cent increase. The other six cents will be subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board. If approved, the raise will be retroactive to today.

Reopening Possible

Also included, however, is a provision that the union may reopen wage negotiations once before the contract expires August 9, 1952, but they may not start until the pact has been in force six months. If no agreement is reached in 30 days of negotiation, the union may give notice of cancellation of the contract.

The holiday clause provides that all employes are eligible for paid holidays after working 30 days at the Amcelle plant. Formerly, only workers with seniority (a year and a day) were eligible.

Under the same provision, employes whose vacation period includes a holiday on which they normally would work will receive pay for a holiday not worked, plus vacation pay.

Other Changes Noted

Furlough procedures covering temporary employes have been eliminated, and the temporary dateline in the engineering department has been moved up from January 1, 1945 to January 1, 1948.

This means that all employes hired after the new date will become eligible to share the work as permanent employes.

Union officials said other minor administrative details of the contract covering about 4,600 hourly paid employes have been changed.

Union members packed Textile Hall last night to hear the company's proposals and the crowd overflowed into North Mechanic Street. Playford Aldridge, union president, said response was "overwhelmingly" in favor of adopting the offer.

Meeting Slated Today

Another meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m. today for workers who were unable to attend last night's session. They are expected to agree with the rest of the membership.

Negotiations, which have been conducted in earnest for the past several weeks, finally came to a deadlock last week. The union asked the U. S. Conciliation Service for help in breaking the stalemate, and Conciliation Commissioner Clevenger of Winchester, Va., came here Monday to referee at the sessions.

Herbert W. Payne, New York, vice president and synthetic yarn director for the International Union, conducted union negotiations.

The Local 1874 negotiating committee, headed by Aldridge as president, John G. Thomas, business manager, and Charles F. Davis, acting vice president, included:

To Head CA Work At Edmonton Plant

The Celanese Corporation of America announced yesterday that Dorsey A. Ensor, Edgewood Drive, had been appointed superintendent of the Cellulose Acetate manufacturing section of the new plant being built in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Ensor has been employed at Amcelle since July, 1926. Originally engaged in the Main Laboratory as a chemist, he was transferred to the Cellulose Acetate section in September, 1929. He was made division superintendent of the section in November, 1942, and assistant superintendent March 1, 1950.

McHenry Says Smile Serves As Cheap Cosmetic

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—Maryland's 4-H Club girls were told today "the cheapest cosmetic you can wear is a smile."

"It doesn't cost anything to put on, and it works more wonders than any lipstick or rouge," said James McHenry, assistant county agent of Garrett County.

About 1,400 4-H Club boys and girls are attending the annual 4-H Club Week here at the University of Maryland. McHenry's advice was given at a daily assembly.

Every girl has a personality, the Western Marylander added, and she should keep it her own. "Don't try to dress it up like a commercial advertisement."

Area 4-H Girls Awarded Prizes At College Park

Three Allegany County girls and another from Garrett County were announced yesterday among winners of exhibit prizes in the home management section at the annual 4-H Club Week on the University of Maryland campus in College Park.

Elizabeth Long, 18, RFD 1, Cumberland, received a blue ribbon for personal accounts bookkeeping. Nancy Long, 15, also RFD 1, was awarded a purple ribbon for her secretary's record book. Eleanor Smith, 15, RFD 2, was given a red ribbon for table setting.

The Garrett County girl, Judy Buckel, 10, of Grantsville, won two prizes. She was given a red ribbon for laundry bags and a blue ribbon for table setting.

A feature at yesterday's session was a talk by Miss Iva Mae Gross, assistant state 4-H Club leader in New York, who recently returned from work in Europe. She said that she found German farms 50 to 75 years behind agricultural development in the United States.

The main thing America can do to combat the inroads of Communism in Germany is to stay there and put over the Marshall Plan, she said.

T. W. Thompson, a member of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, cautioned an assembly of 4-H Club leaders and extension workers they must be cautious in conducting contests among the youngsters.

4-H Boys To Be Heard On Radio Broadcast

Early risers tomorrow will be able to hear a transcription over radio station KDKA, Pittsburgh, in which three 4-H Club boys from Western Maryland will be featured.

The program will be heard at 6:45 a. m. Friday. The transcription was made last week at the Pleasant Valley Recreation Area near Bittinger in Garrett County.

Judge Upholds Board's Ruling On Jobless Pay

Compensation Lost By Delayed Appeal

A decision by the State Employment Security Board in refusing unemployment benefits to a former Celanese worker because she was late in appealing the claim examiner's decision was upheld yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson in an opinion filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The case involved Mrs. Mary A. Tyree, LaVale, who had worked as a twist tester at the Celanese plant for nearly 17 years. Her position was abolished while she was on sick leave because of an operation.

On her return she was put to work in down twisting, which was a considerably harder position, according to Judge Henderson's opinion. It was too much for her and because no positions requiring only light work were available she agreed, after discussions with the superintendent of personnel in textile ware, to resign.

Mrs. Tyree filed a claim for unemployment benefits but the claim examiner held she had "voluntarily quit." Judge Henderson's opinion stated. She was sent a notice of this decision on January 10, 1950, and the notice warned her that any appeal must be taken within seven days. She did not file an appeal for more than a month.

The Employment Security Board denied her unemployment benefits and she appealed to Circuit Court.

Although Judge Henderson contends in his opinion that there is nothing in the evidence to indicate Mrs. Tyree "voluntarily quit" he concluded that from a legal standpoint the board was correct in holding Mrs. Tyree's appeal from the claim examiner was taken too late under the plain wording of the law. Coupled with the opinion was Judge Henderson's order dismissing the appeal.

Brother, Sister Win In Parade

A brother and sister combination took honors last night as the prettiest entry in Centre Street Playground's "On Wheels Parade." Entries included everything from tandem bikes to baby buggies.

Among the winners were James and Gail Bowman, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bowman of 500 North Mechanic Street. James, 6, pulled a wagon carrying four-year-old Gail, who bore the title of "Miss North Mechanic Street of 1951."

The prize for the most unusual entry went to Byrl Gibson, 16, and James Boyd, 15, with their tandem bicycle. Gibson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson, 533 North Mechanic Street, and Boyd's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd of 612 North Mechanic Street.

Five-year-old Sally Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Myers, 514 North Mechanic Street, won honors for the most-decorated entry. Her vehicle was a tricycle decorated as a pumpkin shell.

Crime Probers Turn Attention To Maryland

Race News Service Talk Is Featured

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The head of a Maryland race news service admitted today his company looks upon Continental Press Service as a "daddy."

Leonard J. Matusky, president of the World-Wide News and Music Service, Inc., Baltimore, was questioned by Senate crime investigators concerning the relationship of regional race result distributors and Continental.

Starts Probe

The Senate crime committee, which today started a two-day probe into crime conditions in Maryland, has charged Continental controls many of its regional distributors and uses them as dummies. Continental is a nationwide distributor of racing news.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who presided, asked Matusky why he relied on Tom Kelly, Continental general manager, in efforts to get money to pay bills owed by World-Wide News.

Isn't it the truth," Kefauver asked, "that while you have different companies all of you look to Continental and Kelly as the daddy of the whole thing?"

"I don't know about the others, but I do," Matusky replied.

Lead-Off Witness

Matusky, the lead-off witness as the Maryland crime hearing opened, gave this testimony after being recalled to the stand during the afternoon.

The committee also heard that police had found marihuana—described as a possible dope supply for Baltimore and Maryland—growing in West Virginia near the Maryland state line.

Thomas S. Smith, Maryland State Police investigator, testified the weed was growing wild near the south bank of the Potomac River.

The property owners and local residents, he added, were unaware of the nature of the plant.

Smith said the marihuana was found after police were tipped that the growth was a source for marihuana cigarets in Baltimore and Washington.

He expressed the belief that the weed is also to be found in nearby Western Maryland.

Accuses Company

Earlier, Senator Hunt (D-Wyo) accused the telephone company in Baltimore of "aiding and abetting" World-Wide News in supplying race results for illegal off-track betting.

Hunt, a member of the committee, said that if the telephone company, which he identified as the Chesapake and Potomac, a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., did not make its facilities available to Matusky's company, "off-track betting would be cut down."

In Baltimore, however, W. G. Morrel, vice president and general manager of the company, said "this company wants no part of the bookie business. We cooperate in every way we can with law enforcement agencies to keep such business off" the lines.

Matusky agreed with Hunt that he could not operate his business without telephones, but he said the radio plays an important part in distributing racing results.

When asked by Hunt if the telephone company was not "aiding and abetting your activity," Matusky said that 50 times as many persons are getting race results by radio.

Matusky said radio stations have stepped up their reporting of race results "since this started" and now are faster than his company in getting out the news.

The contract licenses the television firm to use the Potomac Edison Company's utility poles, and at the same time, it indemnifies the TV company for any damages done to equipment belonging to the Potomac Edison Company, Geppert explained.

Geppert said the video company is required by the contract to carry liability insurance with an approved insurance company in the amount of $100,000 for any one person, or a limit of $300,000 for any one accident.

The TV firm is awaiting the contract from the C. and P. Telephone Company. Geppert said that it was promised for last week, but as yet has not been received.

Meyers To Get Habeas Corpus Hearing Friday

Faces Plot Charge After Red Roundup

George A. Meyers, 38-year-old boss of the Maryland Communist Party, now in jail on conspiracy charges, will be given a habeas corpus hearing tomorrow in Baltimore.

Meyers, a Lonaconing native and former local labor leader, was arrested Tuesday in Baltimore as an FBI dragnet covering three eastern cities was closed.

He and five others who the FBI said were active in Communist Party work were charged with conspiring to overthrow the government by violence.

Meyers and Roy Wood, the party's 36-year-old District of Columbia chairman, are scheduled to receive hearings next Wednesday before U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart, who has set their bail at $75,000 each.

Last night in Baltimore Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut agreed to habeas corpus hearings for Meyers and Wood at 10 a. m. tomorrow. He granted the hearings at the request of Harold Buchman, chairman of the Maryland Progressive Party and attorney for Meyers.

Later, U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn said "we are prepared to meet any move they or their counsel might make."

Yesterday, the dragnet snagged another alleged Communist in Baltimore. He is Maurice Louis Braverman, 35.

The FBI said Braverman had never acknowledged membership in the Communist Party, but that he was its official attorney for District 4 (Maryland) and had conspired with the others.

Meyers, Wood and Braverman will await their hearings in Baltimore City Jail.

Meanwhile, in New York, bond for Philip Frankfeld, former Maryland party chairman, was set at $100,000 Frankfeld, 44, was transferred early this year to a chairmanship in Cleveland. He was arrested in New York.

Others caught in the dragnet were Frankfeld's wife, Regina, 41, in Cleveland, and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, 47, in New York.

4,278 Persons Examined By X-Ray Unit

The chest X-ray unit operated by the Allegany County Health Department and the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association has taken 4,278 chest x-rays of persons in the county.

This is 26 per cent of the 16,000 goal which is aimed at by the association. Last year, 8,837 persons were given chest X-rays, and it is hoped that this figure can be doubled in the next four weeks, officials said.

Records show that in Barton 146 X-rays were given as compared to 407 last year. In Lonaconing, there were 446 given this year as compared to 840 last year.

Midland shows 244 as compared to last year's 289. For the two days the unit was in Frostburg, 646 X-rays were given as compared to 848 given last year, and in Eckhart, 93 were given as compared to 243 last year. In LaVale, 162 were given this year as compared to 195 last year.

The unit was at the fair grounds for four days and 410 X-rays were taken. In Flintstone, 58 chests were X-rayed.

The unit was also at Zihlman for the first time this year and 92 persons received X-rays. Mt. Savage showed a decline with 236 this year as compared to 203 last year.

During the three days the unit visited the vicinity of the A. and P. Supermarket, 954 X-rays were given, while on Virginia Avenue, 300 persons were X-rayed Monday.

The unit was at the B. and O. YMCA Tuesday and over 200 persons were X-rayed.

Figures show a decline in persons taking X-rays this year as compared to last year. Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the Tuberculosis Association blames the time of the year, the two weeks of races and the fact that some people do not realize that a chest X-ray is required each year to check the danger of tuberculosis.

Yesterday the chest X-ray unit was located at Oldtown Road in the vicinity of Perry's Market from 10 a. m. until noon and from 2 p. m. until 6 p. m. Today it will visit Maryland Avenue from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. and on Friday it will be located at the Queen City pavement from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Textile Union Gets 10-Cent Wage Increase

Celanese Pact Offer Accepted

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, (CIO), last night voted "overwhelmingly" to accept a 10-cent hourly wage increase included in a new offer by the Celanese Corporation.

U. S. Conciliation Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, who has been aiding negotiations this week, said a new holiday eligibility clause is another major point in the new contract, which becomes effective today.

The company made its offer as talks broke up late yesterday. The union's negotiating committee sent the proposal to a special membership meeting of the union with its unanimous endorsement.

Under terms of the new pact, hourly-paid workers will get an immediate four-cent increase. The other six cents will be subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board. If approved, the raise will be retroactive to today.

Reopening Possible

Also included, however, is a provision that the union may reopen wage negotiations once before the contract expires August 9, 1952, but they may not start until the pact has been in force six months. If no agreement is reached in 30 days of negotiation, the union may give notice of cancellation of the contract.

The holiday clause provides that all employes are eligible for paid holidays after working 30 days at the Amcelle plant. Formerly, only workers with seniority (a year and a day) were eligible.

Under the same provision, employes whose vacation period includes a holiday on which they normally would work will receive pay for a holiday not worked, plus vacation pay.

Other Changes Noted

Furlough procedures covering temporary employes have been eliminated, and the temporary dateline in the engineering department has been moved up from January 1, 1945 to January 1, 1948.

This means that all employes hired after the new date will become eligible to share the work as permanent employes.

Union officials said other minor administrative details of the contract covering about 4,600 hourly paid employes have been changed.

Union members packed Textile Hall last night to hear the company's proposals and the crowd overflowed into North Mechanic Street. Playford Aldridge, union president, said response was "overwhelmingly" in favor of adopting the offer.

Meeting Slated Today

Another meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m. today for workers who were unable to attend last night's session. They are expected to agree with the rest of the membership.

Negotiations, which have been conducted in earnest for the past several weeks, finally came to a deadlock last week. The union asked the U. S. Conciliation Service for help in breaking the stalemate, and Conciliation Commissioner Clevenger of Winchester, Va., came here Monday to referee at the sessions.

Herbert W. Payne, New York, vice president and synthetic yarn director for the International Union, conducted union negotiations.

The Local 1874 negotiating committee, headed by Aldridge as president, John G. Thomas, business manager, and Charles F. Davis, acting vice president, included:

McHenry Says Smile Serves As Cheap Cosmetic

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—Maryland's 4-H Club girls were told today "the cheapest cosmetic you can wear is a smile."

"It doesn't cost anything to put on, and it works more wonders than any lipstick or rouge," said James McHenry, assistant county agent of Garrett County.

About 1,400 4-H Club boys and girls are attending the annual 4-H Club Week here at the University of Maryland. McHenry's advice was given at a daily assembly.

Every girl has a personality, the Western Marylander added, and she should keep it her own. "Don't try to dress it up like a commercial advertisement."

Area 4-H Girls Awarded Prizes At College Park

Three Allegany County girls and another from Garrett County were announced yesterday among winners of exhibit prizes in the home management section at the annual 4-H Club Week on the University of Maryland campus in College Park.

The main thing America can do to combat the inroads of Communism in Germany is to stay there and put over the Marshall Plan, she said.

T. W. Thompson, a member of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, cautioned an assembly of 4-H Club leaders and extension workers they must be cautious in conducting contests among the youngsters.

Judge Upholds Board's Ruling On Jobless Pay

Compensation Lost By Delayed Appeal

A decision by the State Employment Security Board in refusing unemployment benefits to a former Celanese worker because she was late in appealing the claim examiner's decision was upheld yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson in an opinion filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The case involved Mrs. Mary A. Tyree, LaVale, who had worked as a twist tester at the Celanese plant for nearly 17 years. Her position was abolished while she was on sick leave because of an operation.

On her return she was put to work in down twisting, which was a considerably harder position, according to Judge Henderson's opinion. It was too much for her and because no positions requiring only light work were available she agreed, after discussions with the superintendent of personnel in textile ware, to resign.

Mrs. Tyree filed a claim for unemployment benefits but the claim examiner held she had "voluntarily quit." Judge Henderson's opinion stated. She was sent a notice of this decision on January 10, 1950, and the notice warned her that any appeal must be taken within seven days. She did not file an appeal for more than a month.

The Employment Security Board denied her unemployment benefits and she appealed to Circuit Court.

Although Judge Henderson contends in his opinion that there is nothing in the evidence to indicate Mrs. Tyree "voluntarily quit" he concluded that from a legal standpoint the board was correct in holding Mrs. Tyree's appeal from the claim examiner was taken too late under the plain wording of the law. Coupled with the opinion was Judge Henderson's order dismissing the appeal.

Starts Probe

The Senate crime committee, which today started a two-day probe into crime conditions in Maryland, has charged Continental controls many of its regional distributors and uses them as dummies. Continental is a nationwide distributor of racing news.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who presided, asked Matusky why he relied on Tom Kelly, Continental general manager, in efforts to get money to pay bills owed by World-Wide News.

Isn't it the truth," Kefauver asked, "that while you have different companies all of you look to Continental and Kelly as the daddy of the whole thing?"

"I don't know about the others, but I do," Matusky replied.

Lead-Off Witness

Matusky, the lead-off witness as the Maryland crime hearing opened, gave this testimony after being recalled to the stand during the afternoon.

The committee also heard that police had found marihuana—described as a possible dope supply for Baltimore and Maryland—growing in West Virginia near the Maryland state line.

Thomas S. Smith, Maryland State Police investigator, testified the weed was growing wild near the south bank of the Potomac River.

The property owners and local residents, he added, were unaware of the nature of the plant.

Smith said the marihuana was found after police were tipped that the growth was a source for marihuana cigarets in Baltimore and Washington.

He expressed the belief that the weed is also to be found in nearby Western Maryland.

Accuses Company

Earlier, Senator Hunt (D-Wyo) accused the telephone company in Baltimore of "aiding and abetting' World-Wide News in supplying race results for illegal off-track betting.

Hunt, a member of the committee, said that if the telephone company, which he identified as the Chesapake and Potomac, a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., did not make its facilities available to Matusky's company, "off-track betting would be cut down."

In Baltimore, however, W. G. Morrel, vice president and general manager of the company, said "this company wants no part of the bookie business. We cooperate in every way we can with law enforcement agencies to keep such business off" the lines.

Matusky agreed with Hunt that he could not operate his business without telephones, but he said the radio plays an important part in distributing racing results.

When asked by Hunt if the telephone company was not "aiding and abetting your activity," Matusky said that 50 times as many persons are getting race results by radio.

Matusky said radio stations have stepped up their reporting of race results "since this started" and now are faster than his company in getting out the news.

Shooting Victim Is "Very Critical"

The condition of George A. Schurg, 27, who was shot at his home in Hoffman early Monday morning, was reported as "very critical" late last night in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Police are holding his 22-year-old wife Shirley in connection with the shooting. A .22 caliber bullet passed through Schurg's right lung.

Video Company, Potomac Edison Agree On Pact

Liability Insurance Will Be Carried

A contract from the Potomac Edison Company has been received and approved by the Potomac Valley Television Company, Inc., of Romney, W. Va., according to William H. Geppert, attorney for the TV company.

The contract licenses the television firm to use the Potomac Edison Company's utility poles, and at the same time, it indemnifies the TV company for any damages done to equipment belonging to the Potomac Edison Company, Geppert explained.

Geppert said the video company is required by the contract to carry liability insurance with an approved insurance company in the amount of $100,000 for any one person, or a limit of $300,000 for any one accident.

The TV firm is awaiting the contract from the C. and P. Telephone Company. Geppert said that it was promised for last week, but as yet has not been received.

The video company said it is ready to begin stringing coaxial cables as soon as the other contract is approved.

Meyers To Get Habeas Corpus Hearing Friday

Faces Plot Charge After Red Roundup

George A. Meyers, 38-year-old boss of the Maryland Communist Party, now in jail on conspiracy charges, will be given a habeas corpus hearing tomorrow in Baltimore.

Meyers, a Lonaconing native and former local labor leader, was arrested Tuesday in Baltimore as an FBI dragnet covering three eastern cities was closed.

He and five others who the FBI said were active in Communist Party work were charged with conspiring to overthrow the government by violence.

Meyers and Roy Wood, the party's 36-year-old District of Columbia chairman, are scheduled to receive hearings next Wednesday before U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart, who has set their bail at $75,000 each.

Last night in Baltimore Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut agreed to habeas corpus hearings for Meyers and Wood at 10 a. m. tomorrow. He granted the hearings at the request of Harold Buchman, chairman of the Maryland Progressive Party and attorney for Meyers.

Later, U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn said "we are prepared to meet any move they or their counsel might make."

Yesterday, the dragnet snagged another alleged Communist in Baltimore. He is Maurice Louis Braverman, 35.

The FBI said Braverman had never acknowledged membership in the Communist Party, but that he was its official attorney for District 4 (Maryland) and had conspired with the others.

Meyers, Wood and Braverman will await their hearings in Baltimore City Jail.

Meanwhile, in New York, bond for Philip Frankfeld, former Maryland party chairman, was set at $100,000 Frankfeld, 44, was transferred early this year to a chairmanship in Cleveland. He was arrested in New York.

Others caught in the dragnet were Frankfeld's wife, Regina, 41, in Cleveland, and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, 47, in New York.

4,278 Persons Examined By X-Ray Unit

The chest X-ray unit operated by the Allegany County Health Department and the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association has taken 4,278 chest x-rays of persons in the county.

This is 26 per cent of the 16,000 goal which is aimed at by the association. Last year, 8,837 persons were given chest X-rays, and it is hoped that this figure can be doubled in the next four weeks, officials said.

Records show that in Barton 146 X-rays were given as compared to 407 last year. In Lonaconing, there were 446 given this year as compared to 840 last year.

Midland shows 244 as compared to last year's 289. For the two days the unit was in Frostburg, 646 X-rays were given as compared to 848 given last year, and in Eckhart, 93 were given as compared to 243 last year. In LaVale, 162 were given this year as compared to 195 last year.

The unit was at the fair grounds for four days and 410 X-rays were taken. In Flintstone, 58 chests were X-rayed.

The unit was also at Zihlman for the first time this year and 92 persons received X-rays. Mt. Savage showed a decline with 236 this year as compared to 203 last year.

During the three days the unit visited the vicinity of the A. and P. Supermarket, 954 X-rays were given, while on Virginia Avenue, 300 persons were X-rayed Monday.

The unit was at the B. and O. YMCA Tuesday and over 200 persons were X-rayed.

Figures show a decline in persons taking X-rays this year as compared to last year. Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the Tuberculosis Association blames the time of the year, the two weeks of races and the fact that some people do not realize that a chest X-ray is required each year to check the danger of tuberculosis.

Yesterday the chest X-ray unit was located at Oldtown Road in the vicinity of Perry's Market from 10 a. m. until noon and from 2 p. m. until 6 p. m. Today it will visit Maryland Avenue from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. and on Friday it will be located at the Queen City pavement from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

REDS ACCUSE U. N. OF "STALLING"

House Warned Of War Danger By Rep. Mahon

U. S. Europe Supply Bases Pulled Back

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — The House heard members assert today that there is "only a minimum hope" of averting world war and that the threat is so close that American military supply bases in Europe are being pulled back from natural Russian invasion routes.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex), chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee which has charge of military budgets, sounded the "minimum hope" warning at the opening of debate on a $56,062,405,800 armed services supply bill.

Rep. Sikes (D-Fla) followed up with the report on supply placement.

There was no indication, however, that their words had created any major sensation among lawmakers accustomed to grave warnings when military money bills are up for action.

At one time, Sikes said, supplies were concentrated at points "along the natural invasion route which the Russians almost certainly would follow in case of an attack."

"Invitation To Invasion"

He called that "an open invitation to invasion, with free and needed supplies."

The materials now are being assembled "in much safer areas" away from the Russian zone, Sikes said.

At the Pentagon, available military officials said they had not heard of any large scale transfer of supplies in the German occupation zone, to which Sikes apparently referred.

They pointed out, however, that it would be a responsibility of the theater commander and headquarters might not get a report immediately.

Mahon warned against complacency and said that while the United States is increasing strength day by day "the same is probably true of Russia."

Clearer Picture Due Soon

He told his colleagues that "in my judgment, there is only a minimum hope that our difficulties with Russia can and will be resolved short of war. Trends from cold to hot war, from little wars to big wars, do not have a tendency to reverse themselves short of an all-out explosion.

"We are not so blind that we fail to realize that an all-out shooting war might last for a decade and might very well destroy much of civilization as we know it on this planet."

However, he said war "is not inevitable." He said the world picture should be somewhat clearer this fall, which will be "the time of decision."

"Unless there is a decided change for the better," Mahon continued, "more money will be needed later this year to build up the Air Force and strengthen the Navy's air arm — and to increase this country's military forces beyond the presently planned 3,500,000 men."

Truman Favors Aid For Chiang

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman wants to invest $307,000,000 in Chiang Kai-Shek and his Nationalist Chinese on Formosa, it was learned from Senate sources today.

The Senate's Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees have been asked to approve $217,000,000 in military aid for the Nationalists and $90,000,000 in economic assistance during fiscal 1952, which started July 1.

The administration has included the amounts in its $8,500,000,000 military and economic aid program now being considered by the committees. Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), who favors the idea, said the money would be used to strengthen strategic Formosa's defenses rather than to prepare the Nationalists for an aggressive war against the Communists who have taken over China proper.

Smith said Mr. Truman's decision to help the Nationalists represents "quite a change in the administration's thinking from the time, 18 months ago, when the President announced there would be no more military aid for Chiang Kai-Shek's forces."

At that time the administration had disassociated itself from Chiang. The Korean war changed the picture, bringing renewed demands from Republicans and others that Chiang be aided.

Last Rites For Air Crash Victims

Brief memorial services were held Monday on Mt. Moran, one of the lofty Tetons near Yellowstone Park, for the 21 persons who perished when a chartered plane smashed into the peak last November. The rites were conducted by Dr. J. Ruskin Garber (left), director of the New Tribes Mission of Chico, Calif., which had chartered the plane. The mission decided to leave the bodies at the crash scene.

Temporary Rail Freight Rate Hike Approved By ICC

9 Per Cent Increase In East Is Granted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The railroads today got authority to increase freight rates again, by about $548,000,000 a year—but only for a limited period.

Rejecting an industry plea for a permanent, general 15 per cent increase in charges, the Interstate Commerce Commission instead granted a nine per cent hike within the East and six per cent within the South and West.

It stipulated that on all freight moving between these three territories, the increase may not exceed the six per cent applied to the major portion of the country.

15 Days' Notice Required

The changes may be made on 15 days' notice to the public and may also be adopted by water carriers subject to ICC jurisdiction.

The authority for the higher rates will expire Feb. 28, 1953, and ICC reserved the right to re-examine its action any time between now and then.

The six to nine per cent increases will replace the temporary increases of four per cent in the East and two per cent elsewhere which ICC authorized last March when the railroads said emergency action was required to meet mounting wage and materials costs.

OPS Advice Ignored

The ICC acted then, and again today, over the advice of the Office of Price Stabilization that new rail rate hikes would necessarily be reflected in general pricing and make more difficult the government's task of "holding the line."

One OPS official commented after after the latest action that "somebody will have to pay for these higher transportation costs — in most cases it undoubtedly will be the consumer."

On the other hand, the commission said it had carefully considered the effect on the cost of living, but had concluded that the railroads must have enough revenues to maintain " a transportation system adequate to meet the needs of national defense."

Polio Strikes Six Of Eight Children Of Calif. Family

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (AP) — Six children of one family are in the Los Angeles County General Hospital today with polio.

The first was stricken with the disease a week ago and the sixth was admitted to the hospital yesterday.

They are six of the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Demars of Van Nuys. Demars is a brick mason tender.

The family's plight was disclosed today by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which has offered to provide the full cost of treatment.

Pleven Becomes French Premier

PARIS, Aug. 8 (AP)—The French National Assembly today confirmed Rene Pleven as premier, a job he held for seven months last year.

The vote was 391 to 102.

Pleven's investiture opens the way for an end to the political crisis which has gripped France since Premier Henri Queuille resigned July 10. Queuille's resignation was an automatic consequence of the national parliamentary elections June 17.

Only the Communists voted against Pleven. Members of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) abstained. His support came from the wide range of middle-of-the-road parties that have controlled the French government for the past four years. One of these is his own small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance (UDSR).

Pleven succeeded today where two previous candidates lost out. Rene Mayer, outgoing minister of justice, and Maurice Petsche, outgoing minister of finance, failed to get the required absolute majority of 314 votes when they asked for investiture.

Army Grid Coach Admits Athletes Were Recruited

Defends Practice As "Perfectly Proper"

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Army Football Coach Earl Blaik conceded today that West Point recruited five to 11 high school football players a year and defended the practice as "perfectly proper."

He defined the recruiting as inviting the athletes to the academy for a "cram course" to help them pass entrance examinations— with their expenses during the course paid by "interested civilian alumni."

"If we did not do that, we would be unable to have any athletes in West Point able to play a normal schedule," Blaik said.

Seven Of 24 Passed Exams

Fifteen of the 45 players on last year's football squad entered the academy with this help, he said.

Blaik issued his statement in the midst of a nationwide controversy over the threatened dismissal of 90 cadets, including a number of football stars, for cheating in classroom examinations.

The coach said 24 athletic prospects invited to the academy this year studied for several weeks from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. but only seven succeeded in passing the stiff exams and only five finally entered the academy.

"The whole procedure was perfectly proper and correct and not contrary to the rules of the associations to which we belong," Blaik said.

No "Pressure" Used

He gave his statement after the Chicago Tribune quoted Duncan MacDonald, a Flint, Mich., high school football star, as saying he and other potential Army players had a six-week expense-paid vacation at the academy this summer.

MacDonald later said the story was a "misrepresentation of facts."

Blaik said no high school players were "high-pressured" to enter the academy and declared some were invited to the cram course after asking for the opportunity.

The coach said all 24 boys invited to the cram course already had or were assured of the required congressional appointments to the academy—subject to their ability to cope with the entrance examinations.

Tax Collections Last Year Average $360 Per Person

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Tax payments to federal, state and local governments came to an average of $360 last year for every man, woman and child in the country, the Census Bureau reported today.

This $30-a-month average showed the per-person tax burden as more than doubled in a period of eight years. The annual average was $171 as late as 1942, the bureau said.

Of the $360 per-person collections of 1950, the federal government got $248, or about 70 per cent of the total. The states got $59, local government $53.

Overall collections of the federal, state and local governments set a record high of $54,626,000 in 1950, the bureau said, nosing above 1948's previous record of $54,495,000,000.

But not even that all-governments total will hold a candle to collections of the federal government alone in the present fiscal year, which began July 1. Estimates for federal receipts in this period range up to $61,000,000,000.

The Census Bureau said the two per cent gain in tax collections in 1950 as compared with 1949 resulted from a seven per cent gain in state taxes (from $8,349,000,000 to $8,940,000,000) and an eight per cent gain in local taxes (from $7,417,000,000 to $8,002,000,000).

Federal collections in that period, it observed, "decreased slightly from $37,810,000,000 to $37,684,000,000."

Acheson Sees Anti-Jap Pact Drive By Reds

Russia May Attempt To Disrupt Meeting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Secretary of tate Acheson said today he is sure Russia will wage a propaganda campaign during the next four weeks to disrupt the Japanese peace conference of San Francisco.

The conference is scheduled to meet September 4 to sign a treaty sponsored by the United States and Britain. Some countries such as India and the Philippines have objected to various provisions and one speculation here is that Russia may try to play on their objections to make trouble at the conference.

The Kremlin has been invited to attend along with other nations which were at war with Japan, but Acheson told his news conference that he did not know whether the Russians would do so.

Expresses "Satisfaction"

Acheson expresses "satisfaction" over publication inside Russia this week of a congressional resolution expressing friendship for the Soviet people and a letter from President Truman on the same theme. The Soviets also published answers from Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik and the Presidium of the Soviet Union.

Commenting on Shvernik's letter, which talked about preserving peace, prohibiting an arms race, and banning atomic weapons, Acheson challenged the Soviets to back up their words with deeds in the United Nations.

He said Shvernik had ignored the United Nations in his letter and declared: "If the Soviet Union now wants to reach concrete realistic agreements, all of these objectives can be realized within the United Nations."

Penetration Of Iron Curtain

Acheson described the publication of the President's letter and the congressional resolution as the penetration of the iron curtain by "a ray of truth." But he declared that the curtain "remains a basic obstacle" to the attainment of world peace and said that it must someday cease to exist.

In response to questions Acheson also said:

1. The present situation between Pakistan and India is one of tension and danger and the United States has expressed to both countries its concern over their differences.

2. The State Department is continuing to seek the release from a Czechoslovak prison of Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis who is serving a 10-year sentence on charges of "espionage."

3. Acheson is optimistic about the chances for an Anglo-Iranian agreement to end the present Iranian oil crisis, though great problems remain to be solved.

Truman Warns Of Red Dangers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — President Truman said today "we must maintain large armed forces for along time to come if we are to protect our freedom and prevent World War Three."

Communism, he said, presents "terrible dangers."

He spoke at the dedication of the presidential lounge at Washington's Union Station. Service men and women use the lounge, under auspices of the United Service Organization's Travelers' Aid.

"We have to give up profits and wage increases—do without things we would like to have," Mr. Truman said. "But the greatest sacrifices are made by our young men and women who have the job of manning defenses in the cause of world peace."

The USO program, he said, is one in which "all of us ought to share." The USO, among other things, maintains lounges, clubs, and information centers for service personnel.

Australia, New Zealand And U. S. To Sign Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States, Australia and New Zealand will formally sign a mutual security treaty in San Francisco Sept. 1.

Secretary of State Acheson will head a 10-man American delegation to the signing ceremonies.

The treaty pledges each nation to consider an armed attack against either of the others as "dangerous to its own peace and safety."

In announcing the final signing plans, the State Department said "in due course" the treaty will be followed by other steps looking toward "the development of a more comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

Italian Premier Wins Vote Of Confidence

ROME, Aug. 8 (AP)—Premier Alcide De Gasperi's new government won a half-hearted vote of confidence from the Senate today, 151 to 101. It faces a vote tomorrow in the Chamber of Deputies.

Despite mounting opposition within the ranks of De Gasperi's own Christian Democrat Party, chamber approval appears insured.

The tests follow a week of sharp debate in both chambers. Even De Gasperi's followers have criticized the government for a do-nothing attitude toward high prices, agrarian reform and the nation's unemployed, who total more than 2,000,000.

Oust-McCarthy Move Goes To Senate Group Which Hit Maryland Election Tactics

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Senate committee which denounced some of the tactics in the 1950 Maryland senatorial contest as "despicable" was assigned today to pass on a move to oust Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) from the Senate for his part in the campaign.

It got the job shortly after Sen. Wherry (Neb), the Senate Republican leader, had charged—and the Democratic National Committee had denied—that the move against McCarthy was an attempt by the Democratic organization to take the heat off its own chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr.

Only yesterday an Expenditures Investigating subcommittee had agreed to look into charges that Boyle attempted to influence government loans or contracts. Boyle has denied the accusation.

Election Report Goes To Senate

The Senate Rules Committee, by a vote of 9 to 3, today approved, for transmission to the Senate itself, a report from a Privileges and Elections subcommittee which said a "despicable, 'back street' type of campaign" was put on for Republican John Marshall Butler in Maryland. The report noted that McCarthy was active in Butler's behalf in the campaign which cost the veteran Democrat Millard Tydings his Senate seat.

At the same time the full Privileges and Elections Committee, headed by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz), turned over to the subcommittee the resolution by Sen. Benton (D-Conn) calling for expulsion of McCarthy.

The full committee approved the subcommittee report and also endorsed its vote to refer the document to the Justice Department.

Benton Seeks Quick Hearings

Benton is pressing for quick public hearings but Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa), chairman of the subcommittee, told reporters it will be "considerable time" before his group can do anything about it.

Two Republicans on the Rules Committee—Sens. Hendrickson (N-J) and Margaret Chase Smith (ME)—voted with the Democrats to pass the Maryland election report along to the Senate. The Democrats with whom they aligned themselves were Hayden, Gillette, Benton, Green (RI), Clements (Ky), Monroney (Okla) and Hennings (Mo).

The three republicans in opposition were McCarthy, Wherry and Jenner (Ind).

McCarthy was given "not more than ten days" to file a minority report from the Rules group. He expressed hope that Wherry and Jenner would join him in it.

RECOVERING—Sen. Charles W. Tobey (above), 71, New Hampshire Republican, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage July 15 but his family reported yesterday he is recovering "slowly but surely."

17 Accused Red Leaders To Get New Attorneys

Government Agrees; More Arrests Seen

[By The Associated Press]

The government yesterday paid heed to the plea of 17 accused Communist leaders and agreed to appointment of new attorneys for their defense.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, one of the defendants and acting spokesman for her fellow accused, asked dismissal of eight lawyers appointed by the court for their defense. She said they would "feed the prejudice already generated against us."

Apparently her references was to the fact that some of the lawyers previously had been identified with Communist cases.

Hoover Sees More Arrests

This was the principal development of the day in the government's anti-subversive drive which FBI Chief J .Edgar Hoover says is to net more American reds.

In Baltimore FBI agents early yesterday grabbed Maurice L. Braverman, 35, alleged official attorney for the Communists' Baltimore headquarters, as he arrived by plane from New York.

Braverman brought to 51 the number of American Communists charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. Government. He was ordered held in $75,000 bail.

Judge Sylvester A. Ryan agreed in Federal Court in New York to appointment of new attorneys for the 17 accused second-string Communists. He relieved the lawyers originally assigned to the case.

New Panel Submitted

Ryan submitted a new panel of 10 possible defense attorneys, including George Wolf, counsel for Gambler Frank Costello, and O. John Rogge, former assistant U. S. attorney general.

The judge said he got the names of the 10 from four bar associations and that each of them was regarded an experienced lawyer in the courts.

Wolf, in a statement issued shortly after the court's action, said he would "consider it an honor" to take the case.

It was not disclosed immediately whether the Communists would regard any of the proposed 10 as acceptable.

McCarthy Asserts He'll Reveal Names Of 29 "Suspects"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he intends to give the Senate the names of 29 past or present employes of the State Department whose loyalty has been questioned.

He told a news conference he will disclose the names in a speech on the Senate floor tomorrow.

"Some very high officials" are on the list, McCarthy said. He reported most of the employes are under investigation on charges ranging from association with Communists to Communist affiliation.

The Wisconsin Republican said he thinks all employes whose loyalty is in doubt should be suspended, on the reasoning that "if an employe is charged with embezzling from a bank, you don't let him still have access to the till."

Cathedral, Theater Burn At San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Metropolitan Cathedral and the National Theater were destroyed today by a fire that flashed out of the theater's film storages and swept across the main square of this Central American capital.

First reports said 40 persons were injured in the theater.

The fire started in late afternoon, presumably when a short-circuited wire threw sparks on a movie film.

Russians Warned Not To Be Deceived By U. S. Messages

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (AP) — Izvestia led off the Soviet press today in telling the Russian people not to be deceived by the friendship messages of the United States Congress and President Truman.

It seemed clear that the Soviet government has made its proposed five-power peace pact the cornerstone for bettering relations with the United States, and that American rejection of the proposal is going to be interpreted here as rejection of real friendship for the Soviet Union.

All Moscow papers gave a big play to the exchange of messages between the American President and Soviet President Nikolai Shvernik, and the U. S. Congress' resolution declaring Americans want friendly relations with the Russians.

Izvestia, the government newspaper; Pravda, the Communist paper; Red Star and Red Fleet, the organs of the Soviet army and navy, and even the Teachers Gazette carried the full message of peace from Washington.

Coming on top of British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison's statement published in four top Soviet papers last week that the Russian people are being misinformed that the British people are warmongers, it was obvious the Washington communications would arouse much interest here.

Enemy's Top Leaders Play Waiting Game

Ridgway's Demand Still Unanswered

TOKYO, Thursday, Aug. 9 (AP)—The Communist top command played a waiting game on the interrupted Korean cease-fire talks today while accusing the United Nations of "stalling" tactics.

There still was no official response to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Tuesday night demand for new Red assurances that the neutrality of Kaesong would be scrupulously observed.

The Peiping radio, however, quoted a "special correspondent" as saying Ridgway's failure to send his delegates to Kaesong on such a "pretext" caused "the people of the world to doubt the basic sincerity of the American side." It was the first Communist reaction to Ridgway's Tuesday message.

Allied Team Awaits Signal

The broadcast complained that "the Korean armistice negotiations were suspended for another day as a result of the delegates of the American side failing, without any justification, to come to Kaesong."

The Allied negotiating team waited in Korea for a signal to proceed with the talks but there was little likelihood of this today.

Communist propaganda organs, particularly the Peiping and Pyongyang radios, harped on the Allied supreme commander's "unreasonable" attitude. They said Ridgway was making a "mountain out of a molehill" over the appearance of combat-armed Red troops at Kaesong five days ago.

It was the Red atempt to minimize the importance of the neutrality violation that led Ridgway to reject an official Communist explanation of the incident last Monday.

The Chinese Red radio at Peiping reiterated that Ridgway was attempting to "torpedo" the Kaesong talks by seizing on "trifling" reasons to suspend the negotiations.

Truce Line Deadlocks Talks

The last nine sessions of the suspended talks had been deadlocked over a basic issue—where to draw a line for a buffer zone between opposing Red and U. N. forces.

The Allies sought a line along the present fighting front while the Reds insisted it be drawn along the 38th parallel. Neither side appeared willing to compromise on the point, when 140 Red troops suddenly appeared within 100 yards of the truce meeting last Saturday. The Allied negotiators then were withdrawn.

However, Ridgway sent four cease-fire delegates back to Korea Wednesday after secret conferences in Tokyo. They were to resume the talks on one condition. That was "complete compliance" by the Communists "with your guarantee of neutralization of the Kaesong area."

Ridgway asked North Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, the top Communists, to acknowledge his condition.

Truman Appeals For Extra Flood Control Funds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today for more money to control floods, particularly in the midwest. He described as "false economy" a House cut in his previous request.

No sooner had his words reached the Capitol than several House Republicans said in a statement they "noted with amazement and regret" that the President "has tried to make a political issue of flood control." Mr. Truman said on Monday that midwestern flood control depended upon the election of more "forward-looking, liberal-minded members of Congress."

In a letter to Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the President requested that $60,355,100 be restored to his initial request for $328,365,000, and that an additional $21,800,000 be allotted.

The extra $21,800,000 would provide work on the Tuttle Creek and Toronto Dams in Kansas, the Oologah Dam in Oklahoma, local flood protection work at Hutchinson and Wichita, Kan., bank stabilization work on the Arkansas River, and for levee work on the Mississippi River between Wood River, Ill., and East Cape Girardeau, Ill.

FIRST AID ON THE WING—W. D. Boudreau, 45, lies in the wreckage of a light plane at Kankakee, Ill., which crashed atop an automobile yesterday. Boudreau, writhing in pain, is being given first aid on the wing of the overturned light plane by passersby, including Deputy Sheriff Edmund LaPorte (straw hat). Boudreau's injuries were described as serious. The mishap occurred as the plane, settling down for "Flying Farmers' Day" at the county fair, struck a cable, flipped over and crashed into the car.

State Trooper Talbert Dies In Plane Crash

WESTMINSTER, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—Trooper Theodore J. Talbert, on leave from the state police to try his hand at flying, was killed tonight when his plant-spraying plane crashed on the Myers farm near here.

Talbert about 30, was spraying a cornfield. It was not known what made the plane crash.

He obtained leave of absence from the state police for a tryout with the Tyler Flying Service He was due to report back in five days.

He had been stationed at Hampstead, working out of the Randallstown barracks.

Progress Reported

TEHRAN, Aug. 8 (INS)—British and Iranian delegates reported "some progress" tonight in trying to settle the oil nationalization dispute although strained relations still were apparent.

Cruise Resumed By "Lethargia"

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP)—The rafe "Lethargia," which dumped its four occupants into the Ohio River in a near-disastrous mishap 13 days ago, resumed its meandering journey to New Orleans today.

Two bachelors and two unmarried girls taking part in an experiment in cramped living shoved off from Moundsville at 3:12 p. m. (EDT) after almost entirely rebuilding their 12-by-20-foot craft.

Skipper Mary Ellin McGrady, 24-year-old sociology student from the University of Michigan, has explained she would keep detailed notes on adjustments made by the four while living aboard the raft.

The 2,000-mile voyage down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers from New Kensington, Pa., to New Orleans was halted abruptly when the raft overturned while under tow by a river boat. The only casualty was a dog mascot.

Others on the raft, which had a new eight-foot-square canvas cabin in shipshape order, were Geraldine Garcia, 23, a Boston artist; Milton Borden, 30, New Bedford, Mass., and Don Brown, another Michigan student.

The 23-year-old negro woman will be furnished with artificial legs and counseled in rehabilitation and vocational training. Both her legs were amputated below the knee and the fingers of her right hand and several fingers on her left hand were removed.

Mrs. Stevens was found lying frozen stiff in a south side areaway Feb. 8. The outside temperature was 11 below zero. Her body temperature was recorded at 64 degrees, about 34 degrees below normal.

Will Seek Presidency

ANNISTON, Ala., Aug. 8 (AP)—Former U. S. Rep. Lafayette L. Patterson today said he would seek the Democratic nomination for President.

The 63-year-old former congressman, who served in the House from 1928 to 1932, said he is resigning from the faculty of Jacksonville State College to make the race. He said he planned to tour the nation seeking support of delegates to the national Democratic convention.

Three Sought In Noble Death

DALLAS, Aug. 8 (AP)—Three Fort Worth police characters were sought today in the land-mine slaying of Gambler Herbert (The Cat) Noble.

As the search went on, Benny Binion, a gambler Noble once claimed "never liked me too much," told the Associated Press at Las Vegas, Nev.:

"I haven't any feeling one way or the other about Noble's death. I knew him just as another guy.

"I never had any cross words or business dealings with him. I never was associated either in a friendly way or any other way with Noble."

Records of an April Texas House Crime Investigation Committee hearing show Noble testified he believed Binion behind the 11th attempt on his life.

Adonis And Erickson Plead Not Guilty

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Convicted big time Gamblers Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson, brought from behind prison bars, pleaded innocent today to charges of contempt of the U. S. Senate.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock received their pleas and gave them until Sept. 10 to file pre-trial motions. Date for trial will be set at that time.

Both men are accused of refusing to answer key questions when they were witnesses before the Senate Crime Committee hearing here last March.

Kilgore Assails Academy System

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Describing both West Point and Annapolis academies as educationally "third rate," Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) called today for their abolition as undergraduate schools.

Kilgore said the threatened dismissal of 90 West Point cadets for cribbing in violation of the honor code "is certainly no surprise to me."

"I have been expecting a blow-up in the academies for several years," he told a reporter. "They simply do not have competent educational systems."

"That's why the boys have to crib," he added. "We should not blame them for what has happened."

"Compared with most colleges and universities of the nation on an education level, they are third rate schools," he said.

Kilgore, senator since 1933 and a veteran National Guardsman in his home state of West Virginia, said Congress should overhaul the entire training system for Army, Navy and air officers.

Others in Congress have proposed changes in the academy systems since the cribbing scandal came out but none has gone as far as Kilgore in general criticism.

Case Against Sen. McCarthy Documented By Sen. Benton

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It is a grave matter for a senator to introduce a resolution aimed at unseating a fellow senator. However, Sen. Benton of Connecticut carefully documented the case against Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin before calling for his ouster. Here are the facts that led Benton to demand a Senate investigation of McCarthy "with a view toward his expulsion."

1. Sen. McCarthy has tried to intimidate his press critics — the greatest challenge to freedom of the press since the Civil War. For example, McCarthy has charged that the Washington Post is a "Communist camp follower." He has called the Milwaukee Journal the "Milwaukee Edition" and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch the "St. Louis Edition" of the Communist Daily Worker. He has repeatedly lambasted the Madison Capital-Times as pro-Communist. He has called this columnist the "voice of international Communism." On one occasion, he even accused the conservative Saturday Evening Post of following the Daily Worker line.

Significantly, McCarthy's charges have been hurled from the safety and sanctity of the Senate floor, though his critics have not been protected by senatorial immunity but have been subject to the libel laws.

2. Sen. McCarthy has hampered the FBI's legitimate investigation into Communism. For example, the FBI sent two agents to question McCarthy about some forged papers he used to support his charges. McCarthy not only refused to cooperate with the G-men, but ordered his staff not to talk to them.

3. Sen. McCarthy has succeeded where the Communists have failed—in undermining the U. S. government. Two chief targets of Communist propaganda have been Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Marshall. Yet McCarthy's attacks on Acheson and Marshall have been more vitriolic and far more damaging than the worst the Communists could manufacture.

4. Sen. McCarthy has disregarded American principles of justice and fair play in attacking his victims. Sen. Benton has nearly 100 pages of examples of how McCarthy has deliberately lied in his pursuit of headlines instead of facts. For example, McCarthy charged that Owen Lattimore was the "chief architect of our Far Eastern policy." This was denied by all the living secretaries of state since 1933, who pointed out that Lattimore had never even worked for the State Department.

5. Sen. McCarthy's ethics, alone, are enough to disqualify him from a seat in the Senate. For example, McCarthy once boasted to Sen. Clinton Anderson, New Mexico Democrat, that he didn't pay income taxes on all his lecture fees.

"You never heard of a United States senator going to jail for income-tax violation," McCarthy shrugged.

Expulsion Of A Senator

Few persons expect the Senate Rules Committee to act favorably on the resolution of Senator Benton (D., Conn.) for an investigation to determine whether Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) should be expelled from the Senate. Even fewer persons expect McCarthy to follow Benton's suggestion that he refrain from participation in the business of the Senate until the Rules Committee has acted; none expects him to take Benton's alternative suggestion that he now resign.

Benton's resolution was based upon a paragraph in the unanimous report August 3 of the Monroney (D., Okla.) subcommittee on the 1950 senatorial campaign in Maryland. The report said McCarthy had been a "leading and potent force" in the "despicable 'backstreet' type" campaign that had defeated former Senator Tydings. It did not recommend that Senator Butler, the successful candidate, be unseated, but did say that:

"The question of unseating a senator for acts committed in a senatorial election should not be limited to the candidates in such elections. Any sitting senator . . . . should be subject to expulsion by action of the Senate if it finds such senator engaged in practices and behavior that make him . . . unfit to hold the position of United States senator."

This report has not yet been acted upon by the full Rules Committee. Attention now centers on how many of the eight members of Rules who were not members of the five-man subcommittee will give their endorsement to the paragraph quoted above. Benton is one of them.

The last previous case in which the Senate was asked to expel a senator for questioned behavior in a political campaign was that of Senator Bilbo who was charged with having incited the white population of Mississippi to acts of violence against Negro voters when running for renomination and re-election in 1946. Subsidiary charges were that Bilbo had accepted money payments in return for favors to war contractors early in World War II.

An inquiry was begun by the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee late in 1946 and things looked black for Bilbo when the Republicans took over control of Congress in 1947, but he scorned all suggestions that he resign.

Bilbo was required to stand aside when he rose to take the oath of office for the new term. He was guaranteed a right to defend himself on the floor before the Senate should act, but did not again appear in the Senate chamber. His death on August 21, 1947, relieved his colleagues of any need to pass on his fitness to continue as a senator.

In impeachment proceedings, executive officers may be removed only for "high crimes and misdemeanors." In taking action against its own members the Senate has much broader powers. Under the Constitution either house may punish for disorderly behavior "and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member." The Supreme Court has ruled that the power to expel extends to all cases where the offense has been such, in the judgment of the Senate or House, as to be inconsistent with "the trust and duty" of a member.

Thus, while the power of the Senate to expel McCarthy is beyond question, the Senate has always been reluctant to take action against a sitting senator whatever his offense. During the Civil War, a dozen southern senators who had already withdrawn were later expelled for "treason." An early case was that of a senator expelled in 1797 for concocting a plan to seize Florida and Louisiana. In most other cases senators charged with grave offenses have chosen to resign rather than face what would amount to a trial by their colleagues.

Ghost Of McGuffey

President Truman is filling in a gap in his early experience by delving into that rich source of information and inspiration which once formed a foundation stone in the education of American youth, the McGuffey Readers.

An avowed admirer of the McGuffey tradition, although he himself largely missed its influence, the President recently received a gift of a full set of the "Eclectic Series," and he is reported busily making up for lost time.

There was a great deal of worthwhile reading in the McGuffey books, much that should prove of value even to a President turning to their pages in later life. They were truly eclectic, and the earnest educator who compiled them sought the best in literature and poetry, history and practical instruction to lay before the pupils of the day as they progressed from grade to grade.

The story of William Holmes McGuffey himself is one that would have fitted into the character of his books. His preparation of these texts was directed to supplying a need he had felt as a boy in a frontier home.

A preacher riding by the lonely spot chanced to overhear McGuffey's mother praying that her son might get an education to fit him for life. The preacher saw that the prayer was answered.

McGuffey, though licensed as a preacher, became a college teacher and served as president of two Ohio institutions. From 1845 until his death in 1873 he was professor of moral philosophy and political economy at the University of Virginia.

He lived to see his readers performing a highly useful purpose. But he who always managed to inculcate the moral values into his work could never have hoped that it would come under the purview of the nation's chief executive at a time when the moral tone of the government was so greatly in need of revival.

Truth

Perhaps the greatest menace of the Soviet Russian regime is the way it plays fast and loose with the truth. Hitherto the leading Russians have described Americans as criminal warmongers and disgusting hypocrites. Today, in the midst of a peace drive, they say: "My mind can conceive no rational excuse for the highly strained relations which have arisen." And "Rusians have always admired American efficiency, the ebullient creative energy of the American people and their democratic spirit."

When the Russians say Americans are warmongering criminals and then turn around and laud them as peaceful democrats, how are American negotiators to confer with those from Russia?

Truth is the solid foundation of international relations. In the degree that it is present peoples can get along. Where it is absent, there is nothing whatever to tie to. The Russian leaders, with all their reputed realism, should be able to see that. If they are mere propagandists for expansion purposes, anything they say about peace is a mockery.

Precautions Against Fire

Fire kills 3,075 persons annually and the majority lose their lives in the home. The only way to decrease the number of such catastrophes is to eliminate all household fire hazards. This ought to be done now because tomorrow may be too late.

Three out of four fires are caused by matches, tobacco smoking, faulty electric wiring, heating units, kerosene, and carelessness. Everyone knows that smoking in bed is dangerous yet the habit continues and many pay a high pently. Striking matches in closets, garages, or other places where inflammable materials, dust, or vapors may be ignited is the height of folly. The smallfry love matches; they must be kept out of reach. According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, "The careless discarding of lighted matches and smoking materials is responsible for nearly 30 per cent of all fires of known cause." Those who live in the country or areas where thick forests abound are keenly aware of the need for precautions because it means life, home, and livelihood. Many forest fires are traceable to city dwellers who never have been conscious of where matches and cigaret butts are thrown. Vigilance must become a habit because on slip is all that is necessary.

Faulty electrical wiring is detected only by frequent examination of the cords of lamps and other electric appliances. When fraying is observed a competent electrician should be called. Expert help is needed to extend wires; they never should be strung over hooks or under rugs because wear makes them dangerous. Furthermore, chances ought not to be taken on any old electric appliance or cord; they should bear the seal or label of Underwriters' Laboraories, Inc. The blowing of a fuse is a danger signal that a short exists or that the system is overloaded. Tampering with this safety valve by putting in fuses of larger amperage is not a smart move.

One out of every four or five fires can be laid to faulty chimneys, flues, cooking and heating stoves, furnaces, fireplaces, hot ashes, and sparks on the roof. Most houses are constructed to abide by the usual rules and regulations as to the placement of heating units and pipes. But the trouble starts when the owners neglect to clean the chimney periodically or to repair cracks or loose mortar. Unused flue holes should be closed with an noncombustible cap and not papered over or left unstopped. Overloading or forcing a furnace to get more heat is to be condemned.

The improper use of kerosene, benzene, naphtha, and other inflammable materials results in many fires each year. When these solvents are employed in the home for cleaning they vaporize on exposure to air. This produces an explosive mixture that is readily ignited by a lighted match, pilot light, or static electricity that occurs on combing the hair or rubbing textiles together. The vapors may travel to other rooms hence ventilation must be exceptionally good. The reckless use of candles, torches, and lamps has led to many tragedies.

The following is an old story well worth repeating: If your clothes catch fire do not run but lie on the floor and roll in a rug until the flames are extinguished.

PAIN AFTER EATING

B. T. writes: I develop pain in the chest after eating or drinking. It disappears after a few hours. Is this heart trouble or merely indigestion?

REPLY

Indigestion is the best possibility altho now and then distress of this nature develops in individuals who have had coronary thrombosis. In the circumstances, it represents a form of angina. But most victims of heart trouble have symptoms other than the one in question.

PARASITIC INFECTION

R. F. writes: I went on a trip to Cuba and while there had a high fever and my right leg became swollen and red. The doctor there told me I had filariasis, so I decided to return to the States immediately and consult a doctor here. After examining me he said to let nature take its course but my leg is still somewhat swollen. Is it all right to do nothing?

REPLY

If the condition is filariasis, you have had good advice. The newer remedies for this condition are of little value at this stage. Since you are away from the source of infection the condition should clear up eventually.

DRUGS IN TUBERCULOSIS

K. T. writes: What are some of the drugs that are being used in tuberculosis?

REPLY

The best known are streptomycin, dihydrostreptomycin, and para-aminosalicyclic acid. Among the many products in the experimental stage are neomycin, myvizone, promizole, amithizone, mycomcyin, and smallpox vaccine.

Answering The Demand For Economy

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Chinese Nationalist Waste Could Be Avoided; Russian Diplomats Learn To Drive; Americans Rededicate Declaration Of Independence

WASHINGTON — Much of the waste of Chinese Nationalist war supplies could be avoided if the millions of dollars worth of munitions we have sent to Formosa were handled direct by the U. S. government and supervised by us.

Instead, a peculiar system of middlemen is used, thereby permitting graft, rake-offs and comshaw to creep in. It's suspected that part of this is to help finance the China lobby which at times has had powerful influence in the U. S. Senate. Just who is getting the rake-offs remains a mystery.

Here is one illustration of how 2,956,170 gallons of aviation gasoline was ordered for the Chinese Air Force on Formosa, a purchase costing a cool million dollars.

This order was placed on Jan. 1, 1950—not during the hectic war days when the State Department White Paper tells of widespread graft in the Chinese Army.

But though conditions were relatively peaceful in January, 1950, and the Korean War had not started, this huge quantity of gasoline was handled by the Chung Foo Company, a broker in Formosa. The Chinese Air Force Procurement Office in Washington was merely informed by cable that the 2,956,170-gallon order had been placed with this broker.

This was peculiar on the face of it, because the Chinese Air Force had its own office in Washington for the specific purpose of buying these supplies. Another peculiar aspect was that the price was fixed as of September, 1949—or 33.82 cents a gallon. This actually was a higher price than the Chinese needed to pay, for, by January, 1950, the price had dropped.

San Francisco Grocer

Regardless of this, however, the Formosan government signed a final contract with the Chung Foo Company on Feb. 9, 1950, and the next day the Chinese Air Force in Washington was ordered by cable to make a million dollars availble at the Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco to South China Enterprise, Inc.

In other words the Chinese Air Force in Washington, having had nothing to do with the purchase of the gasoline, was instructed merely to pay for it.

South China Enterprise, Inc., was described as the American agent for the Chung Foo Company in Formosa. However, investigation proved it was nothing more than a hole-in-the-wall grocery store in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Patriotic Chinese, who did not want to see their country gypped, investigated further and found that the total assets of the grocery store were only a few hundred dollars. Yet it was supposed to handle a deal involving one million.

Furthermore, the grocery-store proprietor, knowing nothing about gasoline, turned the deal over to another middleman named Alexander Lindenbaum, who then contracted to buy the gas from Cities Service.

In other words, the Chinese government could have bought the gas direct from Cities Service in the first place, instead of which it went through three middlemen — the broker in Formosa, the grocery store in San Francisco's Chinatown, and Alexander Lindenbaum.

The man who placed the gasoline order was Gen. C. J. Chou, Chiang Kai-Shek's chief of staff, whose rank corresponds to that of General Bradley in the United States.

In the end, the deal was stopped when it reached the ears of conscientious Sen. William Knowland of California.

Russian Driving Licenses

There is one interesting sidelight about the plan to make Russian diplomats in Washington take the same stiff auto driver test that our diplomats are given in Moscow. American diplomats are almost forced to qualify as mechanics before getting a driver's license—which, of course, is for the purpose of making them use Russian chauffeurs in Moscow.

What the American public doesn't know, however, is that Soviet diplomats figured two months ago that we might make them take the same kind of stiff test. So, two months ago, the Russian Embassy hired several "learn-to-drive" experts to teach its staff all the technical details of auto repair.

For weeks since then, the "learn-to-drive" cars arrived in front of the Soviet Embassy, picked up a Red diplomat and went careening down 16th Street in another minor skirmish in the global cold war.

Rededicating The Declaration

The experience of two newspapers in widely separated parts of the county — New Orleans and Madison, Wis.—in having people refuse to sign the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, has started a campaign for a rededication of the Declaration.

The Sertoma Club (Service to Mankind) of Richmond, Va., has contributed $500 to pay for copies of the Declaration of Independence to be hung in school rooms. Other Virginians, the state which gave the author of the Declaration to the nation, are promoting ways and means of rededicating the Declaration, among them August Dietz of The Dietz Press, who has undertaken to print copies of the Declaration at cost, suitable for framing.

And in New York, Spyros Skouras, head of 20th Century-Fox, has undertaken to highlight the ideals and message of the Declaration of Independence by newsreel. Skouras, who was born in Greece, says: "When I was a boy I wasn't lucky enough to study the Declaration of Independence or have the advantage of its great freedoms. Now I do. And I want to do anything I can to help in its appreciation."

Washington Pipeline

The Senate Crime Committee's chief counsel, Richard Moser, made a secret visit last week to Mexico City to question New York's former mayor, William O'Dwyer, now ambassador to Mexico. O'Dwyer spent the time bitterly denouncing two members of the Crime Committee—Senators Kefauver of Tennessee and Tobey of New Hampshire . . . A Communist statement at the cease-fire talks caused General Ridgway to throw an American and two South Korean divisions into the present "limited offensive" on the Central front. Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist negotiator, had repeatedly complained against Allied bombings while the truce talks were in progress, then suddenly he reversed himself after the agenda was agreed upon and announced it was his understanding that the fighting would continue during the talks. This made General Ridgway suspicious, so he ordered a limited offensive to probe enemy positions and find out what the Communists are up to.

These Days

The West Point Scandal

Senator Fulbright's proposal, which amounts to shifting the West Point scandal to an investigation of intercollegiate football, is not sound. The problem is not football; it is the morals of a nation. It is not whether subsidized, paid athletics in the colleges is to be forgiven; it is rather that something has gone out of this nation when cheating is taken as lightly as fixing, which used to be called graft.

It is easy for those who think only in terms of immediate party politics or, even worse, of their personal friendships to shunt off everything that happens into the category of the usual. But those who insist upon a moral criteron cannot help asking, "Why is it usual? Why has it become usual?"

It is possible to say that the 20th Century is not the 19th Century, but that does not mean that the 20th Century is an improvement on the 19th or even on the 12th Century. What is called modern does not necessarily mean better as anyone who listens to Bach and Shostakovich on the same program knows.

If by improvement we mean that an automobile is a superior means of locomotion to a horse and buggy, or that an electrical refrigerator is superior to a bow and arrow, then we have made very great progress.

But when the morals of man are considered, we are halted by the astonishing retreat of the 20th Century with its excess of divorces, its broken homes, its emphasis on homosexuality, its acceptance of materialistic Marxism in wide areas that were so recently Christian, its avoidance of such concepts as faith, honor, dignity, sacrifice. If we assume that God is old-fashioned and that his natural law is superstition, then we must not be shocked by what happened at West Point.

These 90 men accused of cheating contend that they are not the only ones and that it has been going on for some time. Does that make it right? Is that an excuse for conduct? Because some men are dope peddlers, is dope peddling justified? The position is so illogical that the men who use it as an excuse display their unworthiness.

This is a question that Americans have to answer if they wish to preserve our nation and our civilization. It is impossible to say that "deep freezers," "mink coats," fixers close to the White House and incident after incident of loose morals in high places are usual in all governments. In our long history, such incidents have been unusual. These are the clinical evidences of a decaying civilization, just as wholesale and prolonged cribbing at West Point is a symptom of degeneracy among our armed forces. For these young men, under the circumstances of West Point education, could not have engaged in this practice without officer connivance. This undoubtedly is their real defense.

These symptoms need to be studied back to their causes. When there is such widespread degradation among the people, it means clearly two things:

1. The moral leadership of the nation is inadequate for influencing oncoming generations in decent, dignified leadership and living;

2. The religious training of youth is inadequate to sustain them through the trials of life by precept, inspiration, example and by supplying the automatic restraints of moral conduct.

The individuals involved in the West Point scandal will suffer personal indignity and a loss of great opportunity, but there is much more to this. This nation is now challenged by an incident which involves all our children. What is being done in our schools to build character? The public school ideal was designed not only to teach reading and writing, but to breed a race of decent, honest, God-loving human beings. What happens to our children in the first years of their lives? This we need to understand if we are to grasp our current apathy concerning indecencies. It may require moving deeply into the whole question of national morals, of upbringing, of education, of purely functional schooling without religion.

We need to know why our people are not outraged at the shameless corruption of our country. Something has gone terribly wrong with us and we need to know what it is and why it happened.

Nominating Truman

By MARK SULLIVAN

Even admitting that we live in a period in which to an exceptional degree new conditions change old rules, it never the less remains close to a certainty that Mr. Truman can get the Presidential nomination next year if he decided that he wants it. What goes on in Mr. Truman's mind is the decisive factor.

Within the party there is hostility to him of a kind and degree which in 1952 would normally express itself in opposition to nominating him. But so was there opposition to nominating him in 1948. Preceding his nomination at the Democratic National Convention, leaders of his party made public statements which amounted to declarations that they did not want him. The statements reflected both wings of the party. Old Guard Democratic leader Frank Hague of Jersey City declared starkly that "every leader I conferred with has informed me that if President Truman is the candidate it means landslide on the Republican side." To the same effect a group of liberals, Americans for Democratic Action, issued a formal statement that "there is so little public enthusiasm for the Truman Administration that the Democratic party would face a very difficult uphill fight if he were nominated."

Not Practical To Change

Mr. Truman, as he considers whether to run next year, undoubtedly remembers all that and remembers that in spite of it he got the nomination. Being a self-confident person he may assume that he got it by his own efforts. But the only effort on his part that counted materially was his declaration that he wanted it. Once he had gone after it, the party leaders could hardly help letting him have it. Had they nominated someone else the party would have been in the position of denying endorsement to the record which a President of their party had made. They would have been saying to voters in effect, "We have done badly with the President of our party now in office, but we have made a change and are now asking for another chance with a different candidate." That just wouldn't be practicable. What it all amounts to is that any President in office can get another nomination if he wants one.

However there are other things Mr. Truman can remember as reasons for self-confidence. He won the election, won it under handicaps which so far do not appear likely to exist next year. In the 1948 campaign there were two third parties that took large numbers of votes from Mr. Truman. One was the State's Rights party, the so-called "Dixiecrats," which carried Southern states that otherwise Mr. Truman would undoubtedly have carried. While Southern Democratic leaders, conspicuously Sen. Byrd of Virginia, have made statements strongly condemning Mr. Truman's administration, and where there is much anti-Truman sentiment in the South, there is not at this stage any organized movement that definitely protends a Southern third party in 1952. (This is not to say that a Southern third party may not yet develop before the 1952 Democratic National Convention or as a result of developments within that convention). In addition to the States' Rights party Mr. Truman in 1948 had the opposition of Mr. Henry A. Wallace's Progressive party, the great bulk of whose votes were ones which otherwise would almost certainly have gone to Mr. Truman. Today there is no Wallace third party and no apparent likelihood of one.

Peace Would Help

Mr. Truman's 1948 victory is a valid reason for self-confidence as respects 1952. His victory was due in part to the aggressiveness of his campaigning. Remembering that, he is the more likely to tend toward the aggressive course as he decided whether or not to run next year. Much of Mr. Truman's psychology could be compressed into a phrase "I'll show 'em." So far as prudence or caution or restraint have a place in Mr. Truman's temperament, they should suggest the difference between conditions as they were then and conditions as they are now or may be by the 1952 election.

Since 1948 there has come war and the threat of more. What will be the status of war and peace by the time of the 1952 election no one can foresee. Optimism on the part of Mr. Truman could lead him to assume that there will be progress toward world peace and that this would help him. Similarly, no one can foretell what will be the status of inflation by the time of the 1952 election.

Any speculation about the 1952 election, whether by Mr. Truman or anyone else, should include the possibility of a deep and widespread change in the mind of the electorate. Large numbers of voters who supported Mr. Truman in 1948 may have come to doubt whether they were wise. During the term to which they elected him they have seen the coming of war and of increased inflation. And they may feel that the head of government must bear some responsibility for these developments.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—When Congress passed a resolution expressing frienship for the Russian people, it was a good thing to do—to show that, no matter what friction prevailed between the governments, there was a basic desire for a peaceful relationship between the peoples.

Such a well-intentioned move, however, now has been met by calumny and misrepresentation by the Soviet government. The weakness of the American position from a counter-propaganda standpoint is that the United States Government still deals with the Soviet regime as if it were a respectable institution when, in fact, the hands of the Red rulers are soiled with the blood of aggression.

Everybody knows who has been supplying the Chinese Reds with munitions to kill the troops of the United Nations.

Everybody knows that the Russian government has been faithless to the charter of the United Nations.

Yet diplomatic relations are maintained with Moscow and with satellite countries which are every day inflicting insults on the governments of the free world.

Pussyfoot Diplomacy

There was a time when the great government of Great Britain and the great government of the United States would not tolerate for an instant the arrest and imprisonment of a citizen of either country on flimsy charges. But today an American newsman — William Oatis — stays in jail because of a pussyfoot diplomacy fears to make an issue of it. A fear complex prevails. The Soviet regime misconstrues this as a weakness and hence feels free to taunt the principal governments of the world with false charges.

For the latest Russian pronouncement repeats that the United States was an aggressor in Korea and that the United Nations invaded that peninsula.

The opportunity to tell the people of Russia the truth in official language is now presented to the American government. Will it take up the Kremlin's statement and give the facts about each of its charges and cite chapter and verse? Will it declare not only to the Russian people but to the people of the whole world that the Moscow regime has forfeited any right to be accepted on an equal basis with other nations?

The Russian statement makes much of its desire to be accepted as an equal. But equality presupposes fidelity to truth and likewise a willingness to give up force and coercion as a means of influencing the action of other nations.

The satellite countries furnish vivid examples of how Soviet compulsion has worked. It is a proper occasion now for the American government to outline the record of what has been happening throughout Russia and the satellite areas.

If, however, the United States and the UN are to be timid and to cherish the illusion diplomatic recognition as well as continued membership in the UN, then the Soviets will continue to have all the advantage in the propaganda exchanges.

The moral force of the world has never really been exerted effectively against the Soviet regime. The American government has never in so many words laid it on the line that the Soviet regime is an immoral government not entitled to be treated as a member of the family of nations.

Never Officially Stated

In public speeches some American officials have accused Russia of aggression, but that's mere name calling. The record is certaainly filled with evidence of what Moscow has done in the Far East and in the satellite countries of Europe. That record has never been officially stated as an expression by the United States Government to the world. The Soviet regime has never, in fact, been held up as an outlaw government.

The chance has come to make clear that only when faithless acts are abandoned and a government that really represents the aspirations of the peace-loving people of Russia arises can there be an end to the arms race and a removal of the tension that is injuring the economies of the free world and compelling more and more of the youth of all countries to mobilize for defense against sudden attack. The responsibility of the Kremlin for the chaos that fills the world has never been officially defined in so many words and transmitted to the Russian people. Logically it's the next move.

Phredonia Estes, his mother, gave him his first name. . . . But never mind the family name. . . . Estes did the bestes—he got the votes! . . . Running against the powerful political machine of Tennessee Boss, Ed Crumb, Estes Kefauver got the voters to free themselves from one-man rule in his state. . . . And now, even more since his battle against crime last winter, the Tennessee voters are proud he's their senator. . . . Even when they disagree on issues with him, they like him. . . . They like his pretty Scotch wife, his character and, as they say, "that Sunday smile he can turn on seven days a week." Not only in Tennessee do you hear "he'll be in the White House before he's through." —AUSTINE

By SENATOR ESTES KEFAUVER

I am happy that Austine has invited me to use this space today because I want to bring you a message of hope.

Many persons in America have become confused and dejected because, having recently won a war, they can see no hope for the future. There appears to be nothing ahead but one crisis after another, and they fear that it will all end in another war.

I do not believe that this is necessarily so. I think that we have a way out. It requires that we in America recapture our ability to dream big dreams, and convert them into leadership. It requires that this leadership be given with an affirmative, positive approach.

Senator Estes Kefauver

First, let us consider the nature of the problem. We are faced with an enemy who has a philosophy and has a dream. It is a wrong one, a cockeyed one—but it is one. Along with it, the enemy has practically push-button control over all its segments. Our enemy is world-wide communism—Russia and its satellites.

Because of the control, no one knows when this enemy will strike. We do know that thousands of Soviet planes are based in Siberia and some of the islands north of Japan. We know that satellite forces are poised not far from Yugoslavian borders in Europe. We know that the revolution in Iran, in the Middle East, is composed of all the elements that invite a Communist coup. We are fighting in Korea.

This is our enemy, united behind a false philosophy, but united, able to strike at any one, or several places simultaneously, and withdraw, as its leaders deem best.

Now let us look at ourselves—the democracies of the world. We have the stuff of which real dreams are made—but too often we have forgotten to dream. We allow ourselves to be pushed on to the defensive. We deplore the enemy. We say isn't it awful, and then we argue among ourselves.

What we need is a positive program and a positive approach.

I think that we have it in the Atlantic Union Plan. One reason why I felt impelled to give up the chairmanship of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee was to have more time to devote to promoting a workable system of security and peace by law — in other words to have more time to devote to the Atlantic Union Plan. I feel deeply that it is my duty as an American to turn my principal attention to international gangsters and their threat to our security.

The Atlantic Union Resolution, which I have sponsored along with many of my colleagues in both the Senate and House, provides for exploring purposefully the possibility of moving a step beyond the present Atlantic alliances to form within the United Nations an actual federation, like the federation of the 48 American states.

We need to put the federal system—which is democracy at its highest and most organized level — on a transatlantic basis.

This federal system of delegating to a central authority power to act in the common interest is an efficient way of getting things done. Instead of the decisions of the people in the free world being made separately, they will be made together.

This, I believe, provides the answer to our problem. Like our enemy, we would be able to make our decisions quickly, and we would act together. Unlike our enemy, we would not sacrifice our freedoms to do this.

We have a world to preserve. No one nation, no one leader, is proving to be enough to do the task alone. But each free nation and each free citizen working together can do it.

If we would just pass this resolution and call the conference of nations that it proposes "to explore the possibilities of further union" we might well prevent World War III.

This is my message of hope. I hope that I have convinced you and that you will help convince my colleagues in Congress.

The Old Second Guesser

The Romance Of Mary Martin

In a roundabout way, I played Cupid to Mary Martin, and her late father-in-law had the same role in my case. To dispose of the matter, he introduced me to my wife, and, after that, it was up to me. Reminds me of the advice old Cy Young gave the young pitcher who came into the league and asked him how to work on the batters.

"Well, I'll tell you," said Cy, "I do the best I can up to the time the ball leaves my hand, and, after that, it's up to the hitter." There's a world of philosophy in the remark.

But to hell with Young. This is about Mary Martin, the star of South Pacific and other hits. When her husband, Dick Halliday, a handsome youth, finished college, I was toiling and struggling as the editor of Liberty magazine. He came into the office and asked me for a job. I had known him since before he put on long pants.

"I'm sorry," I told him, "but we are losing a lot of money and haven't got any jobs here."

"If you don't take me on," he answered, "I'm going to get to be an actor."

This ultimatum stirred me, and, trying to save him from such a career, although I don't know why, I compromised by hiring him at a modest salary which I figured wouldn't be the straw to break the camel's back. Being a personable young man, his beat was to visit writers, especially of the female gender, whose stories were in demand, to find out what was available. He got on friendly terms with Fannie Hurst, Edna Ferber, and many others and could drink a cocktail or a cup of tea with equal enthusiasm. His efforts produced some first-class literature.

Pretty soon I got fired by Captain Joe Patterson, the boss—not for hiring Halliday, because he made him moving picture critic, in which capacity he operated for a year or more and naturally got to know the celluloid tycoons of that day. It wasn't long before he was offered a job at much more money by Paramount and presently became story editor. He moved to Hollywood where he later went into the agency business, met Mary Martin and one day, when he had some leisure, proposed to her. She accepted.

You see if he hadn't gotten the position on Liberty, he wouldn't have become a moving-picture critic and reached Hollywood where he found his bride-to-be. Sounds like that sequence — "For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; etc.", until finally the whole blooming battle went up in smoke. Maybe he would have gone west anyway and married her. Today Dick is acting as her manager and basking in the sunshine of the position both of them have created.

There's a good story about Mary Martin which I am going to tell at the risk of repeating what I may have already reported some time ago. Shortly after the wedding, we went to the Stork Club one night and got separated in the foyer, my wife and Dick Halliday going on ahead while Mary Martin and I were still lingering at the entrance. Now I have been prematurely grey for years. On the way out was a boisterous lady who evidently was full of something besides chocolate ice-cream sodas. She recognized my companion and made a nasty crack.

"The last time I saw you your hair was dark and now it's auburn," she said.

"Oh, I like to change it once in a while," answered Miss Martin with a smile.

Then she spotted me and my white thatch.

"Is that Daddy with you?" she asked. The actress had popularized a song called "My Heart Belongs To Daddy."

I burned up and couldn't think of anything to say until she had disappeared through the revolving door. Then it wasn't very good.

"I wish I had that dame alone in a soundproof room for about five minutes," I muttered.

Never pose for a photograph from a standing start! "Walk into it," is the secret of a professional look.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

As a model strikes a pose, the photographer on the set shouts, "Walk into it! Walk into it!" And that is one of the secrets that marks the results with professional perfection that amateurs rarely achieve except by accident.

It's this "walking into a pose" that insures fluid, flawless, body lines. It's a trade secret that you can learn to give snapshots of your self model attraction.

Trade Secret

The amateur's disappointing wooden-Indian effect is the result of standing stock still and then assuming the pose. Make up your mind now that you'll never get caught in it again.

Instead, practice posing the "walk-in" way. Pretend that some object in the room is a camera; a lamp is fine, but a full-length mirror is even better. With a strip of paper, mark a spot on the floor about five feet away and directly in front of the "camera." This is the spot on which you would pose and on which the photographer would focus, if a picture were really being made.

Now walk diagonally away from the marker to a point that is five steps behind and to the right of it. Turn and face the marker.

Starting with your left foot, take five steps toward the marker and stand still when you reach it. If you do it correctly, you will end up with your left foot touching the marker, your right foot a half step behind your body and your entire body turned slightly profile to the camera. This is all to the good since your feet, legs and hips are not only highly photogenic in this position but also because your whole body has captured the fluid line that can only result from arrested motion.

Photogenic Pose

Simultaneously, turn your shoulders toward the camera, clasp your palms together and bring them to rest on your left hip bone, tilt the top of your head slightly to the right and look as though you enjoyed the whole thing.

When you become expert, you'll be able to walk away from the marker, back to it, and arrange your body and expression without a single break in your motions. At the moment, you will be ready to display your prowess in front of a real camera. Then, of course, you will have no marker to help you locate your point of focus—you'll be able to depend on your mind's eye to tell you where the spot is. And as you walk into it, the camera's eye will find you lovely!

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

IT'S A CANNIBAL COUP

SUPPOSE you throw a defender into the lead, after preparing the hand so that his partner retains nothing except a guarded trump honor and you hold a higher honor guarded by a card higher than the opponent's guard. The partner of the trump holder — no matter what he returns — puts his mate's cards under the hammer, enabling you to take the last couple of tricks. What would you call such a play? Is "cannibal coup" descriptive enough?

	♠ A 9 7 ♥ A 10 9 2 ♦ 4 ♣ 10 9 7 6 5
♠ K J 8 6 4 2 ♥ J 8 7 4 ♦ None ♣ K 8 3	N W E S	♠ 10 5 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ 10 8 6 5 2 ♣ J 4 2
	♠ Q 3 ♥ K 5 ♦ A K Q J 9 7 3 ♣ A Q

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♦

Gaudy play pulled that contract safely into port. It was by Melville Alexander, one of New York's most brilliant all-around performers.

On the heart 4 lead, the 9 was played from dummy, the Q by East and the K by South. When the diamond A was laid down, West's spade 2 discard showed that East held all the outstanding trumps. Since a trick had to be lost in clubs or spades if West held the K in each black suit, as was probable from the bidding, no loser could be afforded in trumps. Mr. Alexander then set about depriving East of any trick with his diamonds, shortening his own trumps to the right point, then throwing West in the lead with the club Q.

To do this, he scored the diamond K and Q, and the club A, and finessed the heart 10—a pretty well marked finesse because of East's use of the Q on the first trick. On the heart A he discarded the club Q, then ruffed the club 7 with the diamond 3. He went to dummy with the spade 3 to the A and then led the club 9, ruffing with the diamond 7. He now held only the spade Q and diamond J-9, while East had the spade 10 and diamond 10-8. The spade Q now threw West in with the K. Mr. Alexander didn't care what West retained to lead, as East would have to ruff first with his 10-8 and then be topped by Mr. Alexander with the J-9, assuring the declarer the last two tricks and his small slam.

Tomorrow's Problem

What simple mistake must South avoid to make 7-Clubs on this deal after West leads the heart A?

Parole Violation Hearing Is Set

Raymond G. Everitt, 20, RFD 2, Christie Road, will receive a hearing before Associate Judge George Henderson Monday at 9:15 a. m. on a charge of violating his parole.

The hearing was scheduled after Everitt pleaded not guilty to the charge in Allegany County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Information had been filed against Everitt July 17, 1950, by the State's Attorney charging him with forgery. He pleaded guilty when arraigned July 28, 1950, and was sentenced to a period not to exceed two years in the Maryland State Reformatory. The sentence was suspended and he was paroled for two years.

In January of this year Everitt was charged in Federal District Court in Baltimore with stealing a money order out of a mail box here. He had served almost six months in the Federal Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., when he was brought to the Allegany County Jail to face the parole violation charge.

James McKee, 44, Cresaptown, also haled before Judge Henderson Tuesday as an alleged parole violator, was remanded to jail pending a decision by the judge.

The Cresaptown man was convicted in Allegany County Circuit Court last October 16 on a burglary charge. He was given one year in the Maryland House of Correction but was paroled for two years pending good behavior and abstinance from use of intoxicants. On June 28 he was charged with violating his parole. He pleaded guilty and again was paroled on condition that he refrain from all intoxicants. On July 22 he again was charged by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher with violating his parole on grounds that he had used intoxicants.

Bishop Named NFIB Chairman

James W. Bishop, 112 Washington Street, has accepted the appointment of district chairman for Cumberland members of the National Federation of Independent Business.

Edward Hardcastle, Hagerstown, district manager said that due to growth of the federation it is now desirable to have chairmen in Cumberland, Frostburg and Midland.

E. A. Dashiell, Midland, who previously served all of these areas as chairman, will continue for the members in the Midland area.

Each member of the federation receives periodically a "mandate" listing the important questions in Congress affecting independent business. The congressional arguments both for and against each issue are stated for the members to read. The member marks a ballot for or against each issue. Ballots go directly to Rep J. Glenn Beall thru the local chairman, Bishop, who reports to the federation the majority opinion. These reports determine the stand taken by the Federation on the issues.

Members in Cumberland include professional and business people of many vocations.

50 Teachers Resign Posts In County School System

The General Assembly's Legislative Council fact finding commission on the teacher pay question was given yesterday a sharp example of the arguments presented here last week by county educators and officials.

It came in the form of an announcement from Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county public schools, that 12 more teachers have resigned their positions in the system so far this week.

This makes a total of 50 instructors who have left their jobs since classes adjourned for the summer vacation in June.

With the combined teaching staffs totaling approximately 500 in the county, this means that one-tenth of them have sought employment otherwise.

Eighteen have left elementary schools and 32 have left high schools, Kopp reported.

Seek Better Salaries

Most of the resignations, the superintendent of schools said, are from teachers who are going to other school systems where higher salaries are paid, while others have left the teaching profession and entered private industry.

In reference to the higher pay for teachers, the Legislative Council's sub-committee that held a hearing at West Side School with representatives of four Western Maryland counties last week, was told repeatedly about the variance in wage scales within the state.

The richer counties are paying more for their teachers and, as a result, are grabbing the better instructors.

Delegate Fred B. Driscoll and Delegate Estel C. Kelley the only county legislators to attend the hearing to sound out public opinion on the wage raise for teachers, declared that it is the state's responsibility to level the salaries within Maryland in order to curb these practices.

For instance, Driscoll said, the teachers' wages depend on the county's ability to pay. As standards are set for instruction by the state in a poor county, such as St. Mary's, there is a per capita income of $465. Montgomery County has $1,749 per capita income.

Therefore, Driscoll added, it would be impossible for the poorer counties to compete in teachers wages with the richer counties. Children living in all parts of the state should have an equal opportunity for education, he concluded.

Woodson Leaves Bruce

The resignation included that of W. E. Woodson, Jr., athletic director at Bruce High School, who has received employment at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Other resignations were received from John Gravell, commercial teacher at Beall High School, Frostburg.

Sevier Baumer, social studies at Oldtown High School.

Alexander Hawkins, industrial arts at Bruce High School, Westernport.

Robert Ross, vocational agriculture at Flintstone.

Eileen Bergdoll, home economics at Barton High School.

Mrs. Corlista M. Crowe, elementary grades at Penn Avenue School.

Mrs. Jane Bowen Harris, East Side School.

Mrs. Theo Carnell Workman Flintstone School who has moved to Washington.

William Donohue, Allegany High School.

Morals Charges Added To Counts Against Trio

In addition to four charges of assault and robbery, morals counts have been placed against the two Luke men and a West Virginia woman taken back to Somerset, Pa., by police after the father of one of the men was beaten and robbed.

The trio, picked up at Romney, W. Va., last week after police of three states were alerted, had been visiting R. Paul Broadwater, of Glencoe, Somerset county.

When they got ready to leave, Broadwater claimed the men held him and the woman beat him with a poker in an effort to make him tell where he kept his money.

One of those holding the farmer was his son, James Broadwater, 18, of Luke. The other man, the farmer said, was Robert D. Wolfe, 23, of Luke. Wielding the poker, he claimed, was Mrs. Eunice Wolford, 23, of Keyser.

With the three during their visit at the Glencoe farm was a 12-year-old runaway girl from Virginia.

James Broadwater appeared before Justice of the Peace H. S. Whipperman Tuesday and was charged with statutory rape, involving the young girl.

The 12-year-old was picked up by Westernport police after the quartet had returned last week from Broadwater's farm. She was sent to her home in Virginia.

The Wolford woman and Wolfe were also held on morals counts, the man under $500 bail and Mrs. Wolford under $1,000.

All entered pleas of guilty to the morals counts before Justice of the Peace Whipperman Tuesday, but later refused to sign grand jury waivers before District Attorney Frank A. Orban, Jr.

In addition to the morals charges, the three face charges of robbery, assault with intent to kill, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery. They will be arraigned on those counts when the elder Broadwater is able to leave Somerset Community Hospital.

Clothing Store To Open Here

A large New York clothier will open a new store at 150 Baltimore Street in the room formerly occupied by Woolworth's.

Joseph Silvers, of New York, an official of the firm, said the store will open in about "three or four weeks." He declined to name the concern.

Remodeling of the store is well underway and it is expected to be in full operation in time for the fall season, Silvers added.

The store will offer both men's and women's wear.

Parade Winners Named

Winners of the on-wheels parade held Tuesday for the children of the Virginia Avenue Playground are prettiest, Charlotte Dyer; best decorated, Patty. Sulser; most unusual, Jackie Yarnall, and funniest, Betty Leatherman and Sandra Sulser.

GETTING READY—Workmen are busily engaged in the preliminary stages of the construction of the new Central High School at Lonaconing. Work on the $1,650,000 school, which was started May 7, is expected to be finished in time for the opening of the 1952-53 school year some 13 months from now. The picture shows the county's smallest power shovel in a trenching operation as part of the plumbing and sewer system work begins. Operating the little shovel is Conrad Miller. Walter Yoder and John Yoder of a Pinto plumbing and heating firm look on with approval. The school is being constructed on the site of the old ball park at Detmold.

Victors Capture Eight Of Twelve Foursomes At Home

Cumberland Country Club men's golf team lost its third match of the season yesterday when the Uniontown, Pa., Country Club golfers turned back the locals by a 24-12 score on the Pennsylvania club's course.

Bill Catherman and Carroll Boggs, local pro, turned in the best scores for the Cumberlanders with 72 and 71 respectively but it was not enough as the home team captured eight of the 12 foursomes to pile up a commanding lead.

A return match with Uniontown linksmen is scheduled on the Cumberland Country Club grounds August 29, Boggs added last night. Cumberland's next match is scheduled next Wednesday when the locals will meet the Somerset, Pa., Country Club golfers at Somerset in a rubber match. The two teams have split in two matches this season. The scores:

Carroll Boggs and Bill Catherman, Cumberland, defeated Fred Welch and Tom Wagner, 3 and 0.

Russ Ponton and Bob Lacey, Cumberland, tied Dr. F. Potts and Jim Winning, 1½ and 1½.

Max Bastian and Dick Zembower, Cumberland, defeated Jack Martin and Harry Martin, 2 and 1.

Blaik May Resign Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Earl (Red) Blaik, who lifted Army football to a plane unparalleled in its history, has called a press conference here tomorrow amid rumors he will resign as head football coach West Point.

The strapping, straight-backed exponent of the two platoon system, silent up to now on resignation reports, said he would outline his position at 11 a. m. (EST).

Thinks have never looked darker for the 54-year-old native of Dayton, Ohio, who himself was one of West Point's greatest all-round athletes.

His once-potent squad, preportedly is shattered by the examcribbing scandal at the Military Academy where 90 cadets, including the bulk of the football team, face dismissal. His son, Bob, is the team's star quarterback but 'its not known whether he's involved.

Golf's "World" Championship To Begin Today

Ben Hogan Ends Ban On Contest

CHICAGO, Aug. 8—(AP)—Golf's richest show, the $56,000 "World" championship with concurrent men's amateur and women's open competition, opens tomorrow with U. S. Open champion Ben Hogan returning to the course he scorned for four years.

Hogan joined the field of 64 hand-picked pros shooting for a lush $12,500 first prize, he said, because promoter George S. May has made his Tam O'Shanter carnival a better golf meet than it used to be.

After winning the 1947 "World," then a 36-hole winner-take-all, $5,000 event, Hogan criticized Tam's former circus aspects, including required number-wearing by players, masked marvels and other gimmicks May figured would please the crowd. "Just say that this is a golf tournament now," said Hogan in explaining why he ended his four-year boycott of Tam.

Hogan is the only addition to the pro field which was screened to 63 after last weekend's All-American tourney which had a starting field of 118.

The All-American and its $2,250 first prize was won by Cary Middlecoff, the inactive dentist from Memphis, Tenn., whose 72-hole score was 274. That was seven strokes better than the 281 at which Henry Ransom and Chick Harbert tied for first in the 1950 "World" meet, Ransom took the $10,000 top swag by shooting a 69 against Harbert's 72 in a playoff.

Ten amateurs, headed by All-American champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, will shoot along with the pros, rounding out a men's field of 74.

The $6,000 women's open will have a stream-lined field of 20, composed mostly of pros.

Favored to grab the $2,100 top feminine money is All-America Champion Mildred (Babe) Zaharias, who has won pro laurels in the "World" since that meet was started for women at Tam O'Shanter in 1948.

Rain Hampers Tennis Action

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP) — Rain washed out all the third round singles action in the Newport Casino tennis tournament today but four doubles matches were squeezed in late in the afternoon when the weather cleared.

Former national team champions Gardnar Mulloy and Bill Talbert, who are top-seeded, got out of the first round with a 6-1, 6-2 win over Ben Bishop of St. Louis, and Johnny Hernandez of San Antonio, Tex.

The two Australian pairs were able to complete their second round assignments. Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor ousted Robert Kerdasha of North Bergen, N. J., and William Van Alen of Newport, 6-2, 6-0, and Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, slammed England's Tony Mottram and Syl Levy of South Africa, for a 9-7, 6-4 triumph.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Vicc Seixas of Philadelphia, who are second seeded, ran out their second-rounder with William J. Clothier, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Jack Tuero of New Orleans, for a 6-4, 7-5 victory.

Ousted Cadets May Play Elsewhere

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Army football players facing dismissal in the West Point exam-cribbing scandal will be eligible to play at other colleges a year after enrollment, if they so choose.

"They would be treated like anybody else," Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference said today. "They can apply for admittance to other colleges. If admitted, they can play after one year.

"This transfer rule is just about universal, I think."

Heads TV Program

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Edwin S. (Red) Reynolds of New York today was named director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's experimental television program.

He will act as a liason between the colleges, the sponsor of this year's live football telecasts and the sponsor's advertising agency.

Hambletonian Race Postponed 24 Hours By Heavy Rain

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—Gloomy, rain-soaked Goshen awaited clearing weather today as hazardous track conditions caused a 24-hour postponement of the 26th Hambletonian Stake and delayed a verdict on which horse will become boss of the three-year-old trotters.

The 21 horses are ready to line up in two tiers for the first heat of the $95,264 harness derby at 2 p. m. (EST), tomorrow. The regular Hambletonian Day racing program is scheduled to start at 10 a. m., EST.

There was no change in the minds of most veterans who forecast that the powerful Hayes Fair Acres Stables entry of Mighty Fine and Spennib would remain the betting favorite at about 7 to 2. The two DuQuoin, Ill. colts are from the same stable that won the 1950 race with Lusty Song.

This was the first postponement of the Hambletonian since 1946, when Chestertown won after a one-day delay.

Fox Advances At Oakland

Wins First Round After Brief Scare

OAKLAND, Md., Aug. 8 (AP) — Malcolm Fox, defending champion from Baltimore, was given a scare today before pulling out a three-set victory over Ernie Schultz of Washington in the first round of the Western Maryland open tennis tournament.

Schultz, captain-elect of the Naval Academy tennis team, reeled off a 6-0 first set victory over the two-time winner of the tourney at Mountain Lake Park. He also had Fox on the run in the second set, winning the first three games.

But Fox, a private stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, took hold to win six straight games and even the match. He then staved off Schultz 6-4 to win and stay in the running for a third championship which will enable him to retire the challenge bowl.

In other matches, Lawrence Middlecamp of College Park defeated Charles Glaser, Pittsburgh, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0; Doyle Royal, Washington, defeated Nelson Thomasson, Chicago, 6-1, 6-1; Alex Keiles, Washington, defeated Tim Organ, Annapolis; Phil Neff, Washington, defeated Jack McLaughlin, Mercersburg, Pa., 6-4, 6-2.

In the women's singles, Ann Fennessy, Washington, defeated Connie Smith, Oakland, 6-0, 6-1; Betty Hannig, Wheeling, defeated Libby Holloway, Wheeling, 6-0, 6-1; Libby Colton, Hagerstown, defeated Billy Pollard, Hagerstown, 6-1, 6-2; Frances Bassett, Washington, defeated Betty Thomasson, Chicago, 6-0, 6-0.

Dodgers Take Twin Bill To Increase Lead

Topple Giants Twice By 7-2, 7-6 Scores

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(INS)—The pennant-bound Brooklyn Dodgers lengthened the wide open spaces in the National League to 11½ games tonight when a bases-loaded single by Billy Cox with two out in the tenth inning gave them a 7 to 6 win over the New York Giants.

The Dodgers also beat their second place Manhattan cousins, 7 to 2, in a day game to sweep a day-night doubleheader. The two wins gave the Brooks an 11-3 record against the Durochermen.

The Giants made a contest of the night game, when, trailing 6-3 against big Don Newcombe, they scored three runs in the ninth. Bobby Thomson opened the inning with his 22nd homer. Before the inning was over, Clyde King came in to relieve Newcombe and the Giants loaded the bases. Monte Irvin singled home the two runs to tie the score. Box:

Fisher Wins Game With Homer In 6th

Fisher's batting and pitching proved the deciding factor as the Giants edged the Red Sox 8-7 yesterday in a Frostburg Little League baseball game.

The tosser hurled the first three innings, allowing only one tally then returned to the hill in the sixth frame to put out the fire as the Red Sox knotted the score. Fisher's homerun in the bottom of the sixth then decided the issue. He also collected to singles in four times at bat.

Former Player Endorses Honest Baseball Czar

Ray Fisher Once Outlawed By Landis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP) —An old-time ball player came out today for a high commissioner on the style of the man who once put him on baseball's blacklist.

Ray Fisher, a former Cincinnati Red pitcher who has been coaching baseball for 31 years at the University of Michigan, told a House judiciary subcommittee:

"I think the players would get a fair deal if they had a commissioner like Judge Landis.

He referred to the late Kenesaw M. Landis, the games first czar, who was succeeded by A. B. (Happy) Chandler, recently deposed.

This opinion came after Chairman Celler (D-NY) asked him if he thought it was proper that the 16 major league club owners should have the exclusive right in naming a successor to Chandler.

Endorses Reserve Clause

The 63-year-old right-hander indicated it didn't make any difference as long as the man chosen had "character, honesty, integrity and everything like that."

He endorsed the controversial reserve clause in players' contracts, saying it served to protect the game from dishonesty.

Northern Star Cops Saratoga Springs Feature

Greentree Stable Takes 3 Straight

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—The famed silks of Greentree Stable, owned by John Hay Whitney and his sister Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, again hugged the spotlight here today when Northern Star easily won the Glens Falls Handicap, feature of the stakeless program. It was the third score in as many days for the establishment, Ruddy having clicked Monday and Hall Of Fame on Tuesday in the Wilson.

Northern Star, lone 3-year-old in the small field, was the leader all the way in the overnight event of $4,000 added, crossing the line 4½ lengths clear of Mrs. Esther duPont Weir's Royal Governor, which in turn nosed out Jan Burke's Magic Words. Fourth and last was J. M. Seider's Royal Castle, which was making his first start since last November at Jamaica.

Although overnight rains had turned the course sloppy and threatening weather prevailed throughout the afternoon, the attendance, for the third straight day, showed an increase over 1950. A crowd of 10,632 braved the unfavorable conditions, while the count was only 9,268 a year back. The bad track was responsible for the small fields in the majority of the races.

Committee Asks Street Paving In Frostburg

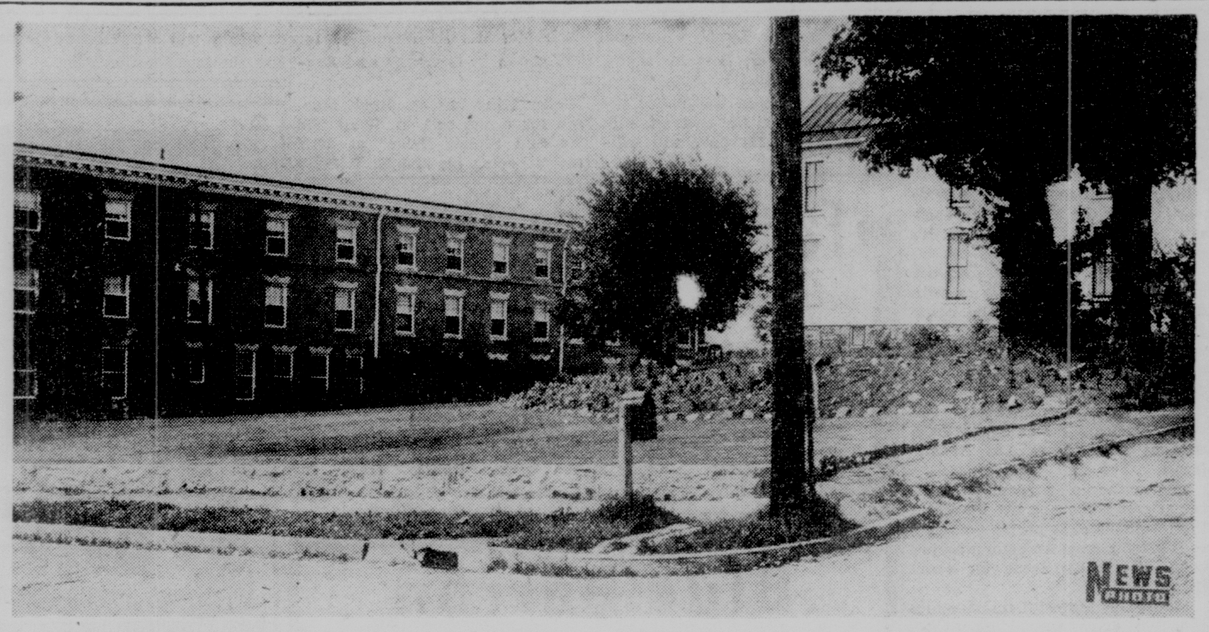
Council Declares City Lacks Funds

FROSTBURG—A committee from Centennial Street headed by Clarence F. Rephann appeared before the Mayor and City Commissioners Monday night to request repairs and paving of streets connecting Centennial Street with Main Street.

The Mayor and Council said a shortage of money was the reason these and many other streets have not been paved.

The Council stated that an ordinance is now being prepared for the resurfacing of Lemmert's Alley, which is one of the short thoroughfares connecting Main Street with Centennial Street.

Rephann declared the Mayor and Council had promised to pave the approaches to Centennial Street when the street was paved several years ago, and added that residents would not have consented to have the work done, had they known that their street would not be accessible from Main Street by the repaving of the several approaches.



CAMPUS GETS FACE LIFTING—The section of the campus of Frostburg State Teachers College at the corner of East College Avenue and Maple Streets has been converted into a lawn and rock garden terrace. It was formerly occupied by two frame residences purchased recently as part of the expansion program of the college. Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Do most marriages come up to expectations?

Answer: No, though in some ways the difference may be for the better. One great source of marital conflict is the refusal of each partner to play the "role" for which the other has cast him or her. A study by Dr. Robert S. Ort of Wabash College showed that husbands found this even more true than wives and rated themselves somewhat less happy than their spouses did. An effective source of disillusionment in marriage is the tendency, especially in fiction and the movies, to encourage young men and women to expect more of their wives and husbands than is within the capacity of human nature.

Can tests measure "maladjustment"?

Answer: The so-called "projective" tests like those made with ink blots can be quite effective because they lead a person to reveal unconscious feelings which conflict with those he is aware of having. But the type of "personality tests" which are based on answers to a list of questions about the subject's emotions, tastes and preferences, reveal only the facade which he has built up to conceal his real, unconscious feelings from himself and others. Such tests may make a person seem entirely content with a type of existence against which his deepest feelings are in desperate, if secret rebellion.

May mental defectives make good workers?

Answer: Yes. The so-called "high-grade" ones, whose intelligence is only slightly below normal, may do as well as the average person of the same socio-economic level, report Drs. J. Tizard and N. O'Connor of London in the American Journal of Mental Deficiency. The defective of this type may have less emotional stability than a normal person, but he is no less persistent and no more suggestible. There is also the advantage that he is apt to be less disturbed by the monotony of a routine job than a more intelligent person would be. And of course he will be happier earning his living than if he were idle and dependent.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8—(INS)—"Three Love Stories" is the woman-baiting title Sidney Franklin gives his next at MGM—another episodic package linking seperate short stories after the fashion of "Quartet" and "Trio."

The first yarn, "Equilibrium," by Laszio Vajda, stars pretty French actress, Leslie Caron, the lovely little Italian Pier Angeli, and Fernando Lamas from South America.

"What I'm after," says Producer Franklin, "is three of the strongest published or unpublished love stories I can find—all different—but all fitting into a general theme."

Franklin hasn't yet selected the second and third stories—but top Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer players will be the stars.

Anthony Quinn plays the Portuguese ship captain in "The World In His Arms" with Gregory Peck. After that, Tony, Katherine and the three children pull up stakes in Hollywood to settle permanently on their forty-acre farm in Connecticut.

Tony fell in love with the stage when he played "Streetcar Named Desire" in Chicago and New York. He'll return to Hollywood only when a particularly juicy role tempts him.

Tony is sold on the Peck picture at Universal-International for two good reasons: He gets Raoul Walsh to direct him, and it's one of Rex Beach's best adventure stories.

Peter Lind Hayes does a funny take-off on Mario Lanza in his act with Mary Healy at Bill Miller's Riviera. This may or may not please Signor Lanza depending on how his sense of humor is holding up—and I hear it isn't holding up so well.

Pete signs a number called, "Mario Takes A Holiday" with zestful gestures and round, firm notes from the diaphram and (with the aid of a sound amplifier) sounds just like the great Lanza.

Pete got material for his parody from "The Great Caruso" and from his memories of Mario when they were both in the Army show, "Winged Pigeons.'

Blonde Virginia Field, looking like an angel in a pale pink cocktail dress, knocked them cold at Ocean-house the other night puffing away on a man-sized cigar!

Waving her stogie gaily—Virginia greeted several of her pals including Billie Dove and Bob Kenaston, the Ty Powers and Otto Preminger seated in other spots in the dining room.

Willard Parker, her best fella and her escort, was just as nonchalant about the cigar as was Virginia. The darn thing kept going out and he kept lighting it for her.

Hollywood in shorts: Selene Walters is doing the Miami night spots with Ed Judson, Rita Hayworth's ex.

Sonny Tufts is being a good boy in Europe—so far no run-ins with the gendarmes. He's on the beach at Eden Roc every day wearing vivid yellow swim trunks that match his hair.

Sylvia Sidney, whose divorce from Carleton Alsop became final last week, is getting lots of flowers from Stanley Madeiros, a Los Angeles florist.

The mother of a beautiful teenage actress is blowing her top about the telephone calls her tender flower is getting from an actor who has been out of his teens for about thirty years.

Maitre de Marcel Lamaze whipping up extra special dishes for Cesar Romera and Betty Furness at the King's.

Jane Russell has a scene in "Son of Pale Face" in which she poses as a man. Are they kidding?

Joyn Meredyth Lucas, writer-son of famed scripter, Bess Meredyth, marries Joan Winfield at the Little Catholic Church in the Valley tomorrow morning. The bride's family friend, Father Murphy, will officiate.

Bob Merrill sails August 10 for USO shows in Germany and England.

Henry King has set Hugh Marlowe for a top role in "Wait Till The Sun Shines Nellie" at 20th. Hugh's hoping his and K. T. Steven's baby will arrive before he begins the long location stint.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

STAG LINES

A Column for Men

Vaughn's comfortably cool

Lightweight Shirt

FASHION: Bandleader Vaughn Monroe (at left) keeps comfortably cool and crisply fresh-looking on humid days by wearing a zephyr weight sport shirt of sheer cotton. The whole shirt in his size—and he's a big man—weighs only three ounces!

Foot Notes: Men's socks with elastic arch supports woven right into the instep are now on the market. . . . "Dermatophytes," athlete's foot fungus, can stay in your shoes for as long as a year and a half and as long as 200 days on a bathroom floor. So take care.

Do You Know?: Caddies earn about $70,000,000 a year in this country?—and that doesn't include their tips . . . That basketball referees in Italy are empowered to arrest any spectator who disagrees in any way with their decisions? . . . That pickpockets in Alexandria, Egypt, have their own trade union—with the president getting a royalty on all m[illegible]ers' take?

Mail Bag: Milwaukee—"How about boutonnieres? Any special flowers go with certain outfits?" No, you can wear whatever you like, just so the blooms are not too big and flowery. Most men prefer cornflowers or white carnations with business clothes; dark red carnations for dinner clothes.

Clothes Care: You've probably heard the phrase "finger-pressing" without knowing what it means. It's a method of replacing or sharpening creases in a garment when it is damp from washing, rain or even humidity. Using as firm pressure as possible, run your fingers down the section you want creased, as shown at right.

Motor Notes: When you buy 10 gallons of gas in Canada, you get 12. They use the imperial gallon which is larger than ours . . . No matter how good the treads on your tires, they are only as strong as the side walls. So, try not to hit or rub curbs when parking your car.

Shavings: After you have washed your face with soap and water, apply skin bracer or after-shave lotion before shaving. They say it gives a smoother shave. . . . Brush-and-lather users should keep the lather runny and wet, not billowy and foamy.

Odd Items: Crooner Billy Eckstine gets more mail from men than he does from bobby soxers. Practically every one asks about the "Slim-Jim" ties and rolled collars that he introduced . . . This Week's "Pass the Cigars" to—author Harnett Kane, whose current novel, "The Scandalous Mrs. Blackford," is his 10th book in 10 years to hit the best-seller lists!

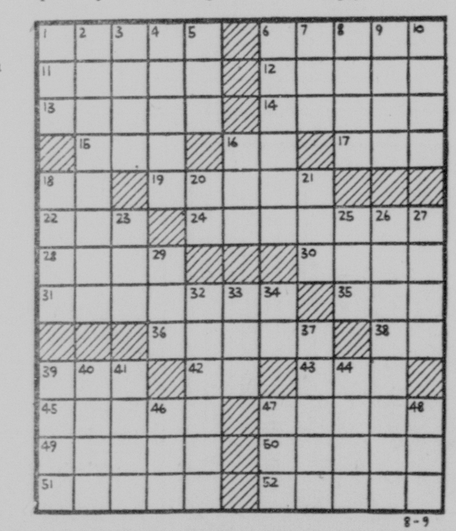
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

W K L H Z U H S U S T P D H T L H S U I V B L O

W T F P V U — L S T N O L I O T B O.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: LIKE MOONLIGHT ON THE TROUBLED SEA, BRIGHTENING THE STORM IT CANNOT CALM—MOORE.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our recent bereavement, the death of our husband, and father, James Barber. We also wish to thank those who donated the use of cars, sent floral tributes, the pallbearers and Rev. Wilbur E. Grose.

WIFE & CHILDREN

The family of Rev. Oliver P. Brann, Westernport, Md., acknowledges with grateful appreciation the kind expressions of sympathy extended by the host of friends, loved ones, ministers and churches. We are indeed thankful for the many floral tributes, the help rendered in the home and the cars donated. May God bless you all.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear son, Sgt. James D. Kenney, who was killed 8 years ago, August 9, 1943.
Do not ask if I miss him.
There's such a vacant place,
Oft I think I hear his footsteps,
And see his smiling face.
Days of sadness still come o're me,
Tears in silence often flow.
Memory keeps him ever near me,
Though he left me 8 years ago.
Sadly missed by
HIS MOTHER

Market Slips Irregularly Lower; Radio Issues Gain

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) —The stock market went through a series of mild reactions and adjustments today while slipping irregularly lower.

The moderate losses were considered only normal at this time. The usual loss ran from a few cents to between $1 and $2 a share with a handful going well beyond. Gains generally were small.

Both radio-television issues and motors nudged ahead in a labored way after the government disclosed plans to extend its controlled materials plan Oct. 1 to all manufacturers using steel, copper and aluminum. This was considered good news for makers of automobiles, refrigerators, radio and television sets, and other "hard" appliances. It means the government will try to assure they get all the metal the government thinks they need.

Rails, steel, oils, rubbers, and chemicals made major declines, and these were losses in utilities, air lines, motion pictures, metals, and distillers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $97.00 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails off 40 cents, and utilities off 10 cents.

The market was not as broad as yesterday—1,092 individual issues traded as compared with 1,122. There were 335 issues advancing and and 497 declining with 30 new highs and 10 new lows for the year.

Volume declined to 1,410,000 shares. Yesterday's volume was 1,810,000 shares.

Textile Union Gets 10-Cent Wage Increase

Celanese Pact Offer Accepted

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, (CIO), last night voted "overwhelmingly" to accept a 10-cent hourly wage increase included in a new offer by the Celanese Corporation.

U. S. Conciliation Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, who has been aiding negotiations this week, said a new holiday eligibility clause is another major point in the new contract, which becomes effective today.

The company made its offer as talks broke up late yesterday. The union's negotiating committee sent the proposal to a special membership meeting of the union with its unanimous endorsement.

Under terms of the new pact, hourly-paid workers will get an immediate four-cent increase. The other six cents will be subject to approval by the Wage Stabilization Board. If approved, the raise will be retroactive to today.

Reopening Possible

Also included, however, is a provision that the union may reopen wage negotiations once before the contract expires August 9, 1952, but they may not start until the pact has been in force six months. If no agreement is reached in 30 days of negotiation, the union may give notice of cancellation of the contract.

The holiday clause provides that all employes are eligible for paid holidays after working 30 days at the Amcelle plant. Formerly, only workers with seniority (a year and a day) were eligible.

Under the same provision, employes whose vacation period includes a holiday on which they normally would work will receive pay for a holiday not worked, plus vacation pay.

Other Changes Noted

Furlough procedures covering temporary employes have been eliminated, and the temporary dateline in the engineering department has been moved up from January 1, 1945 to January 1, 1948.

This means that all employes hired after the new date will become eligible to share the work as permanent employes.

Union officials said other minor administrative details of the contract covering about 4,600 hourly paid employes have been changed.

Union members packed Textile Hall last night to hear the company's proposals and the crowd overflowed into North Mechanic Street. Playford Aldridge, union president, said response was "overwhelmingly" in favor of adopting the offer.

Meeting Slated Today

Another meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m. today for workers who were unable to attend last night's session. They are expected to agree with the rest of the membership.

Negotiations, which have been conducted in earnest for the past several weeks, finally came to a deadlock last week. The union asked the U. S. Conciliation Service for help in breaking the stalemate, and Conciliation Commissioner Clevenger of Winchester, Va., came here Monday to referee at the sessions.

Herbert W. Payne, New York, vice president and synthetic yarn director for the International Union, conducted union negotiations.

The Local 1874 negotiating committee, headed by Aldridge as president, John G. Thomas, business manager, and Charles F. Davis, acting vice president, included:

Crime Probers Turn Attention To Maryland

Race News Service Talk Is Featured

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The head of a Maryland race news service admitted today his company looks upon Continental Press Service as a "daddy."

Leonard J. Matusky, president of the World-Wide News and Music Service, Inc., Baltimore, was questioned by Senate crime investigators concerning the relationship of regional race result distributors and Continental.

Starts Probe

The Senate crime committee, which today started a two-day probe into crime conditions in Maryland, has charged Continental controls many of its regional distributors and uses them as dummies. Continental is a nationwide distributor of racing news.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), who presided, asked Matusky why he relied on Tom Kelly, Continental general manager, in efforts to get money to pay bills owed by World-Wide News.

Isn't it the truth," Kefauver asked, "that while you have different companies all of you look to Continental and Kelly as the daddy of the whole thing?"

"I don't know about the others, but I do," Matusky replied.

Lead-Off Witness

Matusky, the lead-off witness as the Maryland crime hearing opened, gave this testimony after being recalled to the stand during the afternoon.

The committee also heard that police had found marihuana—described as a possible dope supply for Baltimore and Maryland—growing in West Virginia near the Maryland state line.

Thomas S. Smith, Maryland State Police investigator, testified the weed was growing wild near the south bank of the Potomac River.

The property owners and local residents, he added, were unaware of the nature of the plant.

Smith said the marihuana was found after police were tipped that the growth was a source for marihuana cigarets in Baltimore and Washington.

He expressed the belief that the weed is also to be found in nearby Western Maryland.

Accuses Company

Earlier, Senator Hunt (D-Wyo) accused the telephone company in Baltimore of "aiding and abetting' World-Wide News in supplying race results for illegal off-track betting.

Hunt, a member of the committee, said that if the telephone company, which he identified as the Chesapake and Potomac, a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., did not make its facilities available to Matusky's company, "off-track betting would be cut down."

In Baltimore, however, W. G. Morrel, vice president and general manager of the company, said "this company wants no part of the bookie business. We cooperate in every way we can with law enforcement agencies to keep such business off" the lines.

Matusky agreed with Hunt that he could not operate his business without telephones, but he said the radio plays an important part in distributing racing results.

When asked by Hunt if the telephone company was not "aiding and abetting your activity," Matusky said that 50 times as many persons are getting race results by radio.

Matusky said radio stations have stepped up their reporting of race results "since this started" and now are faster than his company in getting out the news.

WILL TEACH—Miss Sarah A. Giffin, Keyser, W. Va., will teach at Central High School in Lonaconing beginning next month. She is a 1951 graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Video Company, Potomac Edison Agree On Pact

Liability Insurance Will Be Carried

A contract from the Potomac Edison Company has been received and approved by the Potomac Valley Television Company, Inc., of Romney, W. Va., according to William H. Geppert, attorney for the TV company.

The contract licenses the television firm to use the Potomac Edison Company's utility poles, and at the same time, it indemnifies the TV company for any damages done to equipment belonging to the Potomac Edison Company, Geppert explained.

Geppert said the video company is required by the contract to carry liability insurance with an approved insurance company in the amount of $100,000 for any one person, or a limit of $300,000 for any one accident.

The TV firm is awaiting the contract from the C. and P. Telephone Company. Geppert said that it was promised for last week, but as yet has not been received.

The video company said it is ready to begin stringing coaxial cables as soon as the other contract is approved.

Meyers To Get Habeas Corpus Hearing Friday

Faces Plot Charge After Red Roundup

George A. Meyers, 38-year-old boss of the Maryland Communist Party, now in jail on conspiracy charges, will be given a habeas corpus hearing tomorrow in Baltimore.

Meyers, a Lonaconing native and former local labor leader, was arrested Tuesday in Baltimore as an FBI dragnet covering three eastern cities was closed.

He and five others who the FBI said were active in Communist Party work were charged with conspiring to overthrow the government by violence.

Meyers and Roy Wood, the party's 36-year-old District of Columbia chairman, are scheduled to receive hearings next Wednesday before U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart, who has set their bail at $75,000 each.

Last night in Baltimore Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut agreed to habeas corpus hearings for Meyers and Wood at 10 a. m. tomorrow. He granted the hearings at the request of Harold Buchman, chairman of the Maryland Progressive Party and attorney for Meyers.

Later, U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn said "we are prepared to meet any move they or their counsel might make."

Yesterday, the dragnet snagged another alleged Communist in Baltimore. He is Maurice Louis Braverman, 35.

The FBI said Braverman had never acknowledged membership in the Communist Party, but that he was its official attorney for District 4 (Maryland) and had conspired with the others.

Meyers, Wood and Braverman will await their hearings in Baltimore City Jail.

Meanwhile, in New York, bond for Philip Frankfeld, former Maryland party chairman, was set at $100,000 Frankfeld, 44, was transferred early this year to a chairmanship in Cleveland. He was arrested in New York.

Others caught in the dragnet were Frankfeld's wife, Regina, 41, in Cleveland, and Mrs. Dorothy Rose Blumberg, 47, in New York.

Ensor Appointed To Celanese Post In Canada

To Head CA Work At Edmonton Plant

The Celanese Corporation of America announced yesterday that Dorsey A. Ensor, Edgewood Drive, had been appointed superintendent of the Cellulose Acetate manufacturing section of the new plant being built in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Ensor has been employed at Amcelle since July, 1926. Originally engaged in the Main Laboratory as a chemist, he was transferred to the Cellulose Acetate section in September, 1929. He was made division superintendent of the section in November, 1942, and assistant superintendent March 1, 1950.

He was in responsible charge of several of the plant developments that have taken place at Amcelle during the past years, particularly in the recovery of acetic acid and the manufacture of acetic anhydride. He was also in charge of cellulose proprionate production prior to the termination of the operation in January, 1951.

Ensor graduated from Dickinson College with an A. B. degree in chemistry. Prior to joining Celanese, he was employed by the Consolidated Gas and Electric Company at Baltimore.

He received a 25-year service award watch on July 12, 1951.

McHenry Says Smile Serves As Cheap Cosmetic

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—Maryland's 4-H Club girls were told today "the cheapest cosmetic you can wear is a smile."

"It doesn't cost anything to put on, and it works more wonders than any lipstick or rouge," said James McHenry, assistant county agent of Garrett County.

About 1,400 4-H Club boys and girls are attending the annual 4-H Club Week here at the University of Maryland. McHenry's advice was given at a daily assembly.

Every girl has a personality, the Western Marylander added, and she should keep it her own. "Don't try to dress it up like a commercial advertisement."

Area 4-H Girls Awarded Prizes At College Park

Three Allegany County girls and another from Garrett County were announced yesterday among winners of exhibit prizes in the home management section at the annual 4-H Club Week on the University of Maryland campus in College Park.

Elizabeth Long, 18, RFD 1, Cumberland, received a blue ribbon for personal accounts bookkeeping. Nancy Long, 15, also RFD 1, was awarded a purple ribbon for her secretary's record book. Eleanor Smith, 15, RFD 2, was given a red ribbon for table setting.

The Garrett County girl, Judy Buckel, 10, of Grantsville, won two prizes. She was given a red ribbon for laundry bags and a blue ribbon for table setting.

A feature at yesterday's session was a talk by Miss Iva Mae Gross, assistant state 4-H Club leader in New York, who recently returned from work in Europe. She said that she found German farms 50 to 75 years behind agricultural development in the United States.

The main thing America can do to combat the inroads of Communism in Germany is to stay there and put over the Marshall Plan, she said.

T. W. Thompson, a member of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, cautioned an assembly of 4-H Club leaders and extension workers they must be cautious in conducting contests among the youngsters.

4-H Boys To Be Heard On Radio Broadcast

County Agent R. F. McHenry has been informed that Buddy Brendlin, Dawson; John Walker, Frostburg, and Cleon Folk, Grantsville, will be heard in the transcription.

Judge Upholds Board's Ruling On Jobless Pay

Compensation Lost By Delayed Appeal

A decision by the State Employment Security Board in refusing unemployment benefits to a former Celanese worker because she was late in appealing the claim examiner's decision was upheld yesterday by Associate Judge George Henderson in an opinion filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The case involved Mrs. Mary A. Tyree, LaVale, who had worked as a twist tester at the Celanese plant for nearly 17 years. Her position was abolished while she was on sick leave because of an operation.

On her return she was put to work in down twisting, which was a considerably harder position, according to Judge Henderson's opinion. It was too much for her and because no positions requiring only light work were available she agreed, after discussions with the superintendent of personnel in textile ware, to resign.

Mrs. Tyree filed a claim for unemployment benefits but the claim examiner held she had "voluntarily quit." Judge Henderson's opinion stated. She was sent a notice of this decision on January 10, 1950, and the notice warned her that any appeal must be taken within seven days. She did not file an appeal for more than a month.

The Employment Security Board denied her unemployment benefits and she appealed to Circuit Court.

Although Judge Henderson contends in his opinion that there is nothing in the evidence to indicate Mrs. Tyree "voluntarily quit" he concluded that from a legal standpoint the board was correct in holding Mrs. Tyree's appeal from the claim examiner was taken too late under the plain wording of the law. Coupled with the opinion was Judge Henderson's order dismissing the appeal.

4,278 Persons Examined By X-Ray Unit

The chest X-ray unit operated by the Allegany County Health Department and the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association has taken 4,278 chest x-rays of persons in the county.

This is 26 per cent of the 16,000 goal which is aimed at by the association. Last year, 8,837 persons were given chest X-rays, and it is hoped that this figure can be doubled in the next four weeks, officials said.

Records show that in Barton 146 X-rays were given as compared to 407 last year. In Lonaconing, there were 446 given this year as compared to 840 last year.

Midland shows 244 as compared to last year's 289. For the two days the unit was in Frostburg, 646 X-rays were given as compared to 848 given last year, and in Eckhart, 93 were given as compared to 243 last year. In LaVale, 162 were given this year as compared to 195 last year.

The unit was at the fair grounds for four days and 410 X-rays were taken. In Flintstone, 58 chests were X-rayed.

The unit was also at Zihlman for the first time this year and 92 persons showed a decline with 236 this year as compared to 203 last year.

During the three days the unit visited the vicinity of the A. and P. Supermarket, 954 X-rays were given, while on Virginia Avenue, 300 persons were X-rayed Monday.

The unit was at the B. and O. YMCA Tuesday and over 200 persons were X-rayed.

Figures show a decline in persons taking X-rays this year as compared to last year. Miss Jean Reinhard, executive secretary of the Tuberculosis Association blames the time of the year, the two weeks of races and the fact that some people do not realize that a chest X-ray is required each year to check the danger of tuberculosis.

Yesterday the chest X-ray unit was located at Oldtown Road in the vicinity of Perry's Market from 10 a. m. until noon and from 2 p. m. until 6 p. m. Today it will visit Maryland Avenue from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. and on Friday it will be located at the Queen City pavement from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.
